CHEAP MONEY DEMAND GROWS IN CONGRESS

Committees Ponder Inflation Bills.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 15.—[Special.]—The demand for cheap money is again being raised in steadily increasing volume as in the day of that other great depression which culminated in the free silver issue of 1896.

Again it is emanating from debtors, who cry out against being compelled to pay their debts in dollars worth considerably more than they were when the debts were contracted from farmers and other producers who would cheapen money to raise prices, from silver producing interests pleading for bimetalism as a means of restoring the former price level, and from business men who think that a certain amount of "controlled inflation" offers the quickest cure for the depression.

Consider Various Measures.

Congress committees are considering various measures providing for the cheapening of money and for other devices for inflating the currency, and predictions are heard that if congress does not heed the demands at this session the issue will be projected into the presidential election.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [radical Dem.], hailing from the silver producing state of Montana, is pressing for action on his bill, reminiscent of the tenents of William J. Bryan, for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. He frankly concedes his measure is inflationary.

Senator Key Pittman [Dem.], hailing from another silver producing state, Nevada, has revived another scheme of that earlier era, the purchase and coinage of not more than five million ounces of silver a month. He contends that his plan is not inflationary.

Leaders of the movement for full cash redemption of the world war veterans' adjusted service certificates are proposing to finance the 2 billion 400 million operation with an inflated currency and appealing for support to all groups advocating the cheapening of money as a means of halting and sending upward again the declining prices of commodities.

The Hoover administration so far has turned a deaf ear to all of these cheap money proposals, but has embarked upon a scheme of its own designed to check deflation. The Federal Reserve banking system has begun open market purchase of government securities at the rate of from 75 to 100 millions a week for the purpose of bringing about an expansion of credit which the administration believes already is operating to halt the decline of security and other prices and will result in due time in restoration of higher price levels generally.

Manipulate Prices Upward.

According to a widespread view in congress, Mr. Hoover resorted to this expedient to counteract the cheap money appeal of the bonus bill proponents and the drive launched by the Democratic leaders of the house for enactment of the Goldsborough bill providing for manipulation of prices upward by the Federal Reserve board.

Senator Wheeler says what we are suffering from is contraction of the money medium and that the remedy lies in inflation.

"I assert," said Senator Wheeler today, "and challenge intelligent criticism—not mere denial—of the following statements:

"1. The enactment of my bill into law will immediately thereafter nearly double the volume of the world's primary money, with the resultant increased conservative credit basis of twenty times the amount of primary money thus added to the world's stock.

Predicts Wheat Price Rise.

"2. Within one year after the enactment of this bill the world's price of wheat, cotton and all agricultural products would be more than trebled.

"3. The purchasing power of more than 50 per cent of the entire world's population now using silver as their sole yardstick of exchange and business transaction would be quadrupled; that is, the value of the silver stock

Action Today on 2 More Insull Units.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Receivers were appointed in the United States District court yesterday for the Middle West Utilities company and several of its subsidiaries. This was the first step in remodeling the vast financial pyramid built by Samuel Insull on a base of public utility concerns. It was understood that the second step will be taken today in the filing of bankruptcy actions against the two big Insull investment companies, Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and the Corporation Securities Company of Chicago.

These investment trusts originally made investments aggregating around $400,000,000 in the securities of the various Insull public utility holding and operating companies, including Middle West Utilities, the Commonwealth Edison company, the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. But these investments were made chiefly during the latter stages of the bull market and at high prices. Practically all of their investments have been pledged to secure bank loans and the drastic decline of prices has about wiped out their capital.

Three Receivers Named.

The three receivers named yesterday morning for the Middle West Utilities company by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley are Samuel Insull, chairman of the company; Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch, who are well known Chicago business men and civic leaders. They were appointed after attorneys for Middle West Utilities had consented to a petition for a receivership filed late Thursday afternoon on behalf of the Lincoln Printing company, which presented claims of $8,000 and alleged inability of the company to meet $10,000,000 of notes maturing June 1, and about $27,000,000 of bank loans.

After their appointment the three receivers met in the Middle West Utilities offices and issued the following statement:

"The receivers have accepted appointment with deep appreciation of their responsibilities and the personal sacrifices they must make to work out the solution of the affairs of the company. At the meeting the receivers weighed what was to be done and outlined a plan of immediate operation which embraces all that is necessary to do in the discharge of their obligations to the court."

Receiver for Subsidiaries.

During the day Judge Lindsey also appointed receivers for the United Public Service Company of New Jersey and the United Public Utilities and Southern United Gas companies. These are subsidiaries of Middle West Utilities, with Martin J. Insull, its president, also president of the United Public Service company. Samuel W. White was appointed receiver of the latter company.

The appointment of the three Chicagoans as receivers for Middle West followed a conference with Judge Lindley and attorneys. Mr. Insull, Mr. Hurley and Mr. McCulloch appeared in the courtroom shortly after the formal hearing on the petition. After the conference in his chambers, Judge Lindley announced the appointments.

Statement by Court.

"The court is under no obligation to anybody for making these appointments," he said. "It is the duty of the court to help unravel these properties that affect thousands of people. The court must be free from any ties. The court is free.

"I am of the opinion that the appointments are not improper. Mr. Insull has had long and intimate familiarity with this company since its organization. In a sense, it may be said that it is his child. He is inextricably bound with it. Mr. Hurley, I am informed, has no ties whatever with the company. He has had a long record of service in influential business and industrial enterprises and also as a public servant. He will be a valuable aid to the court. Mr. McCulloch is also in the same position. He, too, is not connected with any of the Insull companies. I expect an impartial administration of the assets of this company. I can always change the personnel of the receivership if they show no coöperation."

Appoints Counsel.

Then Judge Lindley appointed the law firms of Schuyler, Dunbar & Weinfeld and Burry, Johnstone, Peters & Dixon as counsel for the receivers. Bonds for the receivers were fixed at $100,000 each.

Both Mr. McCulloch and Mr. Hurley have figured prominently for years in

VERSATILE BEN'S LETTER WRITING PROVES UNDOING

Ben Williams was versatile. With ingenious ease he could be a long lost son, a missing husband, or a roving brother. His versatility paid well; since Tuesday he had resided at the Congress hotel under the name of Joseph Labell. However, Williams' residence last night was not in a hotel, but in the detective bureau.

It was a professional habit of Williams to learn the life secrets of some hobo who possessed respectable background. He would then represent himself by mail as that hobo, correspond with the family, and eventually receive railroad fare or other funds.

Recently Mrs. Blanche White of Rapid River, Mich., received a letter postmarked in Chicago. On April 10, 1915, her 4 year old son, "Stubby," was kidnaped. The missive from Chicago warmed her heart. The writer described himself as the missing son, now 21 years old.

Mrs. White sent a small amount of money. The writer was Williams.

The next venture of the versatile Williams occurred early this week when he wrote a pathetic letter to Mrs. Ernest Anderson of Bowbells, N. D., He represented himself as her husband, ill, in need of funds.

The answer came yesterday. It was from the sheriff at Bowbells. It stated:

SPEEDY ARRIVAL OF BAIL MONEY ADDS TO WOES

Richard Hansen, 38 years old, 566 Central avenue, Highland Park, was arrested last night by Motorcycle Policemen Eugene Sanford and Fred Eichler for speeding 42 miles an hour in Asbury avenue, Evanston. At the Evanston station he was told he needed $25 cash bail for his release.

"That's easy, I've got a friend who'll bring the money to me right away," announced Hansen lightly. He went to the telephone and called up the friend, Alfred Parerti, 38, of Glenview.

"My friend will be down right away with the $25 bail," informed Hansen as he settled down to wait.

Policemen Sanford and Eichler departed. Fifteen minutes later they returned. With them was Parerti. Hansen beamed happily. Parerti returned a wry smile.

"You sure made fast time to get here," observed Hansen.

"Yes, too fast," returned Parerti. He took out $25 from his pocket which he had brought for Hansen's release. Then, to Hansen's disappointment, Parerti applied it for his own release.

Parerti had been arrested by Policemen Sanford and Eichler for speeding 35 miles an hour in West Railroad avenue while hurrying to bail out Hansen.

Mayor Lops 1,492 from City Pay Rolls

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

It was learned yesterday that Mayor Cermak ordered 1,492 city employés cut from the pay rolls shortly before he boarded the train Thursday night for a three day rest at French Lick. The order is to be effective today. The resultant saving is estimated at $115,000 a month.

The mayor took with him on his trip a large folder of information on other city jobs and intimated that still more will be severed from the pay roll next week if the county and state conventions do not interrupt the preparation of the list. The mayor explained that he is trying to make the eliminations where the least injury to the service will result.

Slashed from Year Ago.

Opponents of the city administration are charging that some of these employés could just as well have been laid off before the primary, but according to the administration's figures the primary pay roll this year, if any, is trivial in comparison with that of last year.

Corporate	$2,912,386	$4,734,627
Water	358,366	458,781
Vehicle	85,963	227,014
Traction	6,587	120,924
Bond funds	41,949	161,745
Library	93,711	160,139
T. B. sanitarium	102,223	130,208
Capital accounts	53,548	228,031
Totals	$3,633,833	$6,221,539

"I firmly believe that the record vote of the Democratic primary was, in part, a protest against public spending," said Mayor Cermak before his departure. "The cost of government is too high. It must be cut.

"In some wards it is estimated that as high as 2,000 Republicans tried to vote the Democratic ticket, and I believe that many of those were persons who wanted to protest against high taxes."

The mayor went on to say that he has already reduced the city's pay rolls substantially. He said that between April 1, 1931, and April 1, 1932, all of the city's pay rolls aggregated $54,626,019, while in the previous year the total was $61,763,030.

Canal Board Takes Action.

The sanitary district trustees at their last board meeting ordered all department heads to submit recommendations within a week for a reduction of the district's pay roll, which carries about 1,400 employés.

"Economy is imperative," said Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the district's finance committee. "The stagnant conditions in the security market have prevented the district from going forward with its construction program, as required by the United States government, and it is necessary that we trim the pay roll to the bone."

"It looks as if we may have to quit all construction because of the lack of money," said Thomas J. Bowler, president of the district. "We have until 1933 to complete the sewage disposal program and inability to sell bonds the last half of last year slowed us down considerably."

In the district's report to the United States Supreme court presented recently, on the status of sewage disposal construction plants, some of its troubles were enumerated. The district has been unable to sell the $36,000,000 bond issue authorized by the legislature in June, 1931. Of the $27,000,000 bond issue authorized by the 1929 legislature $7,614,000 remains unsold.

Barber Clips 47 Year Old Mustache; He Asks $2,000

Providence, R. I., April 15.—(AP)—Alleging that his mustache, which had "grown continuously and unclipped for more than 47 years," had been closely cropped when he ordered only a shave and a haircut, Francesco Mastrostefano, 70, of South Kingstown, has filed a $2,000 action of trespass for assault and battery against Philip Reitano, Peace Dale barber. Mastrostefano's declaration charged that the ends of his mustache "were cultivated and trained in shapely curls for the adornment and protection of his face."

Darrow Is Ill; MassieMurder Trial Delayed

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

HONOLULU, April 15.—Honolulu's absorbing serial drama of rape and politics, murder, insanity, and social cleavage, known as the Fortescue-Massie murder case, was interrupted today by the illness of Clarence Darrow of Chicago, chief counsel for the defense. The trial, however, is expected to be resumed tomorrow morning with the testimony of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., telling how he avenged the assault on his 21 year old wife, Thalia.

Darrow's illness was announced by Attorney George S. Leisure, his associate, and was described to the court as a slight intestinal disorder. The 75 year old lawyer was asleep at his hotel this morning while a sensation hunting crowd was waiting in Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis' courtroom for the continuation of the dramatic narrative of the young naval officer. His story to the jury had been told to the point where he said his mind became affected after his wife's rape and before the action which resulted in the death of Joseph Kahahawai, young Hawaiian athlete, named by Mrs. Massie as the one who broke her jaw while she pleaded for mercy and who attacked her in a secluded spot off a dark road near Waikiki beach Sept. 12 last.

Insanity Plea Is New.

The legal issue as to the insanity defense of Lieut. Massie may interrupt the story of who fired the fatal shot. It is certain to come soon, as Judge Davis has asked lawyers for both sides to submit legal authorities for this kind of testimony. This opens a wide field, new to courts here, as to the types of insanity and as to the specific reactions of this defendant. The prosecution also wants Darrow to tell the jury now what he proposes to claim as a defense in this particular. The defense argues that there is no need to be specific at this time, as the plea of "not guilty" opens the door to anything the defense wishes to introduce without advance notice.

Dr. James Orbison and Dr. Edward H. Williams, alienists from Los Angeles, brought here secretly by the defense ten days ago, were in court this morning in seats in front of the witness stand and were apparently prepared to study Massie's reactions in preparation for their own testimony or for the guidance of the defense.

Alienists for Prosecution.

The prosecution had Dr. Robert Faus and Dr. Stanley D. Porteus in court. Dr. Faus is the Honolulu county physician and Dr. Porteus is a well known psychologist from the University of Hawaii. It is uncertain what rôle they will play. They are not specialists in this line and the prosecutors have hinted they may wish to import alienists of their own.

Jurors, as well as spectators, were keenly disappointed when the adjournment was announced.

Many spectators, including women of the high Honolulu social register, paid from $5 to $50 for seats, the money being given to unemployed who stood in line for them all night. Others not so extravagant held their own places at the courthouse all night. The lines were patrolled by police. People brought camp stools, dozed, or drank coffee and fought mosquitoes.

New Line Forms.

As soon as court adjourned today a new line began to form in front of the judicial building, as only about 100 of the thousands who wish to see the show are able to obtain seats.

The judge today warned the attorneys to keep away from the inside rail of the courtroom all those who have no business in the case. Lieut. Massie waited for the new ordeal, tense and pale, but his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, seemed relieved and her haggard expression had disappeared. She apparently found that

WYOMING PAIR FOR TEST VOTE ON PROHIBITION

Repeal Pleas to Committee.

The head of the J. C. Penney Co. yesterday called on President Hoover and told him that in a sixty day trip through the country he had found the people were demanding a nation-wide vote on the question of repealing the eighteenth amendment. (Story on page 2.)

Washington, D. C., April 15.—(AP)—Wyoming's two senators today issued a joint statement declaring in favor of resubmission of prohibition to the people. They are Kendrick, a Democrat, and Carey, a Republican.

The Kendrick-Carey declaration said: "We are for resubmission of the prohibition question to the people of the several states. We are unalterably opposed to a return to the saloon with its attendant evils. We would consider favorably a plan of federal control and regulation of the liquor traffic under which the rights of the dry states would be fully protected."

Senator Kendrick voted for the 18th amendment and for every enforcement and supply measure to back it up. Senator Carey was elected governor in 1918 on a dry platform. In his 1930 senatorial campaign he favored a referendum.

JUST 13 WORDS NEEDED.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 15.—[Special.]—Senator Robert F. Wagner, wet Democrat from New York, today urged all wets in congress to get together and render a collective verdict on present prohibition in these thirteen words:

SEN. R. F. WAGNER [Fotograms Photo.]

"The 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States is hereby repealed."

Such an amendment to the constitution, he told the senate judiciary subcommittee holding hearings on a multitude of repeal and resubmission resolutions, is "so simple, even the most stupid could understand it," and "so basic that various ramifications proposed by senators and representatives would have to be founded on it."

Wants Repeal and Safeguards.

America wants repeal, the New York senator argued before the subcommittee of which Senator Blaine, radical Republican and Wisconsin wet, is chairman. But America also wants three safeguards to that repeal. They are: State responsibility for liquor laws; protection of the dry states against the encroachment of the wet states; and positive protection against the saloon.

"It is impossible to incorporate these three factors into one bill. Anxiety to do so is the cause of the disagreements among the wets."

If, however, his thirteen word repeal amendment were written into the constitution, Senator Wagner pointed out, the first corrollary—state responsibility for liquor laws, would follow automatically. For the question of liquor control would, automatically, revert to its pre-prohibition status, that is, of state or local option. The two other safeguards, he maintained, would be taken care of by laws and regulations based on public sentiment.

Disagree on Method.

Other witnesses agreed with the senator's plea for repeal, but differed with him as to the specific method of securing it.

Harry F. Klinefelter of Baltimore, representing the local self-government league, praised the "golden rule amendment" proposed by Senator Tydings [Dem., Md]. This amendment, which permits the "do unto others as you would they would do unto you" attitude, on local liquor, retains the 18th amendment but amends it to make it operative only in a state which specifically votes to come under it. And both wet and dry states could at any time, elect to change their moistness or dryness.

This flexibility is an excellent threat to extremists, Mr. Klinefelter believes.

Representative Hull, who had started the argument, finished it by asserting that his recent defeat in the primaries was not on the prohibition question. "We were both wets, but the other fellow was a little bit wetter. I know the sentiment of the people back home, and passage of this beer bill would be a step in the direction of their wishes."

Then he gave this advice to the wets:

"Don't ridicule a dry who sneaks a drink, because they all do. Why, I don't believe there's ten per cent in the senate or congress"—turning to the committee—"who are dry. I mean really dry. I congratulate them. To obey that law would be un-American."

But Miss M. Louise Gross, speaking for the women's moderation union, thought the Tydings plan was "merely a glorified Raskob plan," and she said the women she worked with, the Main street women, would prefer to "cut out the 18th amendment, as one would cut out a cancer."

She predicted that if the drys formed a third party, the wets would go out and form a fourth party. "And we'd get a lot of rich people from both the Republican and Democratic parties, too," she insisted.

College Dry Turns Wet.

Senator Bingham [Rep., Conn.], who also has several proposals before the committee, presented a letter from Dr. Ernest M. Hopkins, president of Dartmouth college, a former dry, who wrote of his conviction that repeal "is fundamentally vital to the welfare of the country at large."

Over in the house today prohibition caused a pro-beer, anti-administration fight which started when Representative William E. Hull [Rep., Ill.] remarked that he believed that the President would sign the beer bill if congress approved.

"Humph," snorted Representative Black [Dem., N. Y.], "the President is not only the nation's foremost dry; he's supernaturally dry. He made members of the Wickersham commission sign a dry statement in direct contravention of the facts they had unearthed.

Just One Word, This Time.

"All we need is one word from the President that he would sign a beer bill and we could raise half a billion dollars. But instead, all we hear from the White House is furloughs and pay cuts. If President Hoover would sign the beer bill we would give the Anti-Saloon league and the racketeer a furlough."

When Representative McGugin, dry Republican from dry Kansas, protested that the proposed 2.75 per cent beer was not nonintoxicating, Representative Stafford, wet Republican from wet Wisconsin, shouted out that he'd pledge his honor that his cellar full of pre-prohibition beer, far stronger than 2.75, would not make a man drunk.

Amid the general hub-bub of laughter and argument, Representative Holaday [Rep., Ill.] suggested that Representative Blanton, very dry Democrat from Texas, go over to Mr. Stafford's cellar and make a test.

Said Mr. Blanton: "I've already passed on Mr. Blanton's beer."

"It would hang like a sword of Damocles," he explained, "over the heads of the lawless wets in the wet states and over the tyrannical drys in dry states."

ROBBED OF SLEEP BY CHORUS OF 66 DOGS, HE SAYS

Mrs. Dorothy Eagles, owner of the North Shore Animal shelter at 5352 Broadway, was charged in a warrant obtained before Municipal Judge Justin H. McCarthy yesterday with being the "keeper of dogs which unlawfully disturbed other persons on April 14." Three weeks ago Mrs. Eagles was granted a jury trial on a charge of maintaining a nuisance.

The latest complainant is George H. Mathews, whose bedroom window at 535 Broadway is just above the skylights of the dog shelter. "Every morning at 4 o'clock 66 dogs start a chorus," said Mathews as he signed the warrant, "and it keeps up until noon. Maybe some people can sleep through those howls, but I can't."

Edward Topp, owner of a store and 14 flat building at 5338 Broadway, appeared in court with Mathews. "Because of those dogs, there are two vacant flats in my building now," said Mr. Topp. "There's no telling where this will end."

POLICE FIND SIX AUTOS PLUNGED IN QUARRY POOL

State Highway Policemen Fred Lintner and Van Langingham yesterday investigated an abandonment quarry on route 4 A, a mile and a half north of Lemont, and discovered six automobiles had been dropped into the water there. Two of the cars, both of late models, were recovered, but the police had been unable late last night to identify the motor and serial numbers. The other cars are to be pulled out of the quarry today. Grappling hooks will be used to drag the bottom on the possibility that murder victims may have been sunk with the cars.

Tainted Water Is Blamed for 600 Cases of Illness

Santa Paula, Cal., April 15.—(AP)—Dr. J. A. King, county health officer, says contamination of the city water supply, possibly by the breaking through of an underground and poisonous mineral stream into Santa Paula creek, source of the supply, probably was the cause of the illness of 600 residents here. Bacteria tests of the water are being made. Most of the victims were well on the way to recovery today.

PENNEY CO. HEAD TELLS HOOVER OF WET SENTIMENT

Growing in All Sections, Sams Reports.

Washington, D. C., April 15.—[Special.]—Fresh evidence of the growing wet sentiment in this country was called to the attention of President Hoover today by E. C. Sams of New York, president of the J. C. Penney Company, Inc., national chain store operators. He told the President that during a two months' trip he had found a growing sentiment in favor of submission of the prohibition question to a popular vote.

The opinion brought by Mr. Sams helped to swell a constantly increasing list of personal reports on the growth in wet sentiment made during calls at the White House. Whether these evidences of increased national wetness—some of them related by cabinet officers and Republican political leaders—will have the effect of winning presidential support for a moist plank binding the party to submission of the eighteenth amendment repeal to the electorate is a question which arouses national interest.

Advocate Moist Plank.

While cabinet officers and Republican political leaders have predicted the Republican party will have to write a moist plank into its platform at Chicago in June if it expects to have a chance for victory, President Hoover gives no new indication of his stand on the prohibition question.

"It is my impression," Mr. Sams said, "that there is a growing feeling on the part of the public that the question of repealing the eighteenth amendment should be submitted to the people. I found a more decided conviction that a national referendum on prohibition should be held. Certainly sentiment for a vote on prohibition is growing."

Mr. Sams called at the White House following a trip during which he had observed conditions in all sections of the country. He said that he believed business morale had improved somewhat.

"Going Back to Work."

"I told the President," Mr. Sams said, "that in my contacts with 700 of my business associates during the last sixty days I found a decided improvement in the feeling of men everywhere. I do not mean to say, however, that they feel we have turned the corner or that business is improving, or that there is anything fundamentally tending to improvement. I found business men everywhere showing a willingness to accept things as they are and to make the best of the situation. I think this is one of the most helpful factors in the present situation. In other words, business men have accepted the situation as it is, and are going back to work. They expect business will pick up fast when the turn comes.

"The business in my organizations is keeping up extremely well. While our total volume is off a small per cent, our sales are considerably greater than a year ago."

JUDGE SABATH FAINTS WHILE HOLDING COURT

Judge Joseph Sabath of the Superior court fainted on the bench yesterday while hearing a case in his courtroom in the county building.

He was assisted to his chambers by his bailiff, Si Lewis, who summoned the judge's physician, Dr. Arthur Richter. Dr. Richter stated that Judge Sabath was suffering from nervous indigestion, brought on by overwork. He and Bailiff Lewis took the jurist to his home in the Chicago Beach hotel, where he was ordered to rest for a week.

Judge Sabath recently celebrated his 62d birthday, and has been on the bench for 16 years. He has spent 10 years of that time hearing divorce cases, and has a national reputation for his conduct of such matters. He has reconciled several thousand couples whose marital troubles brought them before him.

Coolidge Takes 13 Trout on Opening Day of Season

Simsbury, Conn., April 15.—(AP)—Calvin Coolidge carried back 13 trout weighing 10 pounds to his home in Northampton, Mass., tonight after three hours of fishing in a brook on the estate of former United States Senator George P. McLean. Following a custom of several years the former President came here with Mrs. Coolidge for the first day of the trout season.

TWO UNGENTLEMANLY DRY AGENTS LOSE JOBS, ANOTHER FACES QUIZ

Minneapolis, Minn., April 15.—[Special.]—Discharge of one prohibition agent, suspension of another and investigation of a shooting Wednesday in Duluth involving a third, were announced today by Robert D. Ford, northwest prohibition administrator.

The discharged agent is Roland C. Peko of Mason City, Ia. Administrator Ford said Peko's removal was precipitated by "conduct unbecoming an officer."

C. R. Hicks, Fargo agent, has been suspended on similar charges. The suspension, Ford said, is tantamount to discharge. The case is being reviewed now by the prohibition department in Washington.

The Duluth agent, Matt Vitala, fired at a fugitive, who escaped when he walked into a federal "plant." Though Vitala fired only one bullet, according to reports from Duluth, it just missed the head of a real estate man who was walking past. The fugitive escaped.

Mr. Ford said today he had a long distance telephone call in for Vitala but the latter is "away on a job" and has not yet communicated with his chief. Mr. Ford said he will demand a full report on the incident as soon as Vitala returns.

Liquor Raider Shot.

Hugo, Okla., April 15.—(AP)—Henry Jackson, federal prohibition agent, was shot during a liquor raid today at Frogville, Okla. A Negro, Robert Smith, was hunted for the shooting.

Wounded During Raid.

Opelousa, La., April 15.—(AP)—A federal prohibition agent was slightly wounded today in a gun battle between a squad of officers and rum runners near the town of Villa Platte. After the fight agents arrested nine men and seized 950 gallons of beer and three automobiles.

Girl Must Die for Slaying of Lover's Wife and Son

ISTANBUL, April 15.—(AP)—The Adana Criminal court sentenced a Turkish girl named Aische to death today for the murder of the wife and son of the man she loved. It is the second death sentence to bet meted out to a woman in Turkey.

CANNON ACCEPTS BYRD'S PLAN FOR VOTE ON DRY LAW

Outlines His Views to the Anti-Saloon League.

Richmond, Va., April 15.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr., militant dry leader, today announced himself in "substantial agreement with the basal features" of former Gov. Harry F. Byrd's proposal to make possible a vote on prohibition.

BISHOP JAMES CANNON.

Bishop Cannon asserted, however, his vigorous opposition to any party declaration on prohibition and his belief that the constitutional amendment suggested by Byrd should make possible a vote on all other amendments as well as the eighteenth. Byrd, at the Jefferson day dinner of Democrats, proposed a constitutional amendment which would permit congress, by two-thirds vote, to place the eighteenth amendment before the people at a popular election, each state to vote as a unit and three-fourths of the states necessary to make a change.

Reject Smith-Raskob Plan.

"Speaking only for myself, I find myself in substantial agreement with Gov. Byrd in the basal features of his statement," Bishop Cannon told the Virginia Anti-Saloon league, in convention here.

"I agree with him in his declared opposition to any referendum not conducted under the law of the land. I agree with him in his declared opposition to any plan that will permit the people of a particular state to vote that state out of the control of the constitution of the United States while the other states remain under the constitution, which is a flat rejection of the Smith-Raskob plan.

"Furthermore, I agree with the basal elements of his proposed constitutional amendment, namely 'that the congress whenever two-thirds of both houses deem it necessary, shall propose any amendment or repeal of the eighteenth amendment' provided that such amendment must be voted upon and adopted by a majority of the electors of three-fourths of the states before becoming a part of the constitution.

Still Requires Ratification.

"Gov. Byrd reserves the idea and the purpose of the framers of the constitution as to the proper relationship of the states and federal government. It still requires ratification by three-fourths of the states acting as separate, independent, sovereign units, thus preserving their identity in the scheme of the national government.

"If Gov. Byrd would provide in his proposed amendment that ratification shall be by legislatures, or by the majority vote of the people as each state may elect, I should favor a proposal to substitute direct vote of the people for the present alternative of vote by conventions elected by the people.

"Certainly I favor the submission of any constitutional amendment to the electors of the several states if they so desire it. But, if the people of any state do not wish an election, it would be possible for the legislature of any state to act."

PRINCE OF WALES' DOCTOR PRESCRIBES BEER, WINE AS FOOD

LONDON, April 15. — (AP) — Sir Thomas Herder, physician to the prince of Wales, praised wine and beer in a speech tonight, declaring them to be "valuable foods."

"The willing and happy worker will get more work done and do it better than the unwilling and discontented worker," he said. "It is in this direction that alcoholic beverages like beer make their chief contribution to economic efficiency. Appetite is stimulated by a moderate use of such a beverage as beer and at the same time zest is given to life which results in larger and richer activities." Sir Thomas had this to say of Chicago:

"Chicago has given up saloons. Devilish places they were, too, for I have seen them—combinations of bar and brothel and gambling hell. But is Chicago a safer place to live after this has happened? Or a good example for London to follow? God forbid!"

FLYER KILLED WHEN SHIP CRACKS UP.

Prescott, April., April 15.—[Special.]—E. E. Fenerheim, 38, Standard Oil lubricating engineer of Phoenix, was instantly killed this afternoon when he attempted a forced landing on Mingus mountain highway, 25 miles northwest of Prescott.

(It may start with one tooth)
Pyorrhea Will Get a Lot of Teeth Before It Stops

Why not face this pyorrhea business frankly? Half the adult teeth lost are caused by pyorrhea. Four out of every five people past the age of forty have this dangerous gum trouble. It comes so stealthily that you do not know you have it. It starts at the gum line and works toward the tooth sockets.

Pyorrhea may now be undermining the structure of your gums and teeth. It often goes about its quiet destruction for many, many years before it is either seen or felt. But once it does take a tooth—look out for the others!

Facts are facts. Ignoring pyorrhea doesn't pay. You can't "fool" yourself about it. You simply must have professional dental advice about twice a year and when you take up home treatment seriously, it will pay to use a toothpaste invented by a dentist. Dr. R. J. Forhan devoted a lifetime to pyorrhea treatment. His professional formula is embodied in Forhan's Toothpaste. It's the finest toothpaste money can buy, with an extra-protection feature in its special formula. Don't let pyorrhea get started. Use prevention. Use Forhan's. Use it twice a day—old and young. At all drug stores.

THREE KREUGER AGENTS SEIZED; CHARGE FRAUD

Trio Accused of Forging Balance Sheet.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 15.—(AP)—Three directors of enterprises affiliated with those of Ivar Kreuger, who killed himself in Paris March 12, were arrested by the police today on charges growing out of the investigation into Kreuger's affairs.

Those seized are Carl Lange, an accountant and director of the Garanta company of Amsterdam; Director Sven Huldt of the Nederlandska Bank for Scandinavian Commerce, Amsterdam; Victor Holm, described as a director, but whose particular connection with the Kreuger interests was not explained.

All Charged with Fraud.

It was charged the three men had falsified a balance sheet and a profit and loss account to give the impression the position of the Kreuger companies was much better than it actually was.

The accused men also were charged with assisting Mr. Kreuger to commit criminal acts by the manipulation of accounts and of acting as directors of obscure companies, formed for the purpose of making possible fraudulent transfers between the books of various concerns, thereby concealing the real Kreuger position.

The investigators who have been looking into the Kreuger interests since the suicide of the industrialist, which caused a business crisis in Sweden and impelled the government to declare a temporary moratorium for the Kreuger & Toll company, have not yet determined whether any use was made of the forged Italian bonds recently disclosed. They expressed, however, a belief that those bonds had been printed in Sweden.

Large Issues of Stock.

It was revealed that Kreuger & Toll since 1928 had issued shares and debentures in excess of 900,000,000 kroner [normally $241,000,000], and that in the same period the Swedish Match company had issued 400,000,000 kroner [normally $107,000,000], and the International Match corporation 350,000,000 kroner [normally $93,000,000]. A report by auditors stated that irregularities began in 1925.

According to the charges against the three men under arrest, the Garanta company of Amsterdam, of which Lange was one of the directors, was acquired in 1925. The books showed most complicated transfers among the Garanta, the Swedish Match company, and other concerns.

A contract with the Polish finance ministry allegedly was signed in July, 1925, in Warsaw by Mr. Kreuger and a director named Glowacki.

Polish Contract Suspected.

Under this contract the Garanta was to be entrusted with the retail sale of matches in Poland, according to the investigation, but it was asserted that such sales never materialized and there was nothing to prove the contract bona fide.

The investigators also announced they had discovered a contract, supposedly made in 1925 between Gen. Primo de Rivera, Spanish dictator, and Mr. Kreuger, who represented the Continental Investment company. This contract was said to have provided, among other things, for a loan of 180,000,000 pesetas [normally $36,000,000] to Spain in return for a match monopoly to become effective two years later.

The men arrested will be arraigned before an examining magistrate tomorrow. It was understood that Lange acted as a private inspector at the Kreuger concerns in Paris and Amsterdam and that Holm represented some of the subsidiary companies.

OPEN CAMPAIGN TO PASS POOR RELIEF BONDS

A campaign to crystallize public sentiment in favor of a state bond issue of $20,000,000 to forestall an added tax of 30 cents on each $100 of assessed value on property throughout Illinois was opened yesterday by the civic federation. The bond issue will be voted on at the November election.

After privately subscribed relief funds had been exhausted last winter the legislature authorized the tax levy against which tax warrants were sold to provide additional funds. The legislature provided that the warrants should be redeemed either by a 30 cents tax on each $100 or by a bond issue. If the bond issue is approved the principal and interest will be paid out of gasoline tax funds allotted to counties sharing in the relief funds.

"Thus," said the federation bulletin, "the bonds will not be a burden to any property in the state, and counties will suffer temporary curtailment of local road building only to the extent that they have drawn upon the state relief fund."

Set Hearing on Pastor's Plan to Found New Church

A hearing on the right of the Rev. Paul W. Luecke, resigned pastor of the Bethlehem Lutheran church, Evanston, to establish another Lutheran church in the neighborhood, will be held on April 24 by the church council and the congregation. The hearing was scheduled for last Thursday night but just before the meeting was to open the clergyman fainted. The Rev. Mr. Luecke submitted his resignation two weeks ago, explaining that his action was due to lack of harmony in the church. Several members of the congregation asserted, however, that he had too many outside business interests.

COUNTY BOARD APPROVES TAX DEADLINE DELAY

Expect Assembly to Ratify Action.

The county board yesterday adopted a resolution extending the delinquency date on 1930 taxes to April 23. The action is expected to be ratified by the legislature when it reconvenes next week.

The deadline had originally been set for yesterday. County Treasurer McDonough asked an extension, principally because his office has not the facilities to handle a last minute rush of taxpayers. In former years 200 substations were established in banks throughout the county to take tax payments. This year banks are not accepting taxes.

Although the date was extended, taxpayers in large numbers continued to make their 1930 payments. The rush was not as great as that of Thursday when 25,000 bills were paid. Up to Thursday night the office had collected $44,733,696—$29,850,831 in real estate and $14,882,864 on personal property taxes. Edward J. McCabe, secretary to the treasurer, estimated that the collections of yesterday would bring the total to approximately $50,000,000.

Railroad Pays $1,609,485.

The largest bill of the day was paid by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad. C. I. Sturgis, vice president, and A. E. Patten, tax agent of the road, paid $1,609,485, of which $846,536 was in tax warrants for previous years and the remainder in a check for $762,949.

For the Baltimore and Ohio and the Chicago and Alton railroads F. P. Huntington, general manager, paid $1,115,050, of which $769,050 was in cash and $346,000 in tax warrants. The International Harvester company paid $636,310 in real estate taxes. Sears, Roebuck & Co. paid $500,095 on 214 parcels of real estate. The Commonwealth Edison company paid $1,000,000.

Plan Assessment Reform.

County Assessor J. L. Jacobs will meet with real estate men, civic leaders and officials today to discuss preparation of a unified program of reformation of the personal property assessing machinery. The program is to be presented to the legislature.

The county board yesterday indicated that it will refuse to make its annual payment of $15,000 to the Chicago regional planning commission. A request for the money was made by Maj. George A. Quinlan, county highway superintendent. Commissioners Amelia Sears and Mrs. Edward J. Fleming opposed the appropriation. Other commissioners expressed themselves against the appropriation, but no vote was possible because a quorum was lacking. The measure came up as the last item of the board's business. It was continued until Tuesday.

The Illinois Supreme court heard oral arguments in the proceedings brought by Mrs. Lillian Cesar to enjoin collection of 1930 Cook county taxes. County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki sustained her action, on the ground that the assessment was fraudulent. Attorneys Roy D. Keehn and Maurice Schaeffer asked the Supreme court to sustain Judge Jarecki.

The case was taken under advisement.

To Collect Petitions

New York, April 15. — [Special.] — Ruth Nichols, after one false start when engine trouble forced her to descend, took off this afternoon at Floyd Bennett field on a 3,000 mile good will flight in which she plans to visit the leading cities of the east and middle west on behalf of the National Council of Women. Her first stop was to be Pittsburgh.

Miss Nichols is flying Col. Clarence Chamberlain's Lockheed Diesel plane, the same ship in which she recently set a new women's altitude record.

Miss Nichols is to collect petitions gathered by club women asking foreign governments to send representatives to the International Congress of Women at Chicago in 1936.

Urges Changing Name of Clark Street to Broadway

Advantages of changing the name of Clark street south of Diversey parkway to Broadway were explained at a meeting of the Sheridan Center association last night by William C. Calvert, executive secretary of the North Central association. He asserted that the change in name would result in higher rentals for stores, particularly if Wentworth avenue were changed to Broadway and the single street run continuously from the far north side to far south side.

JULIA LATHROP, CHILD WELFARE WORKER, IS DEAD

Fails to Rally After Rockford Operation.

Miss Julia Clifford Lathrop, first head of the children's bureau of the U. S. department of labor, and internationally known for her child welfare work, died last night at the Rockford hospital in Rockford, following an operation. She was 74 years old.

The operation was performed three days ago to remove a goiter. Miss Lathrop had suffered from goiter ailment for several years.

For more than forty years Miss Lathrop devoted her career to the problems of childhood, and also, generally, to womanhood. Her efforts gained her world-wide recognition. Her own government selected her for high office. Other governments conferred medals upon her. In 1923 the National League of Women Voters named her as one of the "twelve greatest living American women." Her field was listed as child welfare work.

Associate of Jane Addams.

Miss Lathrop was an associate of Miss Jane Addams, head resident of Hull house, and since 1899 a voluntary resident at the West Side Settlement. Frequently, during the absence of Miss Addams, Miss Lathrop served as acting head resident. She was considered one of the early builders of the settlement.

Daughter of former Congressman William and Mrs. Sarah Lathrop, Miss Lathrop was born in Rockford. She attended Rockford college for two years and completed her formal education at Vassar. Always interested in social service and kindred sciences, Miss Lathrop won an appointment in 1893 to the Illinois State Board of Charities. She held that office until 1901, when she resigned, as she explained it, because "of too much politics." Four years later she accepted reappointment to the board and served on it until 1909.

In those years and succeeding years until 1912 she gave her services to Hull house. In 1912 President Taft selected her as head of the newly formed children's bureau. President Wilson reappointed her and she held the directorship until 1921, when she was succeeded by Miss Grace Abbott.

Held League of Nations Post.

In 1925 Miss Lathrop was elected assessor on the child welfare committee of the league of nations. Three years before she was chosen president of the Illinois League of Women Voters. At another time she served as president of the national conference of social work.

The views of Miss Lathrop on child welfare were definite and accepted by fellow workers in many parts of the world. Her aid to Czecho-Slovakia earned her the order of the White Lion from that country's government. In Berlin her opinions that policewomen were a necessity in even the smallest hamlet drew commendation.

Fought for Children's Rights.

Miss Lathrop throughout her career fought for the legitimization of children born out of wedlock, and advocated the laws of Norway which conferred rights to such children virtually equal to those inherited by legitimate children. She studied birth records during the war, and declared that the "war baby" stories were myths. In 1918, Miss Lathrop appeared before the house military affairs committee and sought to obtain military rank for war nurses. Another of her fighting planks was that in behalf of child laborers.

Miss Lathrop was a member of the Chicago Woman's, Woman's City, and Chicago College clubs. She was an author, and prepared many papers on the care of the insane and on the better education of children

Mrs. Ruth M. Mondientz of Washington, D. C., yesterday was awarded a verdict of $7,500 from an insurance company for a broken leg sustained in an automobile accident at Kilbourn avenue and Washington boulevard in the fall of 1930. The case was tried in the court of Judge Marcus Kavanaugh.

CUBANS IN FLIGHT AS QUAKES ROCK SANTIAGO HOMES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, April 15.—Santiago de Cuba was thrown into a panic at 3:40 a. m. today by repeated earth shocks which rocked the capital of Oriente province. The shocks lasted for five minutes.

Residents fled to the parks and outskirts of the city, where they are now encamped. There were no casualties. Many buildings were seriously damaged. Martial law was declared after riots resulting from raids on the headquarters of the government commission for food control, the people demanding more rations. Officials blamed communists for inciting the attacks.

Nine persons were killed and hundreds injured in a violent earthquake here on Feb. 3. The damage from that quake was about $2,000,000. At the time scientists said that the city and Oriente province might expect frequent disturbances.

TALK ECONOMY A SECOND DAY; ORDER NO SLICES

Senators Take No Action on Supply Bill.

Washington, D. C., April 15.—[Special.]—For the second consecutive day senators talked away the hours trying to make up their minds whether or not to instruct the appropriations committee to make a 10 per cent cut in the $1,059,898,563 treasury and postoffice departments supply bill sent over from the house.

At the end of the day no vote had been taken, but many words had been spoken of economy. Two other supply bills have received horizontal 10 per cent cuts. But senators who voted for that slicing hesitate to use the knife here because the postoffice appropriations include an item of 108 millions for public buildings and they argue that a curtailment of that expenditure would increase unemployment.

McKellar Resorts to Figures.

[Dem., Tenn.] dug up the figures to show that this item allocated $1,112,000 for public buildings in Senator Oddie's native state of Nevada. When Senator Oddie read the lament of Postmaster General Brown that any "arbitrary ten per cent cut" would carry the risk of "serious impairment of service," Senator McKellar called the letter an exaggeration.

At the end of the day Senator Lewis [Dem., Ill.] rose to rebuke the senate, for its ultra pessimism and the administration for not supplying the specific plan by which the nation, ever patriotic, ever eager to dig itself out of trouble, might begin its task. He particularly criticized Secretary of the Treasury Mills for opposition to the issuance of government bonds for public works.

Hope for 300 Million Cut.

As matters now stand the administration looks for a cut of 300 millions in the cost of operating the government for the next year. This reduction would be effected by straight-out cuts in the appropriation bills as they are acted on by congress and by enaction of an omnibus economy bill cutting the pay of federal workers, cuts in veterans' aids, reorganization of governmental functions, abolition of some surplus navy yards, the navy transport service, the placing of a charge on government departments for printing and binding and many other items.

Despite administration predictions, so much discord has developed during the White House-house economy committee discussions that only an optimist would take it for granted that reductions above 100 millions actually will be made. President Hoover is for saving an estimated $75,000,000 through 5 day week for workers paid by the day. All other government employés would take one month off annually without pay. This method, it is contended, would retain all workers and give work to 30,000 substitutes.

Roop Testifies Today.

Col. Roop took the omnibus economy bill prepared by administration officials to the house late today. Tomorrow he will appear before the economy committee and explain the measure. The committee was informed that from 5,000 to 10,000 persons will have to be severed from the government service in the proposed appropriation cuts.

The President's bill did not include the proposed consolidation of the army and navy. The committee on the other hand agreed to such a suggestion today, Chairman John McDuffie [Dem., Ala.] estimating it would save about 50 millions a year.

Miscellaneous provisions included abolition of useless naval land stations and yards, the Philippine scouts, vocational education activities, the army-navy transport service, placing a charge on government departments for their printing and binding, raising patent fees, and imposing a charge for expert tests conducted by the government for private industries.

LEGION WORKERS INVADE LOOP IN DRIVE FOR JOBS

Women Start on Office to Office Canvass.

The downtown business district yesterday for the first time felt the impetus of the Chicago campaign for the reëmployment of men and money.

Approximately five hundred women, members of the Cook county auxiliary of the American Legion, started an office-to-office canvass, bearing the pledge cards which have been used in the block-to-block campaign in the residential parts of the city.

At the end of the day "an excellent reception and hearty coöperation" was reported by the majority of the workers. All pledges will be totaled and the results announced this morning.

Divided Into Twelve Sectors.

The loop district was divided into twelve sectors for the drive, with a section commander in charge of each. Mrs. Marcia Raber, president of the Legion organization, was in charge of all sections.

The one day drive started with a pep meeting and last minute program planning at the Hotel La Salle. There the workers were instructed in their sales talk and provided with credentials.

"Tell the business men and employers you call on," said Robert H. Nau, secretary of the Chicago campaign for the reëmployment of men and money, "that you wish to explain the business stimulation plan sponsored by the American Legion, the Legion Auxiliary, the Association of Commerce, and union labor. Many business men will tell you that they are already contributing to charity relief. Tell them that this is a business program and that they must make an additional effort."

Launches Business Drive.

Frederick J. Ashley, coördinating chairman of the campaign, said that yesterday's drive really launched the campaign so far as big business and downtown office dwellers are concerned.

Loop building managers coöperated by temporarily lifting the ban against canvassers and several buildings provided desks for the use of the volunteer workers. The prospects were asked to expend money for additional purchases and remodeling and to hire additional labor, either temporary or permanent.

DETROIT WON'T SLASH WAGES, SO EMPLOYES HAVE PAYLESS PAYDAY

Detroit, Mich., April 15.—[Special.]—Refusal of the common council to enact an ordinance reducing the salaries of all city employés one-third, resulted today in 18,000 city employés experiencing their first payless pay day. The one-third cut was demanded by New York bankers in order that the budget of the city would be balanced for the present fiscal year.

The council, after rejecting the pay cut ordinance, voted down another resolution which would have permitted of the payment of all workers receiving $25 a week or less from "available funds." Corporation Counsel Wilcox ruled that this action would be illegal.

While some members of the council have been in favor of the issuance of scrip to employés, for that portion of their salary which the city is unable to meet, this plan has been definitely abandoned and Wilcox was working tonight upon a salary allotment ordinance. This ordinance would provide for the reimbursement of employés at a later date, should delinquent taxes be paid.

The new ordinance, which will be introduced Tuesday night with an immediate effect clause, will provide for the disbursement of available funds to all employés and will establish a trust fund from which they may later be paid. Indications are that this ordinance will be adopted.

The city has failed to balance its budget during the fiscal year by $4,400,000 and banks have refused to advance more funds.

ECONOMY IS ONLY SOLUTION OF TAX PROBLEM: SEARCY

State Senator Earl B. Searcy, chairman of the senate revenue committee, last night told the High School Teachers' association at a meeting in Fullerton hall of the Art institute that the state legislature cannot give Cook county a lasting remedy for its tangled finances.

"The trouble in Cook county," he declared, "has been, for twenty-five years, an unprecedented exploitation by an unprincipled officialdom. What is needed most is absoluta economy. That goes for the whole state. Illinois has 'gone nuts' on spending money. We have more than 150 commissions when twenty-five would be plenty."

Mr. Searcy said he did not believe the county would collect more than one-third of the 1930 tax levy.

Earlier in the day Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago, former alderman, addressed the Federation of Women High School Teachers in the Auditorium hotel on the advantages of consolidating the various governing bodies in the county.

BUSINESS URGED TO EXPAND DRIVE ON U. S. SPENDING

Rossetter Asks A. of C. Members to Help.

The 6,500 members of the Chicago Association of Commerce are urged to get their employés, business associates and friends to join the nation-wide movement directed at easing the tax burden through reduction of governmental expenses in a letter written by George W. Rossetter, president of the association.

G. W. ROSSETTER

Mr. Rossetter pointed out that reduction of the cost of government will be one step in the return to normal economic conditions.

"Your association has assumed acknowledged leadership in the movement rapidly becoming nation-wide for the drastic curtailment of all government expenditures as the first and most necessary step in balancing the budget before new and additional taxes are levied," the letter stated.

Tax Load Too Heavy.

"Manifestly the trade of the country cannot recover until government budgets are balanced. That should not be done by adding to the already overheavy tax burden."

The letter stated that response has been gratifying to the association's midwest tax conference on March 29, and continues:

"Congress and the chief executive are hearing from aroused communities. But there is still work to be done in which every member of the association can help. Here it is: Write to senators and representatives and urge them to bring about a sorely needed cut in the expenses of the government. Tell them, in your own way, that government costs must be reduced just as trade and industry have eliminated all unnecessary overhead. Suggest to your employés, friends and business associates that they also write to their senators and congressmen along similar lines.

Calls Pressure Important.

"Every ounce of pressure applied at this time to the lawmakers in Washington is important. In that way business can effectively hasten the return of normal economic conditions."

Word was received from Cleveland that the chamber of commerce there is sharply condemning proposals in congress to impose special excise taxes and increased income, gift and estate taxes as tending to delay economic recovery and probably to increase unemployment. The board of directors of the chamber in a report urged citizens of Cleveland to get in touch with their representatives to rewrite the revenue bill.

Unfair to Business.

"The imposition of high excise taxes on particular services and industries is unfair to the businesses selected and will have the effect of materially reducing and curtailing the business of such industries," the Cleveland group said. "Such impediments will reach to other fields and will probably tend to increase unemployment."

The directors urged that the income tax rates not be tampered with, stating that abnormal individual income taxes will tend to draw private capital from business ventures.

"Uncle Sam should only be a sublimated traffic cop, directing citizens how to proceed. He should not attempt to run their affairs." This statement was made by R. J. Mullaney, vice president of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, in a talk before the Defenders of America at the Brevoort hotel in which he warned against government in business.

STAY HOME, DO YOUR OWN DERN GOVERNING, ALFALFA BILL IS TOLD

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 15.—(AP)—Advised by Lieut. Gov. Robert Burns today to "stay home and be governor if you don't like the way I run this state," Gov. William H. [Alfalfa Bill] Murray immediately set about putting his administrative house in order.

Pausing long enough to dictate a letter to Gov. Roosevelt of New York in which he asked the easterner some questions regarding issues of the campaign in which both are candidates for the Democratic nomination for President, Murray announced he would reverse any official acts of Burns of which he did not approve.

OFFICIAL WARNS NEW YORK FACES BUDGET INCREASE

Says Slash in Costs Only Way to Avoid It.

New York, April 15.—[Special.]—Unless there is a thorough and far reaching change in the city administration's policy, next year's budget may exceed the present one of 630 million dollars, City Controller Charles W. Berry said today in an address to the senior officers and trustees of the savings banks of New York and Brooklyn at a luncheon in the Hotel Astor.

Reiterating his attack on the Delaney short term plan for financing subway construction, the controller said:

"Budget savings can only be effected by reduction in cost of government and by reduction of debt service items, which means also the abandonment of short term subway construction financing.

"If the 1933 budget is to be reduced below that of 1932, it will require the adoption of a drastic policy. The change will have to be thorough and far reaching or otherwise next year's budget may exceed the present one of 630 millons."

For the rest of this year, Mr. Berry said, the city must get funds to take care of 146 millions of contract liabilities; it must finance the budget in anticipation of tax collections for the second half of the year, through the 302 million revolving credit; it must raise funds for any improvements which the board of estimate authorizes, raise money for unemployment and possibly provide a sum for operation of the Eighth avenue subway.

would increase from 30 cents to $1.30, resulting in the creation of a market which would more than absorb all the surplus of our raw materials and manufactured products.

"Within two years all our present agricultural land values throughout the United States would be more than quadrupled, thereby transforming the frozen assets of country banks in agricultural communities into liquid assets.

"The market price of securities, especially the common stocks of all corporations enjoying honest, efficient management and being properly financed, where listed on some of the great stock exchanges of this country, would show increased activity and market value."

According to Senators Wheeler and Pittman, the purchasing power of China, a silver money country, was destroyed by the fall in the value of silver. Restore the value of silver by remonetization, they contend, and you will restore the power of China to purchase the former large volume of American goods. That would start factory wheels turning again in this country.

This view is disputed by many economists, among them George E. Roberts of the National City bank, who says "that to give silver by means of free coinage a monetary value in the western world above what it now has in China would be to repeat in China the disaster which has resulted from the fall of gold prices in the rest of the world."

That the remedy for our ills lies in increasing the supply of money is disputed by another economist, J. Laurence Laughlin.

"As a matter of cold fact," said Mr. Laughlin, "prices did not fall because of any scarcity in gold or credit, for since 1929 both the quantity of gold and the volume of credit have never been higher. As unexampled speculation has been the cause of all our woes, the only way out is liquidation, a return to a production of goods in a proper adjustment to demand and supply, and prices will take care of themselves.

"Prices must accommodate themselves to costs. Prices did not fall because credit fell in volume; credit fell in volume because prices and costs fell, because production fell off and a less volume of the money and forms of credit were needed to exchange the volume of goods."

UNEMPLOYMENT IN ITALY SHOWS 94,000 DECREASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 15.—Unemployment in Italy has been reduced by 94,000, due to the resumption of spring work in agriculture, and foreign trade, while showing a 30 per cent contraction, is characterized by a diminishing unfavorable balance, according to two sets of statistics released today.

In contrast to 1,147,000 jobless at the end of February, there were 1,053,000 at the end of March. Agricultural workers form the heaviest category of unemployed in Italy.

Italy's imports for March totalled $38,000,000, against exports of $28,000,000. The corresponding figures last year were $54,000,000 for imports and $43,000,000 for exports. For the first three months this year imports totalled $115,000,000 against exports of $88,000,000, whereas during the first three months last year imports totalled $162,000,000 and exports $125,000,000. Foreign trade for the first three months this year thus was about 30 per cent less than last year.

HOOVER'S HOPES FOR BUDGET HINGE ON HEAVY TAXES

Cabinet Meets, Reveals Economy Plans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 15.—[Special.]—Confidence that the budget will be balanced through the adoption of a $1,200,000,000 revenue bill and the shaving of between 200 and 300 million dollars from the cost of operating the government was expressed at today's cabinet meeting, it was learned at the White House late today.

Cabinet officials in touch with the general banking and legislative situation advised President Hoover that, in their opinion, a study of the current economic situation would disclose that the pessimism of recent days, as shown by a dropping market, has not been justified. They pointed out, it was stated, that events of the last nine weeks have clearly shown that the major banking crisis is over.

Hoover Against Bonus.

Following the cabinet meeting, President Hoover was represented as having taken the position that the two billion dollar soldiers' bonus program was certain of defeat. It was stated also in the President's behalf that he feels that passage of an adequate tax bill, defeat of the bonus, and favorable action by congress on economy legislation will show that the pessimism of the first part of this month was overdone and that liquidation went too far.

From cabinet members it was learned that the administration will press for adoption of a revenue bill carrying approximately 200 millions more revenue than the treasury estimates will be raised by the bill which passed the rebellious house. Secretary Mills will send a revised treasury program to the senate finance committee tomorrow.

This measure, following closely the provisions of the program sent to the house ways and means committee several weeks ago and there rejected, will provide revenue amounting to approximately one billion two hundred million dollars, it was said.

Plans Second Measure.

In addition to the treasury program, Secretary Mills will forward another program built around the less objectionable provisions of the billion dollar revenue bill which passed the house. This bill, which he will refer to as the Harrison bill, because it was asked for by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], ranking minority member of the senate finance committee, is expected to be a combination of the house bill and the treasury program.

Besides arranging for the forwarding of tax programs, the administration sent its omnibus economy program bill to the house economy committee late today. Col. J. Clawson Roop, director of the budget, laid the proposed bill before the committee, but declined to estimate what its enactment would yield in the way of economy. The White House announced previously that its economy program would save 200 millions through legislative changes, exclusive of any cuts made in the annual appropriation bills.

Before the economy program went forward, President Hoover was informed that indications now were that 100 millions would be slashed from the budget as he sent it to congress. A survey of the administration tax and economy program makes it clear that the public will be disappointed if it expects a drastic slash in the cost of operating the federal establishment, which this year will run more than two billion dollars into the red.

More Taxes, Hoover's Plan.

Instead of directing a smashing attack at surplus federal activities and intrenched bureaucracy, the administration proposed to obtain the money needed for balancing the budget through heaping new taxes on the federal taxpayer. To make up for the huge chasm between expected revenues and anticipated expenditures, the treasury is asking for a billion, two hundred million dollar revenue. From all indications the administration will be satisfied with a 200 million or a 300 million dollar reduction in the cost of government below the budget estimates submitted to congress last December.

While no air of optimism pervaded today's cabinet meeting, it was evident that at least some of those present took a somewhat more hopeful view of the future.

Here Are Cabinet Views.

The composite views held by the cabinet were said to follow these general lines:

The greatest need in the current situation is a return of public confidence and courage. The great forces of liquidation have about spent themselves, and have, in fact, gone too far.

While in mid-February there was some indication of a business upturn, a setback occurred during the last few weeks. This has been due in part to a number of discouraging factors. These factors include delay in action on a tax bill designed to balance the budget, unpopular items in the tax bill, the agitation for cash payment at once of the soldiers' bonus, and apprehension over the banking situation.

The cabinet was told that a canvass of the senate had disclosed that the bonus bill did not have a chance of passing the senate. As to the banking situation, officials in touch with that field assured the cabinet that during the last nine weeks but seventy-seven net banks had failed, compared with a net of 655 for the nine weeks' period immediately preceding that period. It was said that the amount of deposits in the 655 closed banks amounted to approximately half a billion dollars, hitting more than a million persons.

Witnesses appearing before the senate finance committee continued to attack the provisions of the tax bill passed by the house. Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, assailed the proposed tax on stock transfers, asserting its enactment into law might precipitate a disastrous panic more serious than any experienced in this county. He asserted that imposition of the house stock transfer tax would "devastatingly diminish the business done on the exchange." Instead of raising an estimated $75,000,000 of revenue, Mr. Whitney said the tax would raise less than half this sum.

Rates Called Excessive.

"The rates in the house tax bill are grossly excessive," Mr. Whitney said. "In fact they are so severe that it is possible the exchange might have to close. It would interfere seriously with business recovery. I think that the recent market decline was due in part to the house action in boosting the stock transfer tax."

In event the exchange should have been forced to close in recent months, Mr. Whitney said, "all collateral loans would have become frozen with great peril to the entire banking structure of the country."

"If by taxation," said Mr. Whitney, "the volume of trading is reduced so that we cannot retain even the volume necessary to keep security loans liquid, then the danger of closing with the possibility of a panic will confront us."

The proposed tax on stock transfers would be one-fourth of 1 per cent of the selling price per share with 4 cents a share as the minimum. The 4 cents a share applies also to stock used for loans to shorts.

Wing Drops from Plane; Pilot Lands with Chute

Norfolk, Va., April 15.—[Special.]—Lieut. Wyatt H. Alexander, U. S. army air corps, dropped 2,500 feet in a parachute and landed in a tree near Langley field this morning when a wing of a Curtis pursuit plane collapsed. The plane was officially known as P-12-C. The officer's face was badly cut by coming in contact with the branches of the tree, but he otherwise was uninjured.

OIL MAN IS SUED FOR $100,000 BY DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

Charges Wealthy Father Broke Up Marriage.

Mrs. Virginia Sturm McElvain yesterday filed a $100,000 damage suit in the Circuit court against her millionaire father-in-law, James M. McElvain, whom she charges with alienating the affections of her husband, Thornton McElvain.

She asserted that the elder McElvain, a coal and oil operator, persuaded his son that he would be able to handle the family wealth more efficiently if he were not hampered by marital ties. On this plea, it was related, Thornton McElvain left here in July, 1930, and went to Texas, where he remains. His wife said he has refused to send her railroad fare so she can join him.

Mrs. McElvain now lives with her parents at 824 Galt place. The suit was filed in her behalf by Attorney Arthur Frankenstein.

Visited Her Home.

After she filed the bill, Mrs. McElvain said that her father-in-law apparently had approved of the marriage. The elder McElvain, a widower, was a frequent Sunday dinner guest at the Sturm home with his son during the courtship, and when the young couple were married at Wheaton in August, 1928, he gave them a substantial check as a wedding gift, Mrs. McElvain said.

She and her husband went to Pecos, Tex., to live, Mrs. McElvain said. In the spring of 1930 they returned to Chicago on a visit. Mrs. McElvain stayed with her parents, and her husband went to the home of his brother-in-law, Maurice Raymond, 8324 Keating avenue, Niles Center, where the elder McElvain lives, to be with his father during the visit.

When her husband returned alone to Texas, Mrs. McElvain asserted, she made repeated efforts through letters and long distance telephone calls to induce him to send for her, but her efforts were in vain.

"My father-in-law told me once that of his four sons, Thornton was the only one with the ability to manage his huge oil and coal holdings," Mrs. McElvain said. "He said he thought his son tended to business better when he was away from me."

Attorney Frankenstein said that Mrs. McElvain will institute divorce proceedings in Texas. The laws there, he said, provide that in case of divorce the wife shall receive half her husband's property.

The elder McElvain was the victor in one of the most famous lawsuits ever tried in Cook county. He sued Fred A. Burton, coal operator and race horse fancier, and Maclay Hoyne, former state's attorney, for the return of the stock of the Freeman coal mine in Williamson county.

McElvain charged that Burton and Hoyne used Hoyne's position as state's attorney to frighten him into turning the stock over to Burton. He won an order for the return of the stock in 1925, and later, in 1929, the Supreme court also ordered that Burton pay McElvain market prices for all the coal which he had taken from the mine. This verdict amounted to approximately $11,000,000.

OWNER OF HOME FOR CHILDREN GETS 30 DAYS

Charged with conducting a children's boarding house without a license, Jack Foster, 43 years old, 6253 Irving Park boulevard, was fined $100 and sentenced to thirty days in the house of correction by Municipal Judge Joseph A. Graber in Domestic Relations court yesterday.

Mrs. May Milroy, who brought the complaint against Foster on behalf of the state department of public welfare, testified that the house was "not fit for a dog to live in." One child, she said, had not been bathed since last December. The six children in the place, she explained, were the children of "cabaret people."

BUCHANAN, MICH., CHOOSES BRUNETTE FOR FESTIVAL QUEEN

Buchanan, Mich., April 15.—[Special.]—Miss Pauline Hartsell, a medium brunette, with curly hair and blue eyes, tonight was chosen Miss Buchanan and will represent the city in the annual southwest Michigan Blossom Festival at Benton Harbor.

The queen of the festival will be chosen from the winners of ten local contests, finals being scheduled for April 27.

Miss Hartsell is an orphan, 18 years old, and lives with her aunt, Mrs. Emma Brown of Buchanan. Judges tonight were William Augsburger of South Bend, Ind.; Mrs. Robert Marks and Mrs. Newton I. Bacon, both of Niles, Mich.

DEPUTY FOOLED BY 'STUNT' BRAWL SHOOTS DOCTOR

Fresno, Cal., April 15.—(AP)—Mock gun play planned as a "stunt" at the Fresno American Legion post meeting resulted in the wounding of Dr. Walter M. Thorne, Fresno physician, by a deputy sheriff who mistook the "act" for a serious quarrel. Thorne will recover.

As previously arranged, Felix Holcomb began a tirade against those he said had accused him of misappropriating Legion funds, finally naming Dr. Thorne as his accuser.

As the "quarrel" reached a climax in walked Deputy Sheriff Earl F. Chandler, also a Legionnaire, and sat down near Dr. Thorne. Holcomb and Dr. Thorne drew revolvers and Holcomb opened fire with blank cartridges, which was a signal to the stage manager to turn out all the lights.

Chandler, not suspecting the fake, grabbed Dr. Thorne around the legs and tried to clutch the hand holding the gun. The doctor, thinking Chandler was helping make the show more realistic, struggled with the officer, who drew his gun and fired.

Loesch Goes Before Supreme Court Today in Jury Battle

Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, left for Springfield at midnight last night to appear before the Illinois Supreme court this morning to ask leave to serve as a friend of the court in the Feinberg-Fisher grand jury mixup which is to be decided after arguments.

Attorney Floyd Thompson, former justice of the Supreme court, is to argue on his writ of mandamus to quash all orders issued by the Feinberg grand jury, which was impaneled in the heat of the primary campaign when Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg was seeking the Republican nomination for states' attorney, opposing Prosecutor John A. Swanson. Mr. Thompson was appointed by Chief Justice Fisher of the Criminal court, who ordered the Feinberg jury to appear before him. Judge Feinberg called the jury to investigate fraud and violence charges in connection with the primary, and appointed Louis E. Hart as a special assistant state's attorney. Hart will resist Thompson's motion this morning.

Will Outline Decisions.

"I may not speak at all," said Mr. Loesch last night, "but if I am granted leave to appear as a friend of the court I shall listen to both Mr. Thompson and Mr. Hart and if necessary tell the court the gist of the decisions bearing on special grand juries."

"What do the decisions show?" he was asked.

"They show that a judge may call a special grand jury if public necessity demands it," he replied. "I wish to sustain that right."

"Has there been a public necessity?"

"I'll see what the lawyers have to say first," Mr. Loesch said. "I want to hear what Mr. Thompson has to say against Judge Feinberg's right to call a grand jury and what is said of Judge Fisher's right to call another."

Take Inquiry from Feinberg.

After Judge Feinberg had called his grand jury the Circuit court judges voted that jurisdiction in the investigation should be taken from Judge Feinberg and given to Judge Fisher, who thereupon impaneled a special grand jury of his own and offered Attorney Thompson the post of special prosecutor. Thompson declined this position, but volunteered, however, to seek a decision by the Supreme court as to which of the grand juries should be permitted to go ahead with the investigation.

The primary left little for a grand jury to investigate, it was said yesterday, and if either grand jury is continued in force the investigation will be into the naming of bank receivers and their attorneys. Judge Feinberg ordered his jury to inquire into this situation. The bar association favors such an investigation, according to its president, Charles P. Megan.

16 N.Y. DELEGATES ARE NOT PLEDGED TO ROOSEVELT

State Committee Calls for Dry Repeal.

Albany, N. Y., April 15.—[Special.]—Control of the Democratic state organization today passed quietly into the hands of Tammany Leader John F. Curry and a group of upstate leaders, friendly to Tammany hall, at a meeting of the Democratic state committee.

JOHN F. CURRY.

One of the immediate results from the change of control was the adoption of a resolution calling for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Regarding the introduction of this Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, candidate for the presidential nomination, had not been consulted.

Hostile to Roosevelt.

The resolution adopted by a unanimous vote was accompanied by a burst of applause. It was presented by a member of the Albany county Democratic organization hostile to the governor, and John H. McCooey, the veteran Democratic leader of Kings county, made no secret of the fact that the idea originated with him.

The resolution, shorn of the usual array of "whereases" with which such instruments generally are festooned, follows:

"Resolved—It is the sense of this committee that the social, economic and crime conditions existing today present reasons more compelling than ever for repeal, and we hereby urge the immediate repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

Roosevelt for Dry Repeal.

Gov. Roosevelt, when asked following the meeting to comment on developments at the gathering and on the adoption of the wet resolution, as it were, over his head, said:

"Everything is lovely; everything is harmonious. The wet resolution is in complete accord with my views."

The names of ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith and John W. Davis, both former candidates for the presidency, remained on the list of delegates at large to the national convention in Chicago next to the name of the Tammany leader himself, which was the first. If the renunciation of Gov. Roosevelt, out of sense of "political delicacy," due to his position as a leading candidate for the presidential nomination, had been prompted in part by the hope that it would compel the withdrawal for a similar reason of ex-Gov. Smith, it was in vain.

Smith and Davis Are Delegates.

Both Mr. Davis and ex-Gov. Smith were consulted over the telephone by Mr. Curry and had, it was said, "manifested a desire to stay on the list."

Nothing was done to upset the existing order in the organization of the committee. The principal officers of that body, put in their present positions of authority two years ago when Gov. Roosevelt was the recognized leader of the Democratic forces, were reëlected without dissent. Henceforth they may have to take their orders elsewhere.

The question of whether the sixteen delegates at large should go instructed or not was not brought up. It was learned that the matter had been considered briefly by the steering committee and dropped, so as not to disturb the party situation in this state. This could not be regarded as an act hostile to Gov. Roosevelt, for the governor has not asked that the delegates at large be instructed for him.

Delegates at Large.

Following are the 16 delegates at large, elected on the motion of Mr. Curry: John F. Curry, Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, James J. Walker, Herbert H. Lehman, William H. Kelley, John Boyd Thacher, Haran R. Rippey, Oliver Cabana Jr., James A. Farley, Frank J. Murphy, Nathan Jonas, Elisabeth Marbury, Caroline O'Day, Mrs. William H. Good, Thomas F. Conway.

Gov. Roosevelt, it was said, had a great deal to do with the final shaping up of the slate of delegates and alternates at large. He prevailed in his demand for more ample upstate and feminine representation. All through the lists of delegates and alternates at large, appear the names of stanch friends of the governor.

G. O. P. COMMITTEEMEN HERE; WILL SELECT KEYNOTER TODAY

Most of the fourteen members of the arrangements committee of the Republican national committee had arrived here last night to confer this morning on a keynoter for the national convention opening June 14. Continuing reports reiterated the belief that Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa would be selected for that important position.

Senator Simeon Fess of Ohio, national chairman, also heads the committee on arrangements. He is expected this morning. The members already present, acting under the leadership of Committeeman Ralph Williams of Oregon, spent most of yesterday letting contracts for the decoration of the Chicago Stadium, which will be the scene of both the Republican and Democratic meets. Some difficulty was experienced in planning space for newsreel cameras and sound equipment and it may be necessary to construct a suspended platform for this purpose, Mr. Williams said.

For all that, there appears little doubt that the Tammany chieftain will be the big power in the delegation to the Chicago conclave.

See Roosevelt Weakened.

Some observers admitted the action today may impair Gov. Roosevelt's prestige and weaken him as a presidential possibility, and that the wet resolution put through without prior notice to him may do him no good with dry Democrats in the south and west. The governor's friends have contended that it would not be helpful to hang the wet sign too conspicuously on the delegation from this state which normally must appear at the convention as the immediate sponsor for Gov. Roosevelt's candidacy.

That is exactly what was done. The resolution is directly in line with the contention of ex-Gov. Smith that there should be no pussyfooting on the prohibition question. It even goes further than the former governor has gone in his more recent utterances on prohibition.

"BEER FOR TAXES" PARADE URGED BY JIMMIE WALKER

New York, April 15.—[Special.]—Mayor James J. Walker issued an appeal today to the city's business, financial, and professional leaders to join him in launching what he hopes will be a nation-wide demonstration to bring about amendment of the Volstead act to make beer available as a source of tax revenue.

His plan contemplates a parade and demonstration in this city on Saturday, May 14, and similar parades and demonstrations on the same day in every large city in the United States.

The mayor's appeal called upon the mayors of all large cities to set May 14 aside for that purpose.

Announcing that "beer for taxation" would be the slogan for the parade and demonstration, Mayor Walker voiced confidence that the great "sound money" parade of 1896, and the famous Lindbergh parade would pale into insignificance compared with the turnout which would mark the demonstration on May 14.

COUNTY G. O. P. SEEKS CHIEF TO BEAR WET BANNER

Moreland Is Discussed as Successor to Snow.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The question of new leadership for the Republican party in Cook county began yesterday to revolve around the election of a county chairman to succeed Bernard W. Snow, who failed of reelection as committeeman of the Fifth ward. "New blood and a wet plank" was the idea expressed in informal group conferences among newly elected committeemen who are getting behind the movement launched by George F. Barrett and nineteen other west side committeemen to put the Republican party, local and state, on an anti-prohibition basis, and to keep control of the state convention from passing into the hands of the Small camp.

GEO. F. BARRETT.

The Barrett group yesterday had not got to the point of discussing candidates for county chairman. On the outside, however, the party battlers began to talk things over. Among those spoken of as a "new blood" possibility for chairman was Ald. James C. Moreland, new committeeman of the 41st ward.

On a Wet Platform.

Moreland made his debut in active politics two years ago, when he defeated M. A. Michaelson for the Republican nomination for congress in the Seventh district. Moreland, although personally dry, made his campaign on an out and out anti-prohibition platform, and as part of his campaign he conducted a poll of his district long before the Literary Digest started its straw vote.

Moreland, later elected alderman, supported Custer and Swanson, and on Tuesday, in addition to being elected ward committeeman he was also elected a national delegate from the 7th district. He was one of the "Snow uprisers" who pledged themselves to make a last ditch fight in the Republican national convention for a wet plank, and a plank to get the government out of private business and to oppose the nomination of any presidential candidate not in step with these views. Moreland, not being closely tied up with any particular factional group, was accounted by some leaders as a possibility for chairman who might prove a compromise candidate.

Attorney Is Mentioned.

Another spoken of was Daniel A. Roberts [41st], who is attorney for the west parks and for many years was secretary of the organization in the old 15th ward, in which he was born. John T. Dempsey [33d], five years an assistant state's attorney and three years an assistant attorney general, who was the youngest member of the county committee when elected two years ago, was in the mention, but the fact that he is nominee for Appellate court clerk might stand in the way.

Mr. Barrett was listed by some of the battlers, as among the strong possibilities for chairman in a party rejuvenation program. The Barrett signatories to the anti-prohibition reconstruction move, however, declared they have not got to the point of discussing a chairman.

Deneen Group Favors Massen.

The Deneen group is for Ald. John A. Massen of the 48th, while some of the Harding men were reported to be advancing Charles Krutckoff of the 4th ward, member of the state tax commission, for county chairman.

The Small camp was reported to be grooming Patrick Sheridan Smith, former city clerk, who beat B. W. Snow in the 6th, as its choice, declaiming that Small should have the chairmanship. Leaders in other groups did not take Smith's chances seriously.

Kurt Berliner, commissioner of Forest Park, was unanimously reëlected Republican central committeeman for the 8th district at a meeting in his home at 1117 Troost avenue, Forest Park, last night. Forty-two precinct committeemen attended.

Meanwhile the Democrats are getting ready for a rousing county convention Monday, with reëlection of present officials, adoption of an anti-prohibition, anti-high cost of government platform. They are preparing for an old fashioned party conclave at the state convention at Springfield on April 22, when delegates at large to the national convention are to be picked. A plank similar to the one written two years ago by Bruce Campbell is to be adopted and a keynote speech is to be given, probably by Judge Henry Horner, nominee for governor.

Tariff Walls Holding Back Prosperity, Warns Dr. Butler

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

The world-wide depression will end only when the gates of international trade are opened wide, in the opinion of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, as expressed last night in Dr. Butler's address delivered before the Economic club, meeting at the Palmer house.

Dr. Butler, a noted internationalist and co-winner with Jane Addams of the 1931 Nobel Peace award, advocated cancellation of war reparations and war debts and drastic reduction of tariffs and other trade restrictions.

Blames Trade Walls.

"The specific primary cause of the plight in which our farmers, manufacturers, merchants, railways and bankers find themselves," Dr. Butler declared, "is the attempt not only to pay war reparations and so-called intergovernmental war debts, but to pay these across frontiers that are guarded by tariff walls which do not permit international payments to be made in goods.

"A quick result has been an unnatural and unwarranted distribution of gold which lies useless and sterilized at one or two financial centers. Gold thereby steadily increases in price measured in goods and services, while this, of course, causes a simultaneous fall in the price of every other known commodity.

"If international policies had been adopted ten years ago that not only permitted but encouraged international settlements in terms of goods and services, we should have had perhaps a difficult situation, but certainly one far less tragic than that in which we now find ourselves."

Sounds Note of Gloom.

A note of gloom was sounded by Dr. Butler when he branded as "wholly illusory" the "notion" that we are passing through just one more natural period of depression and panic, and that recovery shall come as it did in times before.

"These amazing conditions bear no relation whatever, either in origin or in character, to those which we are accustomed to associate with the years 1837, 1857, 1873, 1893, and 1907," Dr. Butler said. "Those ingenious persons who are drawing graphs and making tables to show when business will return to normal and when prices will rise, following the precedents of those earlier depressions, are wasting their time. Unless we remove the basic causes of this present depression, there is no assurance of any automatic check to it whatever until there comes about a complete paralysis of all business activity."

CURTIS RETURNS AFTER CONTACT WITH KIDNAP AID

Reiterates 'Belief' Lindy's Son Safe and Well.

New York, April 15.—[Special.]—John H. Curtis, the Norfolk boat builder who has had four conferences with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh since leaving his home last Sunday, returned to Norfolk today with the "information" that he had made at least one contact with the supposed kidnapers and the "belief" that the aviator's kidnaped baby son is safe.

As interest in the negotiations for the recovery of the 21 month old infant, who was stolen from his home near Hopewell, N. J., on the night of March 1, turned again to Norfolk, Dr. John F. Condon, who innocently helped a band of criminals swindle Col. Lindbergh out of $50,000 ransom, received several mysterious messages at his home in the Bronx.

Whether any of these came from the kidnapers or their agents and whether contact between the kidnapers and the baby's father had been reestablished since announcement was made that Col. Lindbergh had invoked the aid of authorities in tracing the money used in the ransom payment, was not revealed.

Curtis Returns in Car.

Mr. Curtis and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, who have been absent from Norfolk since the first of the week, returned together in an automobile bearing New Jersey license plates. The navy airplane, in which Mr. Curtis departed, came back without him soon afterward.

They immediately conferred with the Rev. H. Dobson Peacock, their associate in the ransom negotiations, and soon afterward issued the following statement:

"We are continuing to work on the case. During our absence from Norfolk we have conferred four times with Col. Lindbergh at Hopewell. We regret that we cannot give any further information at this time."

Admiral Burrage, however, said Mr. Curtis had been successful in establishing contact with the agent of the kidnap gang.

Later the Rev. Mr. Peacock, when asked if Mr. Curtis had received "satisfactory evidence" that the child was alive and well, replied: "To the best of our belief, from information furnished us, the child is alive and well."

The clergyman declined to answer when asked for details of the scheme he has said has been worked out to guarantee the return of the baby after payment of the ransom.

Note 'Delivered Mysteriously.

Col. Henry Breckinridge, Col. Lindbergh's closest adviser, spent most of the afternoon at Dr. Condon's home in conference with the teacher who acted as Col. Lindbergh's agent in paying the ransom that failed to bring back the baby. Three special delivery letters were received by Dr. Condon during the day, and late in the afternoon, when he drove away with Al Reich, his friend and bodyguard, he left Col. Breckinridge awaiting his return.

While Condon was at New Rochelle watching a school baseball game, Milton Gaglic, the young man who drove the school teacher to Hopewell to deliver the first message he received from the kidnapers, stopped his automobile in front of the house. He scribbled a note before approaching the door. He rang the bell and, although Col. Breckinridge was there, nobody answered. He walked to the back of the house and knocked, but, receiving no reply, he returned to the front of the house, tore up the note he had written, and put the pieces in his pocket. Then he wrote something on a card and thrust it far under the door with a nail file. He refused to explain the purpose of his call. Col. Breckinridge left the house with an unidentified woman shortly before 10 o'clock.

Woman Visits Colonel.

Meanwhile, at Trenton, the police had no progress to report. The most important announcement of the day by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, was that Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel, his deputy, who made a mysterious journey abroad in connection with the case, had been ordered to return. He has been in London, Berlin, and Vienna.

A young woman, who said she was Greta Gray, 28, of Minneapolis, Minn., was admitted to the Lindbergh home late last night. She arrived in Hopewell by bus and told reporters she was a friend of Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of the flier. When she came out, two detectives accompanied her, announcing she was being taken back to Trenton.

"They're all feeling better," she said, but refused to answer further questions. Detectives said she had talked with Col. Lindbergh.

Officials of the treasury department ridiculed a report that the government was planning to prosecute the kidnapers for income tax evasion, pointing out that if the identity of the criminals were known they would face far more serious charges.

The report, it is said, probably arose from the fact that Elmer L. Irey, Frank Wilson, and A. P. Madden, who gathered most of the evidence used to send Al Capone to jail, had visited Col. Lindbergh at Hopewell, "in an advisory capacity."

Capone Nemesis Enters.

Although Capone is said to have been eliminated from consideration as a factor in the kidnaping, the three revenue agents assigned to the case are known to be using in Col. Lindbergh's behalf the tremendous and detailed information of gangland activities obtained by them in the Capone case.

They have been kept fully advised of the negotiations conducted by Condon and knew what was afoot the night he paid the $50,000 to a supposed kidnaper's agent. They did not accompany the party, it is said, because Col. Lindbergh, putting the safety of the baby above all other considerations, requested them not to.

Hope that the man who received the $50,000 that Dr. Condon tossed over a hedge in St. Raymond's cemetery on the night of April 2 might be identified by Robert Riehl, a watchman, was dashed when the watchman said he caught only a fleeting glimpse of the man talking to Dr. Condon and admitted he could not identify him.

JUDGE PONDERS KENNEDY DIVORCE CASE DECISION

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude took under advisement today the evidence presented during the hearings of the divorce sought by Mrs. Bernice Kennedy, 540 Briar place, whose bill against her husband, David Kennedy, secretary and treasurer of the Northwest Engineering company, charged cruelty. Mr. Kennedy has a cross bill charging adultery also pending. The judge announced that he would make public his ruling on April 23.

During the day a number of witnesses were summoned by Mrs. Kennedy to refute testimony of detectives that she entertained men in her apartment during the months of November and December, 1930. Several friends testified that they had been visiting her on the nights designated by the investigators. For more than four weeks during that period she had constantly been with Mrs. Paul Krech, 65 years old, a dweller in the same apartment building who had been critically ill, according to the latter's testimony.

Lester B. Colby, 137 Custer avenue, Evanston, a writer who filed suit for divorce from his own wife on grounds of adultery on Thursday, was a witness for Kennedy yesterday.

CAROLINA JUDGE, DAUGHTER GIVEN TERMS IN PRISON

Raleigh, N. C., April 15.—(AP)—John H. Harwood, suspended Superior court judge, was given a one year prison sentence late today after he pleaded guilty to mutilating state records in the case of his daughter, Lola Harwood, who was sentenced to serve two years upon a plea of guilty to embezzling state funds.

Judge Harwood confessed in court he mutilated the state record in the embezzlement case brought against Miss Harwood, his only child, last June in the hope of shielding her from conviction.

Miss Harwood, formerly a license clerk in the state revenue department, was charged with misappropriating $4,823 over a period of years.

She wept bitterly as her father told how he had tried to shield her from disgrace by changing the records in an attempt to show her innocence.

He had access to the records by an order from the court.

"I know I've done wrong, but I did not want my child to go to prison," the jurist sobbed. "I love her."

Dredging Company Sues Lincoln Park for $81,000

A suit seeking $81,000 from the Lincoln park commissioners and the Construction Materials corporation was filed yesterday in the United States District court by the Central Dredging company. The dredging company complains that the park commissioners are trying to pay for the work of filling part of the lake front by 40 per cent in cash and 60 per cent in tax anticipation warrants. An injunction is also sought by the company to restrain the commissioners from using funds from the $2,000,000 bond issue voted for the filling work, in the payment of other bills.

SECRET SIX WORK IN PARKER KIDNAP ARRESTS BARED

Len Small Campaign Aid Called Gang's Leader.

Peoria, Ill., April 16.—[Special.]—How Alexander Jamie, head of Chicago's secret six, obtained the first vital evidence which led to the release of Dr. James W. Parker from a band of amateur kidnapers without payment of ransom was related here today. The ten men and two women accused of the crime will face a special grand jury Monday and are now each held in $50,000 bonds.

Chief among these alleged conspirators is James W. Betson, who, until his arrest a few days ago, was office manager of Len Small's campaign headquarters here. He also is a former official of the Ku Klux Klan, and once ran for mayor on a reform ticket. Jamie uncovered evidence linking Betson with Attorney Joseph H. Pursifull, who approached members of Dr. Parker's family after the kidnaping, asserting he had been appointed to deal with the family in behalf of the gang. This link brought about the eventual solution of the crime and the apprehension of the twelve persons accused of it.

Seven Confess Guilt.

Held with Betson and Pursifull are: Orlo Stoops, 23 years old, Peoria; Claude "Red" Evans, 40, ex-convict; Raymond Stoops, 37; his wife, Bessie, 36; their son, Dean, 17; Cecil Meninger, 31, and his wife, Mildred, 32, both of Peoria; Edward Woodford, 27, Manito; Dwight Bartlett, 34, East Peoria, and Homer Massey, 30, of Jacksonville.

Seven of the defendants have signed complete confessions and Betson and Purstifull have been enough involved in the web of evidence, the authorities believe, to cause their conviction along with most, if not all, of those held with them.

Jamie was called into the case a few days after Dr. Parker's kidnaping on March 14 at the request of the family. With several of his operatives he came here about the time Attorney Pursifull called at the home and told a fantastic tale of being approached by a man in his office who told him to blindfold himself and wait the entrance of another man. The second man, said Pursifull, told him to get in touch with the family and obtain the $50,000 ransom the gang demanded, according to the authorities.

Overhear Phone Report.

This story, Jamie has related, was too "tall" for his belief, so, with his men, he trailed Pursifull to the Peoria University club. There, in a secluded nook, the lawyer called Betson on the telephone, reporting on his mission to the family. Jamie's men overheard the call from a hiding place behind a bookcase, and after a few days both Betson and Pursifull were arrested.

The day after, Dr. Parker was released. Jamie and his men were at the Parker home just three minutes after he returned. The physician told of being confined in a second story room of a farm house some miles from Peoria, where he was blindfolded save at meal times, when he sat behind a screen. While eating he studied the wallpaper of the room carefully, the carpet and the screen.

During the long hours he was blindfolded, Dr. Parker familiarized himself with the sounds of the farm. He could hear three dogs barking, the "chug chug" of a nearby pumping plant, the wail of a train whistle periodically and occasionally the deep note of a steamboat whistle. He knew, then, that he must be somewhere near the Illinois river. The floor of the room next to one in which he was confined had a peculiarly squeaky floor when a certain portion of it was crossed.

Put One Clew in Ransom Note.

Once he had heard one of his captors—he never saw their faces—say that he was going to Havana, a small town not far away from the farm. So, in one of the notes he was allowed to write to his family to urge the ransom payment, he requested that a domestic in his home whose name was Anna, do some particular thing, phrasing it, "Have Anna," then blurring the "e" in "have," trying to tell his relatives that he was held near Havana. Unfortunately, this went unnoticed.

When he was released, presumably because of the arrest of Betson and Pursifull, he began a daily search for the farm house, covering the countryside with police.

On Thursday, the farm house was found in the Spring Lake bottoms, just north of Banner Ferry and about 30 miles from Peoria. It was occupied by Ray Stoops. An attempt had been made to burn the house, but neighbors extinguished the blaze.

GIRL, 9, KIDNAPED ON WAY TO SCHOOL; RANSOM DEMANDED

Wilmington, Del., April 15.—[Special.]—Another kidnaping mystery presented itself for solution late today when it became known that the 9 year old daughter of Harry Bordsky, wealthy Wilmington hosiery manufacturer, had been abducted as she was on her way to school.

While the parents have refused to discuss the child's disappearance, it was revealed that their first information of it was received from an emmissary of the kidnapers. The message delivered to them threatened harm to the child and possibly death if the police were notified. It also demanded a ransom, the amount of which has not been learned.

Fearing these threats, the parents did not notify police, whose first information of the kidnaping was obtained from the newspapers. Relatives of the family said that the parents already have attempted to get in touch with the kidnapers through the directions for a "contact" furnished by the emmissary.

ARBOR AND BIRD DAY IS MARKED ALL OVER COUNTY

Arbor and Bird day was marked yesterday with programs in Chicago and Cook county schools and the planting of trees throughout the county.

The planting of 150,000 seedlings, shrubs and small trees in 33,000 acres of forest preserve was inaugurated. President Emmett Whealan of the county forest preserve board of commissioners, announced. The trees, Mr Whealan said, were purchased last year, but because of dryness and heat at that time planting was postponed. The complete program of reforestation, he said, calls for 5,000,000 trees, shrubs, and seedlings through a period of several years.

In 175 rural and village schools, as well as those in Chicago, pupils participated in programs especially in honor of Arbor and Bird day.

An Arbor day festival was held yesterday at the triangle formed by the Governor's highway at 183d street. A maple tree was planted on the plot of ground. Speeches were made by Mrs. William D. Richardson, president of the Chicago Outdoor Art league; Mrs. Edward L. Murfey, chairman of the league's seed committee, and Mayor Joseph Schwarz of Homewood. Mrs. Richardson revealed that $1,000 will be spent in beautifying the plot. The invocation was delivered by the Rev. William D. McLean Jr. of St. John's Episcopal church of Flossmoor. Among those who attended the festival were members of American Legion auxiliaries and the Homewood Girl Scouts.

STIMSON AGREES ON SECURITY PACT FOR EUROPE ONLY

Reaches Compromise with French Premier.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 15.—Secretary of State Stimson's first official visit to France by the front door—directly from America and not through some other country—ended tonight with the stroking down of fur which had been rubbed the wrong way and with the advent of what appears to be the germ of a three way Anglo-French-American compromise on disarmament.

H. L. STIMSON. [Acme Photo.]

Stimson Misses Being "Majesty."

In addition, some delicately turned French compliments were still ringing in his ears—only a last minute offensive by protocol fundamentalists prevented him from being met at the railway station with the red carpet traditionally reserved for royalty. Premier Tardieu had arranged this as an extraordinary compliment, but Becq de Fouquieres, President Doumer's chief of protocol, insisted that it was a breach of tradition and could not be tolerated.

The supposed disarmament compromise—Stimson's proverbial discretion makes the adjective necessary—was reached during an hour long "two power disarmament conference" between Stimson and Tardieu at the Quai d'Orsay this evening. Norman Davis, one of the American delegates to the disarmament conference, was present. The essence of the plan is that America cannot participate in organizing an absolute security pact—French style—but will look with sympathy on any fair and plausible arrangement which Europe might work out for itself. In other words, the French will be given a free hand to try to organize the continent—Britain excluded—into a regional security pact based on the French disarmament plan.

Naval Reduction Barred.

In American circles it is emphasized that this project could only apply to land armaments—doubtless including aviation—and that a necessary corollary would be a compromise between France and Italy enabling them to enter the framework of the London naval treaty.

The British rôle in the parley was symbolized this afternoon after a state luncheon had been given for Mr. and Mrs. Stimson by Tardieu at the French foreign office when a carefully dressed little man with a white mustache was seen to stop at the front gate and the distinguished company emerging from the building.

Whenever anybody looked in his direction he scuttled away, apparently fearful let the cops would rebuke him for curiosity. When the last guest left he suddenly ducked through the gate and quickly walked into a side entrance. He was Lord Tyrrell, British ambassador to Paris, and he was immediately received by Tardieu.

Understanding Kept Secret.

No official statement was issued by Stimson following his conference with Tardieu and the French communique was unusually well guarded. A spokesman for the Americans received the press and put out considerable information for "background."

Exact implications as to the understanding with Tardieu were left purposely vague and after dropping the original hint of a compromise the speaker proceeded to hedge it with numerous qualifications.

Tardieu discovered a tousled, uncertain looking American who does not consider everything French as an enemy, as many in this country believed, and Stimson learned that the blustering Frenchman with the square jaw could present an honest grievance without rancor.

And Tardieu had a grievance—a good big one—which he made no attempt to disguise. He was sore at the way the American disarmament proposal was suddenly sprung on him at Geneva the other day.

He suspected the motives of the American delegation in drafting a plan which struck the French as an attempt to torpedo their own scheme. He feared the Americans had joined in conspiracy with France's enemies.

These charges were made by the French premier in a perfectly friendly and informal manner. Counting on the mellowing influence of good cheer and subtle flattery with which he had plied his American guest, Tardieu thought the occasion ripe to assume a firm but friendly "look here" manner.

Stimson Replies in Kind.

Stimson, the press was informed, replied in kind. He assured his host that America has not acted in concert with any other countries against France. He pointed out that twenty countries had approached the disarmament problem from the angle of curbing the so-called aggressive means of warfare. The American delegation assumed that any plan recognizing the necessity for security and tending to increase it would be pleasing to the French.

The American press was informed that Tardieu is satisfied with the assurances given by Stimson. Tardieu is even said to have admitted there is some good in the American plan.

On the other hand, Stimson opined that the French ideal for creating some sort of international police force, while impossible for America, might be practical in Europe.

JAPAN TO IGNORE LEAGUE'S PEACE PARLEY TODAY

Delegates Are Instructed to Stay Away.

TOKIO, April 16 [Saturday].—(AP)—The Japanese government today instructed its Geneva delegation not to attend sessions of the league of nations assembly committee of 19 appointed to deal with the Sino-Japanese conflict. The sessions open today.

The league assembly appointed the committee of 19 after it had approved a three point program for peaceful settlement of the conflict at its meeting a month ago.

These three points were a declaration that agreements reached by military pressure would not be recognized, an assertion upholding China's thesis that the assembly was competent to deal with the far eastern question, and provision for supervising peacemaking problems through the committee of 19.

SHOW FOR STIMSON

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, April 15.—What kind of a show the Sino-Japanese committee of 19 of the assembly of the league of nations is going to be able to put on for Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson cannot be foreseen clearly as yet. The Japanese delegation, in which the league trained Naotake Sato has been replaced by a new hard-boiled delegate straight from the island kingdom, is muttering that if the comittee does what it has said it is going to do and meddles in Manchuria they will abstain from the meeting.

But under article XV. of the covenant participation of the two interested parties is not required, so the first session tomorrow will be in secret and without the Japanese or Chinese. Later when a course of action has been decided upon it will be seen whether the orientals will be invited to a public show.

Small Powers Insistent.

The small powers which forced the hand of the big powers of the assembly to a relatively stiff stand on the whole problem tonight insisted that the league refuse to allow Japan to act as the judge of the time limit for the withdrawal of the Japanese troops from Shanghai.

There is evidence that the energetic W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate, is prepared, now that Secretary Stimson will be here, to push his Manchurian claims to the utmost by exhausting all the facilities afforded by the league to agitate the matter.

FREED OF GUN CHARGE.

Louis ("The Louse") Clementi and two other reputed "42" gangsters, Samuel Messi and Frank Cerone, were freed of gun toting charges by Judge Jay A. Schiller yesterday in the South State street court when the state was unable to prove ownership of the revolver found in the rear seat of their automobile.

Asks $250,000

MRS. ESTELLE M. WOLON. [Associated Press Photo.]

Philadelphia, Pa., April 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Estelle M. Wolon's $250,000 breach of promise suit against the wealthy Charles Newbold Welsh of this city "isn't a question of money," the comely Chicago widow stated today.

"I have had plenty of chances of marrying men with money," she said as she sat propped up in her bed at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel here [her illness has delayed starting of the trial]. "But I really love Mr. Welsh and I couldn't marry any one else and go through life knowing that he wasn't the one I loved. If he would promise to make arrangements to marry me I would withdraw this suit in a minute."

Welsh is married, was married when the alleged affair between him and Mrs. Wolon was going on, and his present wife is sticking by him. Mrs. Wolon has exhibited several pictures showing herself and Mr. Welsh together on a trip to the orient.

Japanese Accuse Russia as Manchurian Revolt Grows

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 15.—The entire border district of north Manchuria, fronting on Siberian territory and extending from outer Mongolia on the west practically to Corea on the southeast, an area more than 1,000 miles long and extending into Manchuria from 200 to 400 miles, has rebelled against the Japanese supported Manchoukuo government, Gen. Ma Chan-shan, Chinese loyalist leader, informed the Nanking government today.

Gen. Ma said his Heilungkiang provincial government is now formally established at Taheiho, on the Amur river. A provincial committee, he said, is functioning and is in possession of all seals and documents, which Gen. Ma succeeded in taking out of Tsitsihar in spite of the vigilance of the Japanese Gen. Jiro Tamon. Gen. Ma said his forces have been distributed at strategic points and are now ready to renew warfare against the Japanese army.

Japan Accuses Russia.

Gen. Tamon, who commanded the Japanese forces which defeated Gen. Ma last winter in the Nonni river battle and who has been holding Tsitsihar, issued a statement today bitterly attacking soviet officials of the Chinese Eastern railway, whom he holds responsible for the north Manchurian rebellion. Gen. Tamon declared that the action of the soviets in withdrawing rolling stock of the railway, which is jointly owned by Russia and China, to Siberian territory hampered Japanese troop movements and enabled Chinese loyalist generals to stage the revolt.

"It will now require 100,000 Japanese troops for two or three years to clear north Manchuria of bandits," Gen. Tamon said.

The Sino-Japanese military situation at Shanghai again is tense as a result of the advance of a section of Chinese troops into the district directly west of the international settlement and south of Soochow creek. The Japanese hurriedly strengthened their garrisons on the north bank of Soochow creek, mounting heavy guns and bringing up reinforcements and munition stores.

Russia Charges "Provocation."

MOSCOW, April 16.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—The Tass [Russian] News agency reported from Khabarovsk today that Japanese military circles in Harbin were preparing a provocation calculated to cause conflict between the soviet Russian and the Manchurian authorities.

A Japanese named Yagi, the dispatch said, demanded that the Chinese police in Harbin search the soviet consulate there on the pretext that the consulate was organizing terrorist acts against the Chinese Eastern railway, jointly owned by Russia and China.

The dispatch said Yagi represented Japanese military groups and that the terrorist acts really should be charged against anti-soviet White Russians and Japanese.

The police chief, the correspondent said, refused to make the search short of direct orders from the Manchurian government. This refusal was caused by the fact that Yagi insisted the Chinese police alone conduct the search without revealing that they were acting on the a Japanese demand, the dispatch said.

2,000 Chinese Reds Slain.

AMOY, China, April 15.—(AP)—Two thousand Chinese communists marching on the city of Changchow were slain yesterday, Chinese military authorities announced today, in an all day battle with regular troops. The Red advance was halted in time to permit the escape of a number of British missionaries, who reached here today. The United States destroyer Smith-Thompson is anchored in the river to protect foreign residents.

GET COP'S O. K. TO PARK AUTO, THEN ROB HIM

Three men asked Mounted Policeman Anthony J. Fitzpatrick if they could park their car "for a minute" yesterday afternoon in front of a restaurant at 82 West Harrison street. The request was granted, but the men overstayed their time, and Policeman Fitzpatrick went into the restaurant for an explanation. He was met by a sawed off shotgun in the hands of one of the men and forced to hand over his service revolver and a few coins. The bandits fled in their car, taking with them $100 which they had taken from Sam Lurie, the restaurant owner.

SELF-DEFENSE PLEA ENTERED IN 29 YEAR OLD DIXIE KILLING

Bakersville, N. C., April 15.—(AP)—George Presnell, 60, who killed Lewis Buchanan, a neighbor, 29 years ago and fled to the middle west, today told in his trial for murder of the quarrel which led to the killing. He pleaded self-defense.

During the intervening years since he seized a rifle and fled into the mountains after the slaying, Presnell became a well known citizen of Prathenville, Mo. He was arrested there last February and returned here to face the old murder charge.

Presnell charged Buchanan made improper advances to Mrs. Presnell, taunted him with a dare to fight and then reached for his hip pocket as if he were drawing a pistol. Presnell said he then stabbed Buchanan.

The state introduced three eyewitnesses to the slaying. One of the witnesses was Obadiah Butler, who came here from Johnson City, Tenn., to testify. The others were Mrs. Lockie Forbest, daughter of Buchanan, and Mrs. Martha Honeycutt, a niece. Mrs. Forbes was 15 years old at the time of the slaying and Mrs. Honeycutt was 14.

Washington, D. C., April 15.—(AP)—Senator Harris of Georgia, who has been ill for several weeks here, took a sudden turn for the worse tonight. His physician described him as "very ill."

LITHUANIA RAISES VOTING STRENGTH IN MEMEL AREA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TILSIT, Germany, April 15.—Germans assert that about 6,000 Lithuanians have been granted Memel citizenship in the past three weeks through the suspension of citizenship regulations by the Edward Simmat directorate. The purpose of the move is said to be to increase the Lithuanian vote in the forthcoming Memel diet elections. As a majority of the new citizens are married, the Lithuanian voting strength will be increased by more than 10,000.

The German government on March 23 lodged protests with Lithuania, Italy, France, and Great Britain against the "illegal constitution of the Simmat directorate and the equally illegal dissolution of the Memel diet." Germany stressed that new elections to the Memel diet "must not be falsified through any machinations of the directorate."

Protest was also lodged with the league of nations at the time the German head of Memel was deposed and arrested by Lithuanian authorities. The league referred the dispute to the world court. Memel is an "international" state administered by Lithuania. The majority of its population is German.

THREE BAD MEN DIE OF GANGSTER SHOTS IN BATTLE

Tommy Hayes and Pals Run Down by Rivals.

St. Louis, Mo., April 15.—[Special.]—Tommy Hayes, gunman, and two of his bodyguards, "Willie G." Wilbert and "Pretty Boy" Lechler, were killed about 1 o'clock this morning by machine gunners, who pursued their two automobiles and ran them down separately near Granite City and in Madison, Ill.

Hayes' body, shot in the face, hands, and chest, was found at 1:50 a. m. beside his armored Lincoln sedan in a vacant lot in Madison.

"Willie G.," whose name of respectability was William Conrad Wilbert, was found dead an hour later in a bullet riddled Plymouth roadster on a back road northeast of Granite City, a loaded submachine gun still clasped in his hands.

Beside him, dying, was Lechler, his snob nosed revolver and a whippet gun, or shotgun pistol, at his feet. The murderers had overtaken them about 1 o'clock, then had raced on to dispose of Hayes four miles nearer St. Louis.

From the fact that a bill of sale in the Plymouth showed the car was purchased yesterday in Chicago, the police assumed that Hayes and his men were on their way from Chicago.

Two Theories of Slayers.

As to the slayers of Hayes and his two followers several theories were advanced by the police. One was that they were murdered by followers of the Shelton brothers, Hayes having probably ignored an order from the Sheltons to get out of East St. Louis, because his activities were "putting too much heat on the mob."

Another was that the Cuckoo gang, harassed endlessly by Hayes, their former friend and leading figure, finally succeeded in erasing the gunman from the scene.

For weeks the police had known that Hayes had incurred the displeasure of the Shelton brothers. His fight with the Cuckoo gang had included the bombing of a race track news service, a later attempt to bomb the new St. Louis Mart building, to which the news service had moved; an unsuccesful pistol attack on "Crying Dave" Klegman and "Spooky Joe" Lander in front of the American hotel, the bombing of a handbook partly owned by Herman Tipton, and the murders of Eddie Menken and Milton Rost.

Posse Catches Robbers.

Gilman, Ill., April 15.—[Special.]—A wounded bandit and his companion were in the custody of police here tonight following their capture by a posse after they had held up a garage attendant. The prisoners, each 21 years old, have confessed to a series of robberies in Illinois. They are Harry Edwin Williams of Cincinnati, wounded in the right arm, and Ray King, who formerly lived at 1314 Walnut street, Chicago, and in Peoria.

HENRY T. EWALD IS ELECTED CHIEF OF ADVERTISING MEN

Washington, D. C., April 15.—Henry T. Ewald of Detroit, president of the Campbell - Ewald company, was today elected chairman of the board of directors of the American Association of Advertising Agencies at the annual meeting held here. He had previously held the office of vice president as well as chairman of the newspaper committee of this association.

HENRY T. EWALD.

This is the highest honor that can be conferred on an advertising agency executive, as the American Association of Advertising Agencies is composed of practically all the important advertising agencies of the country. The firm memberships of this association direct the spending annually of approximately $375,000,000.

When in his early twenties Mr. Ewald founded the Detroit Adcraft club, which at the present time has the largest membership of any advertising club in the world. He is also chairman of the board of directors and chairman of the executive committee of the National Outdoor Advertising bureau.

Patient Leaps to Death at the County Hospital

Stanley Sorosinski, 26 years old, 1224 North Artesian avenue, was killed late yesterday afternoon when he leaped from a window on the fourth floor of the county hospital, where he was a patient. Thirty other patients in the same ward saw his leap. Sorosinski, physicians at the hospital said, was suffering from an infection.

ORDER ARREST OF MOTORISTS IN LICENSE DRIVE

200,000 Delinquents Face Roundup Wednesday.

BY HAL FOUST.

Motorists who have not paid their state and city automobile taxes will receive arrest slips starting next Wednesday. The announcement was made yesterday by Police Commissioner Allman following a conference with Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court and Fred Fischman, superintendent of licenses.

The announcement will concern more than 200,000 Chicagoans who have been driving with no license plates or with the 1931 numbers. There are approximately a half million passenger cars and trucks in Illinois which have not been registered this year.

Must Pay Court Costs.

"Those who apply for licenses after receiving summonses," said the chief justice, "will not escape a penalty as they have in other years. They will not be fined, but they will have to pay the court costs of $6.50. The Municipal courts need the money and there is no reason why the general public should bear the expense of collecting a tax from the delinquents.

"For those who appear in court without having paid their license, the law provides fines ranging from $5 to $200. Lack of money will not be accepted as a plea for leniency. A motorist who won't pay his auto taxes doesn't maintain brakes, lights and other mechanical devices essential to safety."

The law requires that the state registration fee and the municipal wheel tax should be paid on or before Jan. 1 of each year. There was no attempt to enforce the law before the primary.

Show Registration to Date.

The office of Secretary of State Stratton yesterday reported that 961,989 passenger cars and 128,569 trucks were registered so far this year. In 1931, the state had 1,411,261 passenger cars and 207,896 trucks on the books. By April 15, 1931, taxes had been paid on 1,133,999 passenger cars and 159,397 trucks.

As for the Chicago wheel tax, 486,625 tags were sold last year, 341,405 by April 1. By April 1 this year, 349,013 had been issued. The collections last year totaled $5,304,134, of which $3,950,996 was in the city treasury by April 1. In the first three months of this year, $4,029,733 had been paid. There is more than $5,000,000 in registration fees overdue to state road fund.

Application blanks for both state licenses and city vehicle tags may be obtained from THE TRIBUNE Public Service office. Or motorists may go directly to the city hall for the municipal tags. The state applications must be mailed to Springfield.

The secretary of state reports that the state plates will be in the hands of owensr not later than five days after the application is mailed.

Hangs Self in Cell When Seized on Wife's Charges

UNTOUCHABLES JAILED IN INDIA; PICKET TEMPLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, April 16 [Saturday].—Police last night arrested twenty untouchables in Nazik, one of India's holiest towns, when this religious sect, despite recent tenders of the olive branch by upper caste Hindu leaders, renewed its picketing at the Kalarem temple to exact the same privileges of worshiping as the Hindus.

The harassed police, taking elaborate measures to avert trouble, stopped all male devotees from entering the temple. When the untouchables countered by sending in women, the police closed the place of worship entirely.

It was revealed today that the excise revenue from the sale of liquor in Bombay presidency for 1931 was reduced by one-third, or $2,700,000, due to the "effect of the boycott by Mahatma Gandhi's All-India congress party. Government newspapers announced that British liquor "has been abandoned for foreign beer" and that the "sale of foreign liquor has not been great."

Waukegan Police Officer Shoots Self in the Foot

Lieut. Edward J. Mihic of the Waukegan police accidentally shot himself in the right foot yesterday in his home at 234 South Park avenue, Waukegan. He said that he was changing the cartridges in his pistol when it was discharged. Physicians reported it might be necessary to amputate a toe.

FAILS TO FIND 1,100 DEPOSITORS OF CLOSED BANK

John E. Murphy, treasurer of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad and receiver for the old Auburn State bank, would like to know what has become of nearly 1,100 of the 2,400 depositors in the bank since it failed in 1917.

Recently Mr. Murphy sent a final payment of 1.7 per cent, an average of $5.50 apiece, to each of the depositors. Postoffice authorities returned 1,100 of the 2,400 checks which he mailed out, informing him that they were unable to find the addressees. Since then a number of the missing depositors have appeared and claimed their money, however.

The payments were the result of $13,200 gained by suits instituted by a depositors' committee against stockholders of the bank. The main receivership of the bank's assets was closed in 1927. Mr. Murphy said yesterday that the dividends of those depositors whom he cannot find will be placed in trust for them at the Mutual National bank, 79th and Halsted streets.

Payment for Bain Creditors.

Superior Judge William J. Lindsay entered an order yesterday for a 10 per cent payment on all allowed claims in two defunct banks of the Bain chain, the Bryn Mawr State and Brainerd State. The payments, which will aggregate $47,952 in the Bryn Mawr bank and $21,500 in the Brainerd bank, are the first which have been ordered.

Irwin T. Gilruth, receiver for the two banks, was allowed fees totaling $4,050 for his services, and his attorneys, Kirkland, Fleming, Green, and Martin, fees of $10,000. Judge Lindsay complimented them on their fees in the two cases, saying, "You are both working for less than is reasonable for the best interests of the depositors."

Further payments will be made, Mr. Gilruth said, when a more favorable opportunity arises for disposing of real estate holdings of the two banks.

Continues Bank Cases.

Criminal cases growing out of two bank failures were postponed yesterday when they were called before Judge Philip L. Sullivan in the Criminal court. It had been announced that all of the bank cases would be brought to trial as soon as the primary was over.

In the case against Rudolph Cepak, president of the defunct Millard State bank, and four others connected with the institution, Judge Sullivan ruled that the prosecution had presented an inadequate bill of particulars and continued the hearing to April 26, ordering the state to file an amended bill.

Lloyd Heth, attorney for Alexander Flowers, chairman of the board of the Roosevelt Bankers State bank, and three others indicted with Flowers as a result of closing of that bank, asked more time to prepare his defense. He was granted a continuance to May 16 in the face of objections by prosecutors.

Due to absence of witnesses, prosecutors obtained the continuance from Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher in the case against David D. Weiss, the tailor-broker, charged with complicity with Walter E. Wolf in the embezzlement last year of approximately $3,500,000 from the Continental Illinois bank and Trust company. Wolf pleaded guilty some months ago, and is now in Joliet penitentiary.

FOUR ARE DEAD IN A NEW YORK TENEMENT FIRE

New York, April 16.—(AP)—Four persons were burned to death and two children seriously burned in a fire that swept a four story tenement house in the Bronx shortly after midnight this morning.

The bodies, so badly charred no immediate identification could be made, were found on the stairway at the third floor. Apparently they were members of a single family.

Many tenants leaped to safety through windows. Onrushing flames spread terror through the building and screaming women and children fled in night attire.

HITLER'S RIVAL POLITICAL ARMY DROPS WEAPONS

Republican Body Takes Voluntary Action.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 15.—A proclamation issued at the headquarters of the Reichsbanner, republican military organization, tonight announced the voluntary abolition of all extraordinary protection measures, now that Adolf Hitler's Fascist army has been dissolved by the order of the German government.

"Trust inspires trust," the proclamation read. "We must convince our opponents that we have never desired to establish a state within a state, or to reach our aims unconstitutionally by force."

"Danger of Civil War Past."

It added that "President von Hindenburg's reelection removes the imminent danger of a civil war; our task now is to help the government overcome its terrible economic distress."

Fascists today initiated a campaign aiming to obtain local dissolution of the Reichsbanner in various states. Fascist members of the Bremen parliament introduce a bill prohibiting the Reichsbanner in Bremen. It is planned to introduce similar measures in other state diets.

Hitler also initiated a campaign today against the Berlin government by instructing his legal adviser, Dr. Leutgebrune, to contest the decree dissolving his army on the ground that it is unconstitutional.

Fascist Protests Scorned.

BERLIN, April 15.—(AP)—Minister of Defense Wilhelm Groener today returned to National Socialist (Fascist) party leaders their written statement that their movement was legal. Herr Groener told them their protestations were valueless because "the spirit ruling the party was contrary to what they said."

At Karlsruhe, Baden, Joseph Schmitt, president of the Baden state, told the diet he had learned several Baden officials had violated their oath by dickering with radical parties. He warned that if they did not change their attitude they would be dismissed. He was discussing the suppression of Hitler's "storm troops."

Dispatches from Danzig said that the senate today forbade outdoor political parades and massmeetings through the Free State where President von Hindenburg's decree against the storm troops does not apply. The Nazi district leader urged his followers to behave lest "enemies" secure the prohibition of the only Nazi division left in German speaking territory.

Warsaw reports had it that the Polish government had been urged to demand the dissolution of the storm troops in Danzig "to prevent the use of the Free State as a refuge for those elements which Germany does not want."

FIND AMERICAN WOMAN SLAIN IN WARSAW SLUMS

Suspect Religious Fanatic of Missionary's Murder.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, April 15.—The discovery of the murder of an American woman missionary caused a sensation in the Polish capital today. Miss Grace Edna Mott, aged 41, of New York City, head of the American Baptist society, who worked chiefly among Jews, was found stabbed to death in the mission building, located in the slum district.

Miss Mott was known among the poor of Warsaw as an "angel of mercy." Police believe that Miss Mott opened the door to her unknown assailant, who knocked her down and dragged her unconscious to an inner room of the mission.

Used Kitchen Knife.

The murderer used a large kitchen knife. The missionary's face was disfigured beyond recognition by twenty different wounds. Her throat also was deeply slashed. Police suspect a religious fanatic, probably a Jew.

Miss Mott's missionary activity had for the four years she had been here attracted the opposition of Jewish fanatics. Mission offices in Warsaw and other cities have been the scenes of many disturbances recently, especially in connection with the baptism of Jewish youths.

Yesterday at the village of Radoszyce, near Warsaw, a Jewish girl was converted to the Christian religion in the presence of the mission staff with the exception of Miss Mott. The murderer did not touch cash or documents in the mission. Police arrested many suspects including relatives of the converted girl.

Post Mortem Held.

The slain woman's residence as given in her passport was 1216 Washington avenue, the Bronx, New York, with the notification in case of death to go to Spencer Johnson, Surrey, England.

Today's murder follows within two weeks the slaying of two children in the same neighborhood under similar circumstances.

RIOTING GROWS IN NEW ZEALAND; CITY TERRORIZED

Mobs Loot Stores; Call Out British Sailors.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, April 16.—(AP)—There was pandemonium tonight in the streets of Auckland. The embattled unemployed, who fought off the police yesterday, stormed through the streets again, looting stores and defying the forces of order.

"If this goes on," the mayor said tonight, "I shall read the riot act."

It was the mayor who called for civilian volunteers yesterday when the police were unable to hold their own against the rioters. The fighting went on until a landing party was sent ashore from a British cruiser in the harbor.

Last night and early today the naval patrol mounted guard over stores which had been wrecked and robbed, and it looked for a time as if the trouble were over.

Church Is Set Afire.

Tonight the fighting started again. Men and women fought with sticks and stones and their fists, holding off police, volunteers and sailors. They were finally driven back and some semblance of order was restored, but not before 120 rioters and 20 policemen had been hurt. Almost 300 rioters were arrested. Property damage was estimated at more than $500,000.

While the fighting was going on fire started in the Church of the Epiphany and the building was badly damaged. Police said the rioters had started the fire.

The trouble began yesterday with a parade of civil employés protesting against pay cuts. Jobless men joined the march and the demonstration quickly became disorderly, then turned into a riot.

Australian Labor Forms Army.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., April 15.—(AP)—An army of 25,000 war veterans, ready to fight for Premier Lang if called upon, is being organized by the Trades Hall Labor council, officials of that organization said today. The 25,000 veterans, they said, would be only a nucleus of a force of 100,000 volunteers from the trades unions, "all with working class views."

The move was regarded as disquieting, since it comes shortly after the activities of the anti-communistic "New Guard," another unofficial organization. Its members have threatened Premier Lang on two occasions.

Presumably the movement had its origin in the dispute between the government of New South Wales and the commonwealth government over the default in the province's foreign debts.

Under the new financial agreement act the commonwealth moved to seize the provincial income tax for the default. Premier Lang locked up the files. Then the commonwealth levied on the entertainments tax. The premier ordered the taxpayers to ignore the commonwealth government's demand and said he would appeal a high court decision upholding the financial agreement act to the privy council.

There was some talk today of forcible resistance if the commonwealth issued a warrant for the arrest of Mr. Lang on a charge of obstructing the law.

GETS NEW POST

WARDEN HENRY C. HILL.

Warden Henry C. Hill of the Joliet penitentiary received notice yesterday of his appointment as warden of the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. He said he would probably accept if Gov. Emmerson is willing to accept his resignation.

Warden Hill was formerly a federal postal inspector. He commanded battery A of the 1st Illinois artillery in the Spanish American war, and was a major of infantry in the world war. His present position is his first experience in managing a prison, having received appointment from Gov. Emmerson.

The federal appointment is the result of a civil service examination Warden Hill took last fall. The prison of which he is offered the wardenship is a new one which will be ready for occupancy July 1. Hill said the change will be agreeable to him, and the new job pays $7,000 a year, while his present position pays $6,000. If he leaves he said Col. Frank Whipp, state superintendent of prisons, will take charge of the Joliet and Stateville prisons temporarily, with Assistant Warden E. B. Stubbelfield in active command pending the naming of a new warden.

George Lane, a former Bloomington, Ill., fireman who was convicted of robbery, escaped from the prison yesterday while working outside as a trusty. A search was being made for him in a quarry near Lemont.

Father and 3 Children Periled by Grocery Bomb

Joseph Brigante and his children, Michael, 17 years old; Paul, 15, and Dolores, 12, were shaken late last night when a small bomb was exploded at the front entrance of Brigante's grocery at 751 South California avenue. They live in the rear. The damage was estimated at $200. Brigante has been holding a sale on groceries in the last few days and police said business rivals probably bombed the place in retaliation.

GOVERNOR QUITS AS RUTHENIAN FAMINE IS BARED

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PRAGUE, April 15.—Recent revelations by two journalists, Ludwig Renn, a German, and Hamilton, an Englishman, concerning appalling famine conditions in the Czechoslovakia province of Ruthenia had a sequel today when Gov. Roszpal of Ruthenia tendered his resignation, which was accepted by the government.

Gov. Roszpal had assured the government that conditions in Ruthenia were quite normal and there was no need to take special measures to deal with starvation among the inhabitants. The two investigating journalists, however, who were persecuted by the Czech gendarmerie, who also terrified the peasantry, forcing them to flee to the woods when the newspaper men arrived, published accounts of starvation and neglect in this area.

The government was violently attacked in parliament by the left parties on account of these reports, with the result that the governor had to resign.

DIES AS RESULT OF FALL.

Mrs. Ellen Clinton, 80 years old, died yesterday at her home, 3423 Fulton street, of injuries suffered in a fall three several weeks ago. She had been a resident of Chicago for more than sixty years.

RICH NEW YORK MANUFACTURER COMMITS SUICIDE

New York, April 15.—[Special.]—John A. King, 50, a wealthy dress manufacturer, was killed today when he leaped from an 18th floor terrace of the Pennsylvania hotel.

His body dropped to the roof of a three story extension outside the office of Dr. J. Darwin Nagel, hotel physician, where it was discovered by the doctor's nurse, Miss Helen Ward.

Mr. King, who lived at Forest Hills, was not registered at the hotel, but had called there for treatment by Dr. Nagel for a heart ailment. He left a sealed note to be opened only by his wife, and instructions to notify a friend, Ralph Applebaum.

Applebaum would not discuss Mr. King's affairs.

Rob Spring Valley Bank of $6,000; Slug Cashier

Peoria, Ill., April 15.—[Special.]—Three bandits today entered the Spring Valley, Ill., City bank, forced five employes and a customer to lie on the floor while they scooped up $6,000 in cash. Peter Hollvick, cashier, was slugged when he refused to open the vault.

Aviation Notes

Six years ago yesterday Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew the first scheduled air mail plane on the run from St. Louis to Chicago, bringing the first contract mail to Chicago. He flew a war time De Haviland 4 biplane, powered by a Liberty motor. Today the two cities are connected by four mail and passenger planes daily, operated by American Airways, and contract mail is carried into the city from all points of the compass.

The first tri-motor plane carrying passengers between Chicago and New York at night left the Chicago airport at 4 p. m. yesterday, arriving in New York before midnight. A passenger plane operating on a similar schedule left New York yesterday afternoon. The new service is operated by United Air Lines, an air mail carrier.

RETIRED FARMER FOUND DEAD.

Frank Haben, a retired farmer, was found dead yesterday on the front porch of his home north of Wheeling, in Vernon township. Death apparently was due to heart disease. Haben was 69 years old and lived alone. He is survived by two sons.

Bribery Charge Against Gene Oliver Is Dropped

Charges of bribery against Gene G. Oliver, former assessor who started serving a sentence last week in Leavenworth penitentiary for income tax fraud, and William Nichols, alleged go-between for Oliver in a tax fixing case, were stricken off with leave to reinstate yesterday before Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court. Oliver's imprisonment on the federal charge was the reason given by prosecutors for their action. The charge grew out of the testimony of W. A. Wieboldt, department store head, at Oliver's trial, that Nichols solicited $40,000 from him on a promise to have his real estate assessments reduced. Part of the money was traced to Oliver.

Find Body of Californian Missing Since Christmas

Downieville, Cal., April 15.—(AP)—Last December Hans Butten, 48, a miner, set out from the old Colony mine near here to buy decorations for a Christmas tree. His body was brought home today, recovered from the snow half a mile from the mine where he had fallen in a blizzard, the Christmas decorations clutched in his hands.

ASHES OF CHILE'S VOLCANOES FALL IN SOUTH BRAZIL

BUENOS AIRES, April 15—(AP)—Ashes from the Chilean volcanoes that have been in action recently began spreading today over lower Paraguay and some clouds got as far as Santos, Brazil, 1,645 miles from the volcano zone.

Most cities in Rio Grande Do Sul, Brazil, reported heavy ash clouds and strong volcanic fumes. Farmers said the rain of particles was injuring the rice crop, now being harvested.

Dispatches from Salta said a volcano near Cerro de las Zanjas began erupting today, belching out stones and smoke. Underground rumblings were heard and cracks appeared in the ground nearby.

Hungary Trims Budget Down to League's Figure

BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 15.—(AP)—Hungary's budget presented to parliament today, has been trimmed down to $141,000,000, approximately the figure recommended in October by the league of nations' finance committee. The country's total foreign debts are $700,000,000 of which $256,000,000 are in short term loans.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

SECRETARY MILLS' OPPORTUNITY.

The appearance of Secretary Mills before the senate's finance committee calls attention in unmistakable fashion to the enormous responsibility which the new head of the treasury carries. There is no man in the government today, and it might safely be added, there have been few in the nation's history, upon whose good sense and persuasiveness so much depends.

Fortunately, Mr. Mills has shown marked capacity for the position he holds. He has taken a firm stand for a balanced budget, a stand which it may still be too soon to characterize as unshakable, but which gives every promise of being unshakable. He has also shown no hesitation in pushing aside the demagogic demand for excessive taxation of wealth. This is not easy to do, particularly with a national election in the near future. The opposition party, as former Gov. Smith made clear, is likely to appeal for votes by arraying class against class with a view to capturing the votes of millions of unemployed. Mr. Mills' firm insistence that the unemployed will suffer most heavily if capital is driven into unproductive, tax exempt securities or into hiding provides a fair index to his courage and clearheadedness.

Without sound government finance there can be no stability for business, and without business stability there can be no improvement in the condition of the workingman. That is the doctrine which Mr. Mills is preaching. He is willing to compromise on specific items in the list of taxes, but he will not compromise on the fundamental issue of a balanced budget without punitive taxation. If he carries these policies through in the teeth of reckless politics and misguided clamor, he will have inscribed himself in the roll of great financial statesmen.

THE SOCIALISTS DISCHARGE A MAYOR.

Racine, Wisconsin's second city, a town of sound Republican antecedents, a year ago somewhat hilariously elected as mayor a young man without political, business, economic, or social experience. He bore the Socialist label, then almost unknown in Racine, but was elected largely by supporters of the former mayor who had been beaten in the primary. His friends rallied around the unknown Socialist candidate mainly as a rebuke to those who had voted against their favorite.

Today Racine finds that it not only elected the Socialist mayor but that it placed the state Socialist executive committee, a little group of Milwaukee officeholders, in final authority over its affairs.

This has become definitely clear with the announcement by the committee that the mayor, William Swoboda, has been expelled from the party on charges of gross official misconduct and given an ultimatum allowing him 10 days to resign on pain of public exposure and threatened grand jury action.

The mayor, on his part, anticipated the action by minutes. He announced his resignation from the party, declaring that its rule over him was intolerable and contrary to good public interest.

An ugly current of rumors, some emanating from the committee and some from the mayor, involves him in charges of negotiating with Chicago gamblers, contrary to the interests of the local fraternity and menacing the good name of the Socialists.

Without regard at present to the truth or falsity of these charges, or the fitness of Swoboda to be mayor, the action of the committee reveals a source of great danger to the community which elects as its chief executive one who admits accountability to any other than the people who elect him and the office he serves.

With Swoboda's election it became apparent his policies were those of the Socialist committee of which William Coleman, secretary; Mayor Dan Hoan, and Sheriff Al Benson, all of Milwaukee, were dominating factors. His speeches were reminiscent of those written and delivered by Hoan. Racine, the old timers said, was being governed from Milwaukee.

Now the mayor, having failed to give satisfaction, is to be expelled from his party and must resign his office. The Socialist party, with mayors in Wisconsin's first two cities, has too much at stake to be endangered by a weak or recalcitrant mayor.

The city of Racine, not the Socialist committee nor the young mayor, is the party most concerned in this controversy. Its interests are paramount.

The committee threatens the mayor with the grand jury. A grand jury should be called, but it should be called by the citizens. Whether the mayor resigns in 10 days or not should have nothing to do with it. The Socialist executives should be compelled to tell what they mean by gross official misconduct. The mayor should be made to tell of his loans and any relations with the gamblers he has talked about. The committee should have to tell by what right they demand the resignation of an elected official of a neighboring city and to what extent they influenced his political and public actions.

CONVENTIONS WOULD HAVE DONE IT BETTER.

The nominations are made. The voters know what they have done even if they do not all know how they did it or in all cases why. Among the losing candidates there are grief, headache, and flat pocketbooks. Many a misguided man, tempted by prospects which were all in his own mind, has given his bank account a sickening wallop. Many of the results produced by the primary voting can be accepted as good and some of them are admirable. Some are undesirable. A few couldn't be worse. One such is the Republican nomination for governor, and that was among the most important things the primary had as its concern.

This also is to be considered; nearly all of the results were accomplished by political organizations, the good as well as the bad, but the method—by direct voting—was devious and expensive. The Democratic slate was a good one and its success puts out a state ticket headed by an admirable candidate, Judge Horner, for governor. But that ticket would have been chosen in a state convention because there, as in the primaries, it would have represented the decision of the state organization of the party which wanted a good ticket. On the other hand a Republican convention would not have presented the nomination for governor to a candidate regarded as a burden to the party, a man whose record was a liability and who came into the convention with delegates representing such a minority as succeeded in making the nomination in the direct primary.

A Republican convention might have started its voting with five candidates, but it never would have been the final judgment of the party in convention to pick the worst candidate if he could not show any more voting strength than this nominee developed. A party organization at its worst may be willing to nominate a scalawag who has the votes, but not one who cannot produce them.

The direct primary is revealed with each use of it to be an expensive, uncertain, cumbersome method which cannot be depended upon for well considered decisions unless these decisions for the most part are made in advance by the same political leaders who would be influential in making the decisions of a convention. And when there is a division in the management the party has no means of getting down to brass tacks and using its best considered judgment. If it has the bad luck the Republican division encountered in this nomination for governor it will find itself carrying a minority candidate too weak to have been seriously considered as the compromise choice of a divided convention.

SIMPSON IN THE TENTH.

James Simpson Jr. apparently has won the Republican nomination for congress in the Tenth district. He seems to have defeated Congressman Chindblom, a man of long experience and high ranking in Washington, and Ralph E. Church, a man of standing and experience in the state legislature. It was Mr. Simpson's first flyer in politics and he won over veterans. The reason is a simple one, but it is also noteworthy.

In a district which contains some of the oldest and stanchest local option territory in the state, territory which barred the saloon before national prohibition was considered a possibility, the reaction against prohibition has been so widespread that neither Mr. Chindblom nor Mr. Church could modify their opinions sufficiently or quick enough on that issue to satisfy the demand of the voters. Both did undertake to make their positions conciliatory, although both had been dry. Mr. Chindblom for years understood that he represented a dry constituency. It contained Evanston, home of the white ribbon, and the north shore, which had a political record against the saloon. The constituency changed before the congressman realized it, and he changed too late.

Mr. Simpson, the newcomer in politics, had the advantage of unequivocal opinions against prohibition and in the traditional home of metropolitan prohibitionists he won as a wet.

Editorial of the Day

THE TAX THAT HITS ALL OF US HARDEST.

[N. Y. Evening Post.]

In times like these the tax that hits all of us hardest is the tax—whatever it may be—that depresses stock market value. No single element—perhaps not all others combined—plays so great a part in keeping down business enterprise as does the terrific decline in stock market prices. And to keep business enterprise down is to keep employment down and to protract the general misery and distress. Tom, Dick and Harry—the little people in Podunk, the little people on the lower east side of New York City, the little people in every town and hamlet in the country—may never look at a stock quotation and may not know what a stock ticker is; but every one of them is profoundly affected, in a period of business depression, by the failure of stock prices to rise and is acutely injured every time those prices fall.

Evident as this must be to any one who gives the matter ten minutes' intelligent attention, it plays an astonishingly small part in the habitual thoughts of people in general and an equally small part in the habitual thoughts of most members of congress. The reasons for the assertion we have made are extremely simple. First and foremost among them is the fact that millions of our people have invested all, or a large part, of what they possess in corporation stocks; and when the market value of these stocks is reduced to a small fraction of what it once was, these people justly feel that what they had relied upon as a provision for the future of themselves and their families can no longer be counted on to furnish that provision. This being their state of mind, they inevitably refrain from all avoidable expenditure. The consequence is that innumerable enterprises which that expenditure would have sustained lose the support necessary to their maintenance at anything like a normal level. The shrinkage of these enterprises means the throwing of countless thousands out of employment. These thousands thrown out of employment are unable to make their customary purchases, even if they do not become—as they so often do—objects of charity; and thus the devastation of business spreads wider and wider. Does it require any argument to show that—except in some very special classes of cases—such a state of things deeply injures us all?

It is not for the sake of Wall street but for the sake of all the people of the United States that we should refrain from running the slightest risk of intensifying that depression of the stock market which is the most portentous feature of the present situation.

THE THING TO DO these days is to go out in the old bus and as you speed along through the country and see the trees and the new green grass and the little buds of flowers all ready to burst in bloom you will forget the stock market and unemployment and politics. All you will think about is how much gasoline that old hog of a car drinks up and you'll wonder what she does with all that oil you pour down her. And you will have other thoughts from what occupied you in the great, remorseless city, because from the billboards at every turn and every hilltop and every valley and every few feet you are told that you should smoke Oompah cigarets and use Shiney-molar toothpaste and drink Gingery Ginger Ale. Ah, yes, Pollyanna, let us go back to nature! Try and get back, you poor boob.

LAY ON, MAC DUFF, AND DAMNED BE HE—

Hello! What, a Pennsy Dutch parentage for "donsie"? How come, then, that Burns was so familiar with the various meanings of the word? Look you at his "Address to the Unco Guid"—their donsie tricks, their black mistakes; i. e., harmful, mischievous. A different meaning, unmanageable or ill-tempered, is seen in "The Auld Farmer's Salutation to His Auld Mare"—though you were tricky, slee and funny, ye ne'er was donsie. And then again, in "The Deuk's Dang O'er My Daddie," still another meaning, testy, as applied to a termagant wife:

O, haud your tongue, now Nansie, O!
Ye wad na been sae donsie, O!

Ramsey, another Scotch poet (he died a year before the birth of Burns), makes use of the word to imply self-importance, "she was a donsie wife and clean." In a colloquial sense it really means sickly to the Scotch, as, "he's sair kep'n doon wi' a donsie wife and donsie bairns."

So somewhere in that Pennsy Dutch genealogy of donsie is at least a wee little bit o' Gaelic.

RULES OF PREVENTION.

DR. VICTOR E. LEVINE of Omaha has formulated thirty-five rules of health based on the theory that to cure is the voice of yesterday; to prevent is the divine whisper of today and tomorrow.

The first thirteen relate to mental and social hygiene, using the latter term in its broad sense—man's relation to his fellow man rather than in the narrow sense of sex hygiene. Briefly, these thirteen rules are: Have faith, hope, and courage. Be cheerful, amiable, and sociable under all conditions. Be calm. Put your best efforts into your task. Find happiness in your work. Choose friends wisely. Give something to life. Aim high. Learn to be happy, and content with what you have, while working toward something better. Learn to accept contentedly what you can reasonably obtain by the exercise of your best energies. Get interested in something that is useful and will occupy your time, and in people outside of yourself. Get married and raise a family. Change with the changing world.

And then follow twenty-two rules that relate more directly to the physical. These are: Play a little every day. Get plenty of rest and sufficient hours of sleep every day. The first of the two rules relating to rest refers particularly to short intervals of relaxation as a temporary relief measure. He refers to the after lunch nap as fifteen minutes of relaxation. He suggests a brief period of relaxation for the blues, nervousness, tensions, or even dizziness. When a man feels that he needs a bracer, such as a cup of tea or coffee, or a drink of whisky, he will be better off if he will relax for fifteen minutes. Be out in the fresh air at least one hour during the day or evening. Have a window open in your office or sitting room. Have your rooms comfortably warm and not too dry during the winter. In the cold weather wear clothing that keeps you warm in the outside, but remove the extra clothing when at work or when indoors. Get as much sunshine as you can.

Take a five minute bath once a day, or three times a week anyhow. Eat a hearty but simple and frugal breakfast. Drink two glasses of water with each meal. Have some raw fruit or vegetable with each meal. A citrous fruit, a serving of one of the iron rich fruits, and a serving of one or more of the vitamin rich vegetables should be served at each meal. Among the iron rich fruits he gives are: Dates, figs, apricots, prunes, and raisins. Among the vitamin rich vegetables are: Tomatoes, carrots, cabbage, spinach, and lettuce. Eat sea food at least once a week. Eat whole cereal and natural dairy products. Drink two glasses of milk during the day. Have a nibble of cheese once a day and one egg a day. When you have a cold or other minor illness rest in bed. Use approved prophylactic measures, such as vaccination. Go to your physician for minor complaints and defects. Visit your physician and your dentist twice a year.

STONES IN GALL BLADDER.

Mrs. M. L. B. writes: I was X-rayed three years ago and a large stone showed up in the gall bladder and a smaller one in one kidney. I consulted two doctors and each one wanted to operate. My daughter talked with other doctors about the case. All advised against operation, saying that at my age I would never feel the same after an operation. I am past 70.

In the last three years I have had five or six spells of colic. It seems to be in the gall bladder, as I get no pain in the kidney. A week ago I had a severe spell and had to have a hypodermic to deaden the pain.

What diet is best for me and what medicine would you suggest? I take a tablespoonful of olive oil daily and drink a lot of buttermilk.

REPLY.

As a rule, gallstones do not cause colic. No medicine will dissolve these stones nor influence them in any way. Olive oil has a reputation it does not deserve. Taken in large doses it is likely to form soapstones in the digestive tract. Many think these soapstones from the intestines are gallstones from the gall bladder. They are not.

My advice is that you eat meat and eggs in moderation; that you eat no spices, condiments, dressings, or rich foods, nor heavy meals. Beyond this you need not go in for dieting.

ENCEPHALITIS.

K. K. T. writes:

1. Is encephalitis the same as sleeping sickness?
2. What is the cause?
3. Is there a cure for the disease?
4. Does it lead to insanity or mental incapacities of any kind?

REPLY.

1. One name for the encephalitis is sleeping sickness. There are several kinds of encephalitis. Epidemic encephalitis is the kind that is of interest now.
2. It is an infection and is probably due to a virus.
3. Most cases get well—at least partly so. Good medical care is the only cure we have.
4. Yes, as to both questions. That is an occasional outcome. Sometimes a changed personality results. Sometimes palsy. Complete recovery occurs in other cases.

CHICAGO POLICEMEN.

Chicago, April 10. — [Friend of the People.]—Can you advise me as to the number of vacancies there are at the present time on the Chicago police force? What is their base pay and when do they expect to hire more policemen?

J. O.

At the present time it is impossible to state the number of vacancies in the rank of patrolman on the Chicago police department because no appropriation has been made for the year 1932. The number employed will depend entirely upon the appropriation ordinance passed by the city council. The rate of pay for patrolmen is $2,140 for third class; $2,260 for second class, after one year's service; and $2,500 for first class. The prospects for an increase in personnel is entirely dependent upon the appropriation ordinance for 1932.

TAXES.

Chicago, April 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you please advise me to whom I must write to pay taxes on some lots that I have in the state of Kentucky? I was living there with my aunt and she used to pay the taxes for me, but now she is dead and I live in Chicago.

CAN TAKE JUDGMENT.

Chicago, April 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A realty finance company claims to have taken over the defaulted contracts of another firm for vacant property and has threatened to enforce collection of my contract on which no payment has been made since 1928. Contract does not provide for enforced collections, merely stipulates forfeiture of payments already made and possession of premises in case of default. Can they collect?

C. A. B.

Without having the wording before us, we must assume that the wording is such as to give the vendor the option of defaulting the contract, and that the purchaser's promise to pay is unconditional. In such case the vendor or his assignee would be entitled to take judgment for the amount that the vendee had promised to pay.

2. Try complaining to the police.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1895

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 2.—It is the belief of officials in a position to know the status of affairs between Japan and China that Japan will declare the peace negotiations off unless China hastens them. There is increasing irritation on the part of Japan over delays in presenting definite peace proposals.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—A correspondent from Shanghai telegraphs: "I learn on good authority that China will offer to repurchase Port Arthur but that she will not cede an inch of territory to Japan." The correspondent adds that Gens. Neshong and Yehi, with 12,000 troops, have joined Gen. Sung. The whole Chinese force is now massed along the Liao river.

YOKOHAMA, Jan. 3.—It is said the mikado has conferred upon Emperor William the Grand Order of the Imperial Chrysanthemum in recognition of the services rendered by German officers to the Japanese officers who have been under their instruction in military and naval science.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—A dispatch to the Times from Tientsin says reports from Newchwang declare that the fighting on Dec. 22 about the village of Kang Wan Thai lasted six hours. Gen. Sung then retired west of Tien Chwang Star and the Japanese returned to Hai Chang.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 4.—John W. Foster, former secretary of state, has arrived here en route to Japan to act as counsel for the Chinese peace commissioners.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 4.—On motion of Senator Stewart the senate adopted a resolution making inquiry of the secretary of state as to whether John W. Foster had any connection with the American government in his mission to China and Japan.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

LONDON.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Standard sends a rumor that Vice Admiral Togo's fleet escorted Japanese troops landed to the westward of the Yalu river. When 12,000 men had been landed the Russian troops, which were lying concealed, suddenly attacked them, driving them back to the ships with heavy losses in men and guns.

ST. PETERSBURG. — A telegram from Admiral Alexieff from Port Arthur to the emperor says that from 9:15 o'clock yesterday morning to midday the Japanese fleet in two divisions bombarded the fortress and the town alternately from the Liaotishan promontory, firing 185 projectiles. The Russian squadron, including the battleship Pobieda, replied from the anchorage. The batteries also participated. The Russian warships sustained no damage and there was no loss of life on them.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Russian government officially notified the United States that newspaper correspondents who send news by wireless telegraphy concerning the movements of Russian warships or troops will, if captured, be shot as spies.

NEWCHWANG. — All communication with Port Arthur seems to be cut off. Newchwang is practically isolated from the Liaotung peninsula. News of the sinking of the battleship Petropavlovsk reached here from foreign sources. There is a rumor of a Japanese attack on Port Arthur last Sunday. The sinking of the battleship and the attendant great loss of life at Port Arthur is regarded here as the most profound event of the war.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—A fund of $5,000,000 has been set apart by Andrew Carnegie, to be known as "The Hero Fund," for the purpose of recognizing and rewarding acts of heroism by those ordinarily following peaceful avocations.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson has decided to inform Gen Carranza, in response to his request for the withdrawal of the American troops from Mexico, that the United States is willing to fix a limit on the distance the American soldiers now in pursuit of Villa shall proceed into Mexico and to make that limit not much farther south than the troops have proceeded. The United States is also willing to give assurance that the American troops will be withdrawn within "a reasonable time," or as soon as it is definitely established that Villa has reached a point where he can be dealt with better by the Carranza forces.

EL PASO, Tex.—A detachment of the Tenth United States cavalry, entering Parral to recover the bodies of two of their men who were killed when they hoped to obtain food supplies, opened fire with a machine gun when a mob rushed the detachment on April 12. About 48 Mexicans were killed and between 70 and 80 wounded, according to the report made public here by government officials. The report says that Carranza soldiers were in the mob.

PROBLEM OF CONDUCT.

Chicago, April 11.—A friend of mine is a married man who has one child five months old and for eight years has worked for one of our great railroads, only to lose his position three months ago, due to our much mentioned depression. During his employment he managed to save $2,500, every cent of which was invested in real estate gold bonds. Each and every bond has defaulted and at today's bids he can realize approximately $250. He is four months in arrears in his rent and the receiver for his building has served notice for him to move within the next two weeks, where to, God only knows.

May I digress for a moment to show the type of man this friend happens to be? At 6 in the morning one will find him on his way to the loop looking for any kind of work that will bring him enough for food, let alone the other necessities of life. His habits are beyond reproach and his married life has been a happy one.

Only recently a respectable bootlegger has given him an opportunity to work for him at a decent salary pouring liquor into bottles and sealing the same. Should he take the position and gamble with the future? S. S. H.

ELECTIONS ON SUNDAY.

Wheaton, Ill., April 10.—It is apparent from the election returns in Germany that the people there are actually casting a large percentage of the possible vote of the nation. Out of a population a little larger than half of that of the United States they polled about 32,000,000 votes for the two highest candidates, and these in a campaign not much, if any, more interesting that the campaign here in 1928. In that year we polled 36,000,000 votes. The reason, in my opinion, lies in the fact that their election day is Sunday. Also I take it that the reasoned choosing of the heads of our great country is not apart from the work of God but should rightfully be a part of those activities of mankind which are dedicated to him; hence there ought to be no religious objection in any Christian land to holding a national election on the so-called Lord's day.

SHERMAN W. CLARK.

COOLIDGE AND SMITH.

Chicago, April 12. — The suggestion made by the St. Paul Pioneer Press in their editorial of April 10, reprinted in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of April 11, of a coalition government, headed by Calvin Coolidge and Alfred E. Smith, seems to me will do all that is claimed for it, and I think that your great newspaper would perform a patriotic duty, through facilities at your command, to obtain an expression on this subject from the citizens of our country.

May we suggest that this be accomplished through your radio broadcast by requesting votes to be sent in, and results of poll published daily in your great newspaper?

EDW. J. CLOHESSY.

ACADEMIC FREEDOM.

Ames, Ia., April 15.—The analogy which the Italian consul attempts to draw between the oath to which officials of the Fascist state have to subscribe with that imposed upon officers of our government is so palpably inaccurate as to require a sharp reprimand. It is well known that those who are employed by Mussolini either in the Italian universities or in administrative posts are not permitted to criticize the régime in any manner. On the other hand, the bill of rights of the United States constitution accords to officials and the public alike liberty of speech. Very frequently officials in our system occupying high places do not hesitate to criticize in the strongest terms what they conceive to be evils in the practices of government in this country. If this were done in Italy it would subject the critic not only to dismissal but to banishment from the country in all probability.

It is to the crowning credit of our state universities and colleges that the oath to support the constitution is not imposed on the faculty. They enjoy almost complete academic freedom. In truth, some of the severest criticisms of our political and economic order in the United States have their source in our state universities. Such a system would not be tolerated for a moment in Italian state supported universities.

GEDDES W. RUTHERFORD.

TIN CANS.

Chicago, April 11.—The idea of the forest preserve is, as I understand it, to give people of Chicagoland a chance to see the beauties of nature in its natural state. The preserves as a rule are kept fairly clean, but the little stream that is trying to wend its rippling way through the preserve at the end of the Milwaukee avenue car line has been so befouled by tin cans and other rubbish dumped into it at different places that it looks more like an open sewer than a brook.

Can't it be raked over and the rubbish removed every so often, and signs put up warning hoi polloi not to throw rubbish into it? JAMES TILTON SMITH.

POSTAL RATES.

Chicago, April 13.—It is perhaps unfair to expect you to publish something which may vitally affect the affairs of your own house. However, your policy has been so broad and liberal that I shall not be surprised if you do and not disappointed if you do not. The contemplated action of increasing first class postal rates, which show an annual profit of $80,000,000, falls on the necks of already overburdened citizens, and permitting the second class, which shows an annual deficit of $90,000,000, to remain unchanged, seems a bit apart from the ethics of good business. 3 B's.

CONSTRUCTIVE.

Highland Park, Ill., April 11.—The announcement of the Lindbergh reward in this morning's paper is the most constructive undertaking THE TRIBUNE has done in some time. Congratulations!

ACT TO COLLECT ON DEFAULTED FOREIGN BONDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 15.—[Special.]—Steps looking toward the organization of a foreign bondholders' organization which would coöperate with the state department in the ultimate collection of the 800 million of defaulted European and Latin-American bonds held by American investors were initiated today by Undersecretary of State William R. Castle.

As a first move the state department held a meeting attended by Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, Undersecretary Castle, and five international financial experts.

Developments of this meeting were shrouded in secrecy, although it was understood state department efforts were to be confined to the giving of information and advice.

Bolster American Exports.

Simultaneously, a move to bolster American exports through trimming down foreign trade barriers was begun by state department and treasury officials meeting at the office of Assistant Secretary of State Grafton Rogers. Whether the subject of taking retaliatory action against European tariff discriminations was discussed by the state and commerce departments officials in attendance was not divulged.

The meeting to discuss the collection of foreign bonds is understood to be the first move taken by the state department in this direction. Hitherto the department has passed upon foreign bond issues but has insisted that it had no responsibility for the merit of the loans nor for their future collection.

These Attend Meeting.

Those who attended the foreign bond meeting in addition to Mr. Castle and Secretary Mills were Harvey H. Bundy, assistant secretary of state; Herbert D. Feis, economic adviser of the state department; Grosvenor Jones, chief of the finance division of the commerce department; Edwin W. Kemmerer, professor of economics at Princeton and finance specialist for various foreign countries; George Rublee, former assistant to Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow; Thomas Nelson Perkins, former member of the reparations commission and connected with Lee Higginson & Co., large holders of Kreuger & Toll bonds; Charles P. Howland, chairman of the Greek refugee settlement commission and trustee of Johns Hopkins university; Pierre Jay, former chairman of the Federal Reserve bank of New York and transfer agent of the Dawes plan organization since 1927.

It is understood that defaulted Latin-American bonds came in for a large part of the discussion. Prof. Kemmerer, specialist on Latin-American finance, conferred with President Hoover for 45 minutes prior to the meeting. Dr. Jones, who attended the state department session, was among the commerce department experts who took issue with the state department regarding several Latin-American bond issues several years ago and urged that they be disapproved.

Consider Tariff Restrictions.

The meeting to consider European tariff restrictions was attended by Assistant Secretary of State Rogers; Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce; John Matthews Jr., assistant director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce; Henry Chalmers, chief of the tariff division, and Daniel Reagan, assistant commercial attaché in Paris.

The tariff conference is making a particular study of French, British, Spanish, and German trade restrictions which have cut American exports so severely in recent months. Spain and Germany both have preferential tariffs opposed to the system of most favored nation treatment which the United States sponsors.

Illinois Foreign Trade.

Illinois' part in the 1931 foreign trade of the United States in dollar value amounted to $141,008,291, the department of commerce announced today. The state was fifth in the United States in the value of its products shipped abroad, New York, Texas, California, and Pennsylvania having higher totals.

The value of Illinois' exports, however, was considerably lower than in the two preceding years, the total for 1930 being slightly more than 200 millions and for 1929, $236,762,882.

Wheel tractors, the department's figures showed, were the state's principal export abroad. Lard was the next most important, with track-laying tractors and wheat following in order.

Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, in a statement issued in conjunction with the export figures of states, pointed out the "importance of our foreign markets to farming, mining and manufacturing interests in every state of the Union."

Bandits Get Same Loot on Their Second Visit

The same pair of bandits who obtained $1,000 in a holdup of the Household Finance company branch at 736 East 63d street a month ago returned yesterday and got another $1,000. When the pair entered, the manager, Charles C. Martens, 7442 Vernon avenue, recognized them and reached for a telephone. "If you want to live, leave that phone alone," one robber said, drawing his revolver. They lined up three women employés and took the money from the safe.

Negro Believed Slain by Attackers.

Columbus, O., April 15.—[Special.]—Despite Ohio National Guardsmen had declared martial law in the Cadiz mine district, disorder and further outbreaks flared anew there today.

At least four miners were severely beaten and more than a dozen others attacked by more than 200 striking miners.

The body of Carl Uygreu, a Negro, was found at the Harmon Creek mine late in the day, and it is believed he was a victim of the riot.

More than 4,000 strikers jeered the guardsmen as they entered the Sommers mine to preserve order while working miners reported.

In another section of the strike area a mob of strikers slashed tires of the workers' automobiles and thirty-three soldiers were rushed to the scenes in time to avert a riot.

Three men were arrested today for killing Walter Kimbel, a striker, during the riot in the Sommers mine. Strikers claim Guardsmen fired the fatal shots. Tear gas bombs were used by Sheriff Maurice Wooster.

Meanwhile in the southern district of Ohio where more than 2,000 miners are striking the first recognition of the United Mine Workers' Union of America was given by mine operators. This came about by the possible formation of the Southern Ohio Truck Mine association wherein the unions have agreed to allow the truck mines to continue operation. Union men must be employed.

BUDAPEST, April 15.—Budapest's "murder-to-order" case ended today with the sentencing of Fritz Fischl to four years' imprisonment on a manslaughter conviction for the killing of Rudolph Steinherz, a wine merchant, in a compartment of a railroad train.

The defense in the case was that the victim ordered and paid for his own murder. The story of the defendant was accepted by the medical advisers of the court, whose report established that Steinherz, to obtain insurance money under a policy which excluded suicidal death, actually engaged Fischl to murder him.

Steinherz was traveling alone in a compartment on a train. After taking a large dose of veronal he inserted a gag in his mouth and calmly awaited his murderer. When Fischl, as had been arranged, according to his story, entered the compartment with a hammer, Steinherz pointed to his temple, and Fischl beat in his skull.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 15.—To commemorate the 25th anniversary of King George's ascension to the throne, the princes of India have offered and Viceroy Lord Willingdon has accepted a gift to the empire of a training airdrome and school to cost $10,000,000. The princes will give 10 per cent of their annual revenues for maintenance and scholarships in flying.

The governments of South Africa, Australia and New Zealand also have offered to contribute to the maintenance of the airdrome, which will be located at Ajmer-Merwara, in Rajputana, where conditions are said to be ideal for flying.

King George became the British empire's ruling monarch at the death of his father on May 6, 1910. His 25th anniversary will be marked in 1935.

PARLEY ON MINER WAGE SCALE RUNS INTO NEW DEADLOCK

The joint wage conference of Illinois miners and operators reached another deadlock yesterday when the scale subcommittee reported back to the general conference that it had been unable to agree on a basis for further negotiations.

The conference was adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning at the request of the operators without any official action on the report of the subcommittee. It was indicated by the operators that a statement presenting their stand would be issued this morning when the conference resumes.

When the subcommittee reported to the conference, John Moulin, chairman of the miners, said the disagreement came after the operators "tried to force on us the wage conditions of West Virginia and Kentucky fields."

Moulin announced the proposition had provided a 36 per cent reduction of the old basic scale of $6.10, making the proposed scale approximately $3.90. It was unofficially stated by some of the miners in the general conference that internal strife in the United Mine Workers of America was hindering a speedy solution.

IDENTIFY RIVER SUICIDE.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 15.—[Special.]—The man who jumped off the Wisconsin avenue bridge last night and drowned in the Milwaukee river today was identified as Alex Grzybowski, 25, of 1049 South 20th street. No motive has been discovered.

CALLS ALIMONY ROW A RELIC OF DARK AGES

Marriage Expert Assails Judge Trude.

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday was challenged to a debate by Dr. S. L. Katzoff, medical director of the Institute of Domestic Relations, San Francisco, on the question: "Resolved, that Judge Trude's imprisonment of 52 husbands for failure to pay alimony is un-American and smacks of the methods of the Spanish Inquisition."

Dr. Katzoff, author of several books on matrimony and divorce, said he had become indignant upon reading of Judge Trude's imprisonment of husbands and had stopped off in Chicago especially to issue the challenge. He is leaving for New York this afternoon, but will be back in a week to debate the alimony question if Judge Trude agrees.

Suggests Aid for Prisoners.

"If there should be admission charged to the debate, I would insist that the proceeds go to free those unfortunate men in alimony row," he said.

Dr. Katzoff visited the 89 men held for nonpayment of alimony at the county jail and interviewed some of them.

"It is unthinkable in this day and age that men should be penalized for having been husbands," he said. "This modern racket of alimony is sheer piracy. With all respects to Judge Trude, he is harking back to the dark ages when Englishmen could be put in prison for debt.

Hopes Trude Accepts.

"I hope he accepts the challenge to a debate. I want to hear him justify his imprisonment of 52 American citizens for nonpayment of alimony."

The San Francisco institute was established three years ago, Dr. Katzoff said, to counsel couples who contemplate marriage and to advise those who have made a failure of marriage.

"The subject of matrimony is one of the most important in this country," he declared. "In our institute we have shown thousands of young couples the way to happy marriage. The institute is nonprofit sharing and no one is turned away for lack of funds."

Treat Him Like a Baby.

The matrimonial expert said he advises wives who want to hold their husbands' interest to "treat them like a baby." "A man in the hands of an intelligent woman is like putty," he said. "He's nothing but a headstrong juvenile and must be treated like one. Let him talk all he wants. Don't interrupt him. Call him baby names. He likes it."

Dr. Katzoff said he had brought with him to Chicago an automatic pistol which he took two months ago from a Chicago wife who appeared before him in San Francisco.

"I'm going to return the gun to this woman before I leave," he said. "She wanted to shoot her husband and his mistress at that time. I told her to compete with the other woman, use feminine allurements to get her husband back. According to her last letter she has succeeded."

DAUGHTER SAYS TESTA KILLERS WENT TO FUNERAL

Dorothy Testa, 16 years old, 2709 Polk street, was a witness yesterday at the inquest into the death of her father, Nicholas, who was shot and killed in front of his home on April 1. Dorothy saw the killing.

"Have you ever seen the men who shot your father since then?" she was asked.

"Yes," the girl replied. "Two of them went to the funeral."

She explained that she had been afraid to tell the police, adding that, as she was on the way home from the cemetery, the men met her and threatened to kill her unless she "forgot everything."

After hearing her testimony the coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder by persons unknown. Testa was a precinct worker for James Savage, candidate for Republican ward committeeman against Assistant District Attorney William Parrillo, and the killing was attributed by the police to political enemies.

LOTTERY RACKET TALKS CHARITY; U. S. TAKES HAND

New York, April 15.—[Special.]—A lottery racket used for raising funds for charity by professional promoters under the sponsorship of respectable fraternal organizations is under federal investigation, it was revealed today by United States Attorney George Z. Medalie.

Approximately 50,000,000 tickets at 50 cents apiece have been offered for sale through the membership of these four organizations, according to the government. The promoters are reported to have kept two-thirds of the proceeds. The federal investigation is to determine whether the lottery laws have been violated. The promoters offer automobiles as prizes.

"Our 7-column advertisement in last Sunday's Tribune, featuring men's suits and topcoats at $7, helped to produce the largest clothing sale in our history," said Leon Mandel, general manager of Mandel Brothers.

"Although the price was exceptionally low, the quality was exceptionally high, and this combination of good merchandise at a price the public is willing to pay, plus the well known pulling power of the Sunday Tribune, certainly rang the bell.

"Traffic in the department on Monday exceeded 10,000 persons, and since then thousands of men are taking advantage of the marvelous values every day."

The Chicago Tribune, reaching more than a million families every Sunday and more than 815,000 on week days, is Chicago's most productive retail advertising medium. Whether basement or upstairs, the Tribune produces satisfactory results on merchandise attractively priced.

The Chicago Tribune steamed up to her dock in the Chicago river at 7:15 o'clock last night after an 800 mile trip from Thorold, Ont., and Capt. B. J. Brown loosed the single long blast of his whistle which announced his victory in the annual race of THE TRIBUNE'S paper fleet.

CAPT. BROWN.

Fifty minutes later the New York News, sister ship of the Tribune, pulled in and docked behind the winner. Capt. F. V. McIntyre of the News won last years' race against the Thorold, third and largest of THE TRIBUNE owned fleet.

Two More on Way.

The Thorold was still plowing the waves farther north on Lake Michigan. Capt. George Ferguson sent a radiogram ahead that he expected to dock his vessel, a slower craft than the News and Tribune, at 5:30 o'clock this morning. The Bennington, a chartered ship which is also carrying newsprint to THE TRIBUNE from the Thorold plant of the Ontario Paper company, was expected to get in an hour and a half ahead of the Thorold. Capt. Fred Mastine commands her.

Capt. Brown and his crew of 19 men were elated at their victory over the News, whose master and crew had previously boasted that they had the faster ship. The two ships were running prow and prow Thursday morning when they passed Mackinac island, the last point at which they were sighted from land before they reached Chicago.

The Tribune's running time from Thorold to Chicago was 105 hours and 5 minutes. The fleet opened the 1932 navigation season on the great lakes, which, because of insurance regulations, did not open for most craft until yesterday, and its run to Chicago was made in several places through channels in which the usual buoys and other guides to navigation had not been set out for the season.

Battle Against Storms.

"We fought a head wind and a snowstorm all the way across Lake Erie," Capt. Brown said. "Tuesday night we ran the channel through the St. Clair flats at Detroit, in a snowstorm, without buoys to guide us, and on Lake Huron we struck more snow and heavy seas.

"Yesterday morning, when we passed Lansing shoals, we were even with the News. At Gull island, near the entrance to Green bay, we were still even. We turned south there and ran 274 miles in a straight line for Chicago. At nightfall yesterday we had pulled a mile ahead of the News, and when the sun came up this morning she was hull down on the horizon, eight miles behind us. We held our advantage all day long. Harvey Collins, our chief engineer, deserves the credit for our victory. He had his stokers sweating throughout the trip."

This is the first time the Tribune has ever come to Chicago, and it was also the first time Capt. Brown and most of his crew had ever visited the city. Simon Burke, second mate of the ship, is making his first visit in 22 years. The last time he visited here was to be acclaimed as a hero of the Pere Marquette car ferry disaster on northern Lake Michigan in 1910, in which he was credited with saving twenty lives.

Unloading Is Speeded.

Ships, like box cars, earn no money while they are standing still, and H. A. Laird, traffic manager of THE TRIBUNE, stepped aboard the Tribune the moment she was moored, together with customs and immigration inspectors who approved her papers. At 7:41 o'clock, just 26 minutes after the ship tied up, specially designed cranes were hoisting the 1,500 pound rolls of paper from her hold into THE TRIBUNE warehouse alongside at the rate of five or six a minute.

The Tribune's holds were emptied in six hours, and the stevedore gangs then started work on the News, hurrying to empty her by the time the Thorold arrived. The four ships brought 14,706,000 pounds of newsprint to Chicago, enough to feed THE TRIBUNE presses for three and a half weeks.

FALL ON STAIRS PROVES FATAL TO GUY CRAMER

Guy Cramer, secretary of the West Central association and a former newspaper man, died last night at the county hospital of skull injuries suffered Thursday when he fell down a stairway in the city hall. He was 56 years old and resided at 4430 Malden avenue.

At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, Mr. Cramer went to Cuba as a war correspondent for a Chicago paper. Shortly after his return to Chicago he embarked upon a stage career, but after a year returned to the journalistic field. He joined the staff of THE TRIBUNE and was sent to Norway and Sweden on a special assignment. Later he went to New York and worked on the staff of the New York Herald.

In 1905 he was appointed secretary to Mayor Edward F. Dunne. Later he held a similar position with Peter Reinberg during the latter's presidency of the county board. During the San Francisco fair he served as secretary to the Illinois commission. Mr. Cramer was born in Lafayette, Ind., and educated at Wabash college. Surviving him is his widow, Nancy.

Carbondale, Ill., April 15.—[Special.]—The Plumbers and Steamfitters' union in this county today announced a wage reduction of from $11 to $9 a day, or an approximate reduction of 18 per cent, effective at once.

SWINDLE CASE SUSPECT HELD; IS IDENTIFIED

St. Louis, Mo., April 15.—[Special.]—One of the two suspected confidence men arrested here Wednesday after failure of an attempt to swindle William E. Callahan, head of the W. E. Callahan Construction company, was identified late today in connection with the attempted swindle of Chauncey McCormick, Chicago capitalist.

McCormick's secretary paid out $5,925 last February on spurious telegrams supposedly from her employer, who was in Miami, directing her to accept and pay for tapestries. An attempt to repeat the ruse on McCormick failed.

The identification was made by Mike Tadelman, 18, Chicago newsboy, brought here by Detective Sergeant K. Phelan of Chicago. The suspect refused to waive extradition on the Chicago charge and a fugitive warrant for him was obtained.

Tadelman identified the suspect as the man who hired him to deliver a package of "tapestry" to McCormick's secretary and receive payment.

He's Not Only a Cop, but Whole Fire Department

Canton, Ill., April 15.—[Special.]—State Highway Patrolman James Bainter discovered a building on the Guiher farm on fire. He turned his machine and sped back to Lewiston, opened the village fire hall, drove the community fire truck to the scene of the blaze, and extinguished the flames single handed.

SPRING'S TONIC IS READY TODAY; IT'S THE CIRCUS

Dress Rehearsal Draws Crowd's Applause.

The greatest spring tonic of all time awaits Chicago in the Coliseum. Several hundred invited guests of the management, of all ages, gathered there last night for the dress rehearsal of the Sells-Floto circus, opening its season today.

All memories of the omnipresent depression apparently had been parked outside, and inside shouts and handclapping echoed again and again as the "great and glittering galaxy" of other years proved that it not only was just as good—but that it was even better.

To the inevitable obbligato of crunching peanut shells, trumpeting elephants, barking seals, yipping cowboys, and gasps from the audience, the old spectacle of the tanbark track wove its usual spell.

Applause for New Acts.

Unstinted rounds of applause greeted the new tricks learned by the big string of elephants, the daring acrobatic and balancing acts, the old favorites among the horses, the performers and the clowns, and the various novelties acquired for the summer.

Nothing more spectacular has been seen in Chicago than the new Gretona troupe of six young Germans, four men and two girls, who perform on a wire high in the air, with no net beneath. Their wire walking, flipflops, and bicycle riding kept the crowd below shivering at the memory of an accident that occurred here last summer to a similar troupe.

Tradition Plays Its Part.

Circus traditions played a large part in the interest attached to last night's rehearsal. It marked the first appearance in the ring of Gracie, little daughter of "Poodles" Hannaford, the famous riding clown, and the return to the Sells-Floto show of the Nelson family, fourth generation of a circus act started in England in 1847. Gracie Hannaford represents the third generation, her parents and grandmother also appearing in the riding act familiar to circus fans.

Australia Nelson, one of the four daughters included in the Nelson troupe of seven, won a large share of applause with a series of difficult flipflops on an elevated platform, and her sister, Carmencita, took the spotlight in a lightning cartwheel progress down the length of the hippodrome track. Their parents and a brother appear with the four girls.

TWO STEAL STEEL MILL, BUT KEEN EYES OF OHIO DETECTIVES LOCATE IT

The Kalman Steel company of Niles reported its whole Youngstown plant, even to steel rails, crane and an office building, had disappeared.

"It was all there last week," said the mystified manager.

Detectives traced some miscellaneous machinery and equipment to Albert and Jacob Manzanski, they said, and arrested the pair on charges of grand larceny. They also expect to arrest a junk dealer.

HIGH EXPLOSIVES HELD BLAMELESS IN OHIO TRAGEDY

Experts Discount Theory of Vandals.

Columbus, O., April 15.—(AP)—While state officials tonight continued their investigation of a theory that bomb vandals were responsible for the explosion yesterday in the new state office building in which eight men were killed and scores injured, explosive experts said that a preliminary investigation did not show that high explosives were used.

The experts, summoned here from the E. I. du Pont de Nemours company at Wilmington, Del., informed Gov. George White, after an hour in the ruins, that they believed no high explosives, such as nitroglycerine, T. N. T., or dynamite, had been used causing $1,000,000 damage to the $6,000,000 building.

Choas Fixes Opinion.

The experts said they based their contention on the fact that a high explosive would have "cleaned material from around the point from which it was set off."

They said the disaster, which hurled men through open windows and buried others under the marble which encased the steel and brick structure, appeared to be of a "general nature," making it difficult to determine the location of the "plant."

State investigators, while inclined to await further details of the investigation conducted by the experts, returned to the earlier theory that sewer gas, accumulating in the subcellar of the building, might have caused the blast.

This theory was upheld in part, they agreed, by the experts' statements that, whatever its source, the explosion came from the subcellar.

Centering of the explosion in the southwest corner was pointed to by some investigators as significant in as much as this portion of the building housed the office of Charles Martin, superintendent of construction for Harry Hake, Cincinnati, architect of the building. Martin's many duties included the settlement of labor disputes.

The office building was a source of political and labor bickering even since it was conceived nearly 10 years ago.

LIKENS PRICE FIXING BY GOVERNMENT TO TO PROHIBITION EVIL

Philadelphia, Pa., April 15.—[Special.]—A warning against the possible effects of governmental price fixing of food and other commodities was sounded here today by Dean Wallace B. Donham of the graduate school of business, Harvard university.

Such price fixing "would duplicate the evils of prohibition and create bootleg channels in industry," he said, speaking at the 36th annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

Dr. Donham advocated a "board of thoughtful men" to serve as advisers to the government on economic problems and stated: "If such an advisory board had been in existence the depression would have ended 18 months ago. I am not criticizing the administration, but I have been convinced that the last 18 months have seen an unnecessary money panic and the unstabilization of the middle class.

"The government has furnished us with a perfectly sound credit program, but the significant thing is the lack of any central thinking organization and the fact that the program comes about two years after it was needed."

GREAT-GRANDSON OF N. Y. RECLUSE HOLDS ESTATE

Court Disinherits Nephew of Mrs. Wood.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 15.—[Special.]—Temporary possession of the fantastically hoarded fortune of more than a million dollars left by the late Mrs. Ida E. Wood, belle of New York of civil war days, was awarded to Henry Wood, a great-grandson, today by Surrogate James A. Foley. The ruling disinherited, at least for the time being, Otis F. Wood, a nephew, who "discovered" the little old lady after she had lived in seclusion for 24 years in a two room suite in the Herald Square hotel. Mrs. Wood, 93, died on March 12.

Today's ruling was considered only the first chapter of a long series of court proceedings which eventually will determine who gets the Wood fortune, made up of ancient banknotes, yellowing securities, antique jewelry, rare old books and paintings, Bohemian glass and Lyons silks hidden for three decades in trunks and closets in a hotel bedroom.

Frightened by Panic of 1907.

It was apparent before Mrs. Wood's death that a fight would take place for her property. The panic of 1907 so frightened the woman who had once been the belle of social functions from New Orleans to mid-Victorian New York that she retired to her hermitlike quarters and, trusting no person nor bank, lived a life utterly bent on economizing.

For a quarter of a century she remained forgotten by her relatives, and then her nephew, Otis Wood, found her. Her hoardings, in trunks, were discovered little by little. Otis Wood had himself appointed as her guardian and then relatives began to appear all the way from New York to California. They soon resolved themselves into two family factions, about which the present contest centers.

Following the death of his aunt, Otis Wood filed a will for probate. The will was executed in 1889 and bequeathed the estate to a daughter, Emma, and a sister, Mary E. Mayfield, both of whom are now dead. His petition for papers of administration was opposed by Mrs. Blanche Wood Shields, a granddaughter of the first marriage of Benjamin Wood, husband of Mrs. Ida Wood, and by Benjamin Wood's sister, Gertrude A. Wood, as well as Henry Wood, great-grandson by the first marriage.

Named Temporary Administrator.

"It appears from the papers submitted," read the surrogate's decision, "that Otis F. Wood, a nephew of the husband of the decedant, would not be entitled to participate in the distribution of the estate as against the nearest of kin, the granddaughter and great grandson of the husband. In any event, if blood relations of the decedent herself establish their standing they will be entitled to inherit the property to the exclusion of the relatives of the husband. To protect the interests of both branches of the family, Henry Wood, one of the petitioners, and the Bankers Trust company will be appointed temporary administrators."

There are ten relatives siding with Otis Wood who claim to be nephews, nieces, and grandnephews and grandnieces. They reside in New York, Paris, and Peiping, China. Five relatives make up the opposing side, now in temporary possession of the fortune. They reside in New York City and in New Jersey towns. No blood relatives of Mrs. Wood have appeared, although it was said that the children of a long lost brother of Mrs. Wood who had settled on the west coast would be contestants.

Mrs. Wood's husband, a one time member of congress, died in 1900. As a girl, Mrs. Wood danced with the Prince of Wales, counted Samuel J. Tilden among her personal friends, and ran the old New York Daily News after her husband's death. Her brother-in-law, Fernando Wood, was mayor of New York. Then in 1907 a fear of poverty led her to drop out of the social world and hide for years in a hotel room.

YOUTHS ADMIT HOLDUP KILLING; GET LIFE TERMS

CRIMINAL COURT.

Thomas Malloy, Henry Yanrock, and Sam Cossett, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Roy Rogers, Edward Davis, and Leonard Macey, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Orville Barker, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory; William Trock and James Checkley, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge James J. Kelly.

Stanley Szimelfejnik and Fred Loscombe, murder, sentenced to life each in the penitentiary; Steve Surman and Thaddeus Warden, murder, sentenced to 35 years each in the penitentiary; Sam Sisson, robbery, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge John Prystalski.

Judge John Prystalski yesterday sentenced Stanley Szymelfejnik and Fred Loscomb, both 21 years old, to life imprisonment on their pleas of guilty to the murder of Adolph Caravetta, owner of a grocery at 736 North Damen avenue.

Caravetta was killed Nov. 30 last year when a resisted a holdup. Steve Surman, 18 years old, a third member of the gang, received a 35 year sentence yesterday on his plea of guilty. Thaddeus Warden, 20 years old, driver for the gang, was convicted last week by a jury and his sentence also fixed at 35 years.

Szymelfejnik's crossed eyes and a peculiar raincoat led to the arrest of the gang. On Thanksgiving eve last year he and his companions held up the butcher shop of John Bednarski at 3382 Milwaukee avenue. Bednarski's son described Symelfejnik to his father. Several months later, while walking on North avenue, Bednarski recognized the bandit from his son's description. He followed Szymelfejnik to his home and notified police, who arrested him. The roundup of other members of the gang and their confessions of the Caravetta murder followed.

Mrs. Massie has not been in court since the trial began but is expected to take the witness stand. The other defendants, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, naval enlisted men, are also probable witnesses. Outside of these the defense has subpoenaed Eugene H. Beebe, an attorney formerly associated with counsel for Mrs. Massie; Dr. Paul Withington, her personal physician; Beatrice Nakamura, her former maid; Samuel G. Stewart, retired army captain and a friend of the Massies, and Dr. Irving Blom, who occupied the house where Kahahawai was killed before Mrs. Fortescue moved into it.

Acquittal Normally Expected.

Despite the pathetic story of the gang attack on his wife told by Lieut. Massie yesterday, the feeling around Honolulu is still doubtful over the outcome of the case, although an acquittal is normally to be expected. The Hawaiians and whites are apparently chiefly interested in the case. The oriental citizens are displaying no eagerness to get seats in the crowded courtroom. They are engaged just now in efforts to counteract the report of Rear Admiral Yates Stirling in which he expressed doubt as to their loyalty in the event of trouble, and counseled what would amount to a commission form of government on the islands and his expression that now is the best time to do it.

The Japanese citizens daily are giving interviews to tell how wrong Admiral Stirling's attitude is about them, and how little he knows that in their hearts they are loyal to the United States.

RAPES GIRL OF 5, HONOLULU MOB CRIES 'LYNCH HIM'

HONOLULU, April 15.—(AP)—Pablo Gonsalves, 45, was held in jail today charged with having criminally assaulted a five year old girl. A howling crowd threatened to lynch him last night.

The child's parents told police Gonsalves, a friend of the family, enticed the girl to the home of her grandmother yesterday afternoon and attacked her while the grandmother was away. The child ran to a neighbor's house, crying, and told her story. She was taken to the police station, where she repeated the tale and accused Gonsalves.

Meanwhile the Porto Rican colony of Honolulu's Palama district hunted the accused man. A group which found him were shouting "kill him" when police arrived and took him to jail.

GIRL LANDS SHIP AS MOTOR FAILS; ESCAPES UNHURT

Boston, Mass., April 15.—[Special.]—A biplane piloted by Miss Margaret Kimball, 24, of Lexington, a well known society girl and artist, crashed on the mudflats near the Boston, Revere Beach, and Lynn railroad tracks in East Boston today. Miss Kimball brought her ship down creditably after the engine failed in midair.

She escaped without a scratch, although she was severely shaken. But after she stepped from the upset plane Miss Kimball bemoaned the fact that her secret was out.

"I've been flying for a year without the family knowing anything about it," she said. "They will put a stop to it now."

Mrs. H. M. Spitzer Reaches Reno; Plans Divorce Suit

Reno, Nev., April 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. H. M. Spitzer, wife of H. M. Spitzer, general manager of the Harms Music and Publishing company, New York, arrived in Reno this morning to establish residence in preparation for a divorce action. Mrs. Spitzer is the former wife of George Hollingsworth, former president of Old Reliable Motor Truck company, Chicago. They were divorced in Chicago in 1915.

Only Slightly Hurt

Two workmen repairing a city water main in front of 320 East Illinois street were rescued by firemen yesterday after the walls of the trench collapsed and partly buried them. They are Anthony Barry, 49 years old, 7126 South Marshfield avenue, and Robert O'Neill, 41 years old, 3533 Fillmore street, neither of whom was seriously injured.

PRINTER KILLED, 3 OTHERS HURT IN AUTO CRASH

One printer was killed, another probably fatally injured and two others less seriously hurt early this morning when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a concrete post at the intersection of Stockton and Lakeview drives in Lincoln park, just south of Diversey parkway. The four were linotype operators on the Journal of Commerce.

The driver of the car, Martin J. Snyder, 27 years old, 4631 North Paulina street, was instantly killed. Harold Wright, also 27, living at the Windsor apartments, 920 Windsor avenue, is the man most seriously injured. Ralph Krohn, 30, of 940 Eastwood avenue, and Charles Fowler, 28, of 819 Leland avenue, who were sitting in the rumble seat, were cut and bruised.

Louis Oris, 21 years old, 7622 West 61st place, Argo, was fatally burned yesterday when his automobile overturned while he was attempting to pass a truck on a curve in Longcommon road, near Fairbanks road, in Riverside. The car burst into flames. He died at the Berwyn hospital.

Oris was caught in the blazing wreckage, and John MacKenzie, 7845 West 45th street, Lyons, the truck driver, was unable to extricate him. MacKenzie called the Riverside fire department, and Chief Henry Dearborn and his men dragged Oris from inside the car after extinguishing the flames.

Michael Gorgano, 67 years old, a balloon vendor, was fatally hurt when he was run down by an automobile in front of 4312 Augusta boulevard. The driver, Elmer Bonnizier, 1117 Columbia avenue, Oak Park, was held by West Park police.

These deaths and three others yesterday increased the 1932 Cook county toll to 313. The other victims:

2 BOOZE BOATS, HEAVILY LADEN, 7 MEN NABBED

New York, April 15.—[Special.]—The "double cross" by rival rum runners dropped two rich prizes into the lap of the coast guard today. The guardsmen captured seven prisoners and a pair of motor boats whose cargoes totaled $75,000 worth of contraband, thanks—they say—to the annoyance Jersey smugglers felt over the invasion of their territory by a New York gang.

The first of the prizes, the Greyhound, dropped into the guardsmen's hands like a ripe plum. They took it quietly as its crew of three men was tieing it up at a dock at Brielle, N. J.

200 BANDITS RAID AND SACK TOWN; IN MEXICO; 4 SLAIN

MEXICO CITY, April 15.—(AP)—Two hundred bandits raided and sacked the hamlet of Peso del Macho, state of Vera Cruz, today, killing four persons and wounding several others. The desperadoes attacked a mixed freight and passenger train which had halted at the station, but seven federal soldiers aboard held them off until the engine man was able to pull the train out of the danger zone.

Sinclair Still a Propagandist in Biography

'American Outpost' Pleads for Its Author.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"American Outpost," by Upton Sinclair. [Farrar & Rinehart.] Published April 14.

LAST January news was broadcast over the world that 770 distinguished admirers of Upton Sinclair, among them three previous winners of the Nobel prize for literature, George Bernard Shaw, Romain Rolland, and Jacinto Benavente, had sent a communication to the Swedish academy at Stockholm nominating Mr. Sinclair as a candidate for the Nobel prize for literature. The 770 names included signatures from 55 countries. Four hundred of them were from American authors.

UPTON SINCLAIR.

Those facts should give the reader an idea of Mr. Sinclair's international popularity. If the idea of his being laureled as a great writer seems a little startling to some readers who believe in the interrelated importance of superb writing and superb thought in really great literature, let those idealists be silenced by the splendor of the names of those who feel that Mr. Sinclair thoroughly deserves the honor which they hope to see him receive.

At any rate, after having been "news" ever since 1906, when at the age of 28 he wrote "The Jungle," Mr. Sinclair has achieved a reclaim among his fellow craftsmen previously [I believe] unknown. If any previous candidate for the Nobel award has had anywhere near the number and brilliance of signatories to the recommendation of his candidacy, it has escaped the notice of the press. For those who know Mr. Sinclair only in his crentive work, this week offers a picture of Mr. Sinclair, aged 54, autobiographically pictured. "American Outpost" he calls his "book of reminiscences." In his preface he declares: "For many years requests have been coming to me—mainly from abroad—to write an autobiography. This has always seemed to me an old man's job; but, as it happens, after a spell of overwork I feel myself temporarily old and seeking a light and easy occupation.

"I put myself in the position of a veteran of many campaigns who gathers the youngsters about his knee. He knows these youngsters cannot really share the anguish and turmoil of those faroff days. They belong to a new generation which is looking to be entertained and amused. So he takes a casual and light hearted tone.

"If any 'old timer' is offended by this—well, there are forty serious books of mine which he can read."

Mr. Sinclair draws the fangs of his critics by thus making plain that "American Outpost" is not one of his serious books. But despite his advertised "casual and light hearted tone," it is, to this reader at least, quite as serious as any of his books and certainly not an entertainment or amusement. Mr. Sinclair is incapable of being anything but serious. When he tries to be funny he galumphs. Not that he tries often to be funny in his reminiscences, and when he does he reminds you of Leon Erroll imitating Fanny Brice imitating a back to nature dancer. Perhaps because he refrains from obviously championing any cause in "American Outpost" he feels that the book is "casual and light hearted."

It is the story, told with details, of the harrowing struggle of a young man to become an author, of his spectacular success with one book and his subsequent literary and social discouragements, culminating in a divorce which "made" the front page of every newspaper in America. The narrative ends with his second marriage, because "from this point the story becomes Craig's [his second wife's] story, and the time for telling it is not yet," he says. The last nineteen years are passed over by a numbering, not a listing, of the literary work which she "has shepherded."

"American Outpost" is the record of the first thirty-five years of the life of an almost professional rebel, and there is no such thing as a casual and light hearted tone in such a record, unless the autobiographer feels that his years were spent comically groping for something which he never found. Mr. Sinclair is in no wise a man making fun of his youth. He is a writer setting down with conviction the trials of his youth.

Despite the eminence of the signers of Mr. Sinclair's candidacy for the Nobel prize, he is still to me a great pamphleteer, an ardent and sincere propagandist for what he thinks is the betterment of the world, but no great literary figure. Even if one grants that what he has to say is monumental, he writes extremely badly, without grace, without pattern, without any real dignity or beauty and without any but the heaviest footed humor. "American Outpost" is, as literature, no contribution whatever to American letters. In it Upton Sinclair is the "cause" which the author is proclaiming instead of a new social justice or dietary reform, he has worked for in those forty "serious" books which he has written.

British Women More Active Than of Old

Byron Wouldn't Know Them, Writer Says.

BY PHYLLIS BOTTOME.

[Author of "Devil's Due" (Houghton Mifflin) is on a short visit to the United States.]

THERE has been an epidemic of gifted women in England lately. They swim the channel, break air records, and write books. It is true that writing books is a trick which women began to perform a long time ago; but they have greatly improved upon it. They now have something, besides their hearts, to write about.

He would be more startled, perhaps, if he could "listen in" from another world and find his lovelorn damsel breaking the shooting record at Bisley, disputing jungles with tigers, and otherwise disporting herself till Don Juan turns pale and has to look the other way.

It is difficult to say among the troupe of modern women writers who carries off the palm.

Virginia Woolf has passed the test of genius. She has made the unknown known; tapped a fresh layer of consciousness and exposed it for man to profit by.

An older woman with a more lonely talent, Ethel Colburn Mayne, has written the finest biography of her time in "The Life of Lady Byron."

Before Katherine Mansfield was—as far back as the "Yellow Book" in the days of Henry James—Ethel Mayne wrote her vivid sharp edged stories, of the same stuff and texture as her better known spiritual descendant.

Viola Meynell repeats the delicate integrity of her mother's art in our modern tongue. In her "Frozen Seas," in her short stories, in that strange, wistful novel called "The Girl Adoring" she betrays the same lucid and dauntless spirit.

Rose Macaulay and "Elizabeth" still delight us with their wit, as fresh as a sprig of verbena, too pungent ever to cloy.

These are not great narrative writers, but their phrases echo on in the mind with an unending enchantment. They both possess ironic minds, cloaking kind hearts, shrewd eyes that turn away as quickly as they look, but not until their imaginations have picked clean the bone of their contention.

Stella Benson has as fine a wit as theirs, but a more wandering, perhaps a wider, mind. She is off the track of London life.

She is an elect writer, and whoever has acquired a taste for her finds it difficult to put up with less celestial food.

A different type of novelist, as different as a powerful carthorse from a swift greyhound, is Radclyffe Hall. This earnest, truthful and very able writer has had a split in her literary career. "Adam's Breed" was received with almost universal praise. It was followed by that strange study of unusual affection, "The Well of Loneliness," which the censor, to his lasting discredit, banned. The first half of this book was a brave and exquisite study of an abnormal girl; but the second half relapsed into propaganda of a kind which shocked the unthinking and disappointed her fellow artists. Nevertheless no one can doubt the power and truth-lovingness of this fine mind or fail to look forward to its fresh developments.

A younger and less formidable artist—Norah James—has also suffered lately from the idiosyncrasies of the censorship. "Sleeveless Errand" is an interesting study of what cocktails and jazz can make of a genuine and otherwise intelligent human being.

"Shatter the Dream," her last novel, is an equally acute study of a wronged boy driven to his death by a light woman.

It is an odd portent of our miraculous times that woman, who used to be man's innocent and defenseless prey, has now become his pursuer and devourer.

We have a group of younger women writers who have already much good work to their credit.

"Mr. Fortune's Maggot," by Sylvia Townsend Warner, is a pure work of the imagination, as clear as a drop of dew. She has never been to the South Sea islands, but she created one. She created at the same time a convincing savage and a sympathetic missionary. Since then she has gone on to witches, perhaps a less seductive field of art, but she has managed to make it blossom with real, and slightly sinister, broomsticks.

Barbara Blackburn has written several short novels of youth and youth's reactions to its first discoveries with beauty and directness.

Sarah Salt's "Unequal Combat" has a grim persuasive power. How much further these young writers will go depends on their store of vitality.

There is a great maturity in the work of the younger generation; perhaps too great a maturity. Vitality, which can afford mistakes and cruditties, has been, in many cases, denied to it. The gods love them, and they die young.

I have ignored the names of many well known writers in this attempt to do justice to my women contemporaries, but I have ignored them willfully because known names are not always founded on the rock of real merit and will not outlast their day.

Among the New Books

FICTION.

Honeymoon Wife, by Agnes Louise Provost [Macrae Smith], was in love with two men, married to one, and forced to live under the same roof with the other.

The World Against Mary, by J. M. Frank [Dutton], heralded abroad for its merits, presents the everlasting struggle of woman against her man and her environment.

Two Living and One Dead, by Sigurd Christiansen [Liveright], the Scandinavian prize novel, dramatizes the petty and the grand in a vivid and compelling manner.

Woman in Chains, by Elizabeth Alexander [Sears], analyzes the situation wherein a man wants a divorce from a faithful wife to marry an actress for whom he has been writing plays.

The Challenge of Love, by Warwick Deeping [McBride], is a story of the conflict within a young doctor between love and duty.

The Aspirin Age, by Tiah Devitt [Covici Friede], is the story of a reckless girl who took life in her hands.

NONFICTION.

Today's Boy and Today's Problem, by Jerold O'Neil [Sears], tackles the problem of adolescence from the point of view of the boy and his parents.

Harlan Miners Speak [Harcourt Brace], is a terrifying account of economic conditions in Kentucky by the Dreiser committee.

Silver Strike, as told by William T. Stoll to H. W. Whicker [Little Brown], records the fabulous discovery of silver in Idaho.

Your Dogs and Mine, by Diana Thorne [Minton Balch], is a captivating gallery of the canine species, emphasizing in picture and words the individualities of each dog.

Clipper Ships [Rudge], is the third in the series of reproductions from Currier and Ives prints.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

ABOUT PLACES.

Los Angeles in 7 Days, by Lanier Bartlett and Virginia Stivers Bartlett [McBride], chattily and charmingly guides you through one of America's most interesting cities.

Around the World Single-Handed, by Harry Pidgeon [Appleton], tells the story of the author's wanderings in a 34-foot yawl.

SHORT STORIES.

20 Best Short Stories, in Ray Long's 20 Years as an Editor [Long & Smith], gives the whys and wherefores of its acceptance or rejection with each story and outlines each author's methods.

British Writer Hits Mentality of Small Town

Geoffrey Dennis Author of "Sale by Auction."

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON, April 15.—[Special.]—A new novel by Geoffrey Dennis has just been published here under the title "Sale by Auction." It is very short, but singularly effective. And it shows a chain of circumstances, link by link, which is very far from common.

GEOFFREY DENNIS.

Mr. Dennis was brought up in a small town in Staffordshire, a county from which a number of modern novelists [as well as Dr. Samuel Johnson and David Garrick] have come, and he has a terrifying knowledge of English small town mentality. His account of this is relentless, almost malignant, so that "Sale by Auction" is by no means an agreeable book. But it is very intense, for all that might have interfered with the main story has been omitted, and what remains is told with a simplicity and ferocious directness that is rare in English fiction.

The book's defect is that every character in it is rather hateful. One gathers that Mr. Dennis is no sentimentalist, and no optimist. His work in the past has varied in quality and interest, and the book by which he is best known in England is his first, "Mary Lee," which "Sale by Auction" resembles. But he received the Hawthornden prize last year for an ambitious essay called "The End of the World." This I did not care for. I thought it overwritten. Such a criticism, however, cannot be brought against "Sale by Auction," an interesting and striking book.

Mr. Dennis is editor in chief of the Document Services at the league of nations in Geneva. He is very rarely in England. His life has been one revealing pluck and energy, for he was left an orphan at a very early age, and his education was cut short. He was apprenticed to a trade, and it was only by hard study in his spare time that he won a scholarship to Oxford university.

Subsequently he served during the war in France, where he ended as chief liaison officer between the bombing squadrons of the French and British air forces. His life has thus been a full one, which has allowed him little time for the practice of his craft of fiction; and it may be that, outside a relatively small English public, he is not as well known as he deserves to be. I hope that "Sale by Auction" will bring him a wider recognition than any he has yet had.

Another novelist whose work has the virtue [nowadays not a common virtue] of brevity is Miss Olive Moore, who some time ago wrote a curious and rather unpleasing, but quite distinguished novel called "Spleen." Miss Moore has now followed this with a book, equally brief, called "Fugue." As before, her writing offers some difficulties, and her characters are far from lovable; but this very young writer has decided gifts, and she impresses the reader—even the reader who normally fights rather shy of novels about artists and literary folk.

Miss Moore is herself the wife of a well known artist, but she wishes to be judged as a writer by her own work, so for the present she is withholding her husband's name from the public, in order to escape any charge of basking in reflected glory. "Fugue" is the result of devoted work, and a very individual outlook.

History of Stupidity Embraces All Follies

Here are some excerpts from that very stimulating and provocative book by Walter B. Pitkin, "Short Introduction to the History of Human Stupidity" [Simon and Schuster]. "It has been seriously asserted by observant Englishmen that Kitchener was the stupidest man who ever became famous. In the presence of his memory all donkeys salute," and, "The stupidities of parents are so many and so terrible that the wonder is that even one per cent of our children grow to adulthood with even moderate sanity." This book is perhaps the only complete compilation of its kind and embraces the history of mankind's follies. H. L. Mencken writes of it, "I suggest that Pitkin bring out a second volume at once, and then a third, and then a fourth. There is enough material in sight to make fifty."

For 625 closely printed pages Wyndham Lewis, in slang terms, "takes the 20th century for a long ride," or puts the 20th century "on the spot," in an enormous and brilliantly conceived book called "The Apes of God" [McBride]. It is Rabelaisian in its scope and treatment, and it shows up all the fripperies and humbuggeries of the century. Sex, literature, art, politics, in fact every manifestation of social manners and customs of the times are seared by his wit.

The most serious and most ridiculous movements in thought, in art, in science, in manners are held up to his blustering and full throated scorn.

Good Morning!
For being tres brave
One must pay the toll
Of life a la that
In a goldfish bowl.

Your hearts will go out to young Commander Scott McClenahan, who pays and pays and pays, in undesired popularity and publicity, the price of having done his duty under fire, or, to be exact, under water! For "Scotty," captained a submarine, sunk by an excursion steamer, and, bravely, would have given up his life for his men—as the picture shall show you—had not rescue, in the ungainly shapes of divers, arrived at the nth inst.

After McClenahan's decoration by the admiral and his triumphal parade through the streets of New York through deluges of ticker tape, a slick promoter takes him in tow. From then on, wherever the lad goes ballyhoo precedes and accompanies him, advertisers besiege him for his signature, reporters camp on his trail and turn his simplest utterances into front page scare heads.

His courtship and marriage are, so to speak, public property—and his home life is on the eve of wreckage when the bewildered and maddened youth finally takes the bit in his teeth and—is brave again! This time, however, you have hopes that the consequences of his gallantry will not be as drastic as were those following his former laudable exploit.

While it has been asserted that nobody even thought of Lindbergh in connection with the making of this little satire on the martyrdom of great men to mob frenzy, it is difficult to believe the assertions, for certainly it is "The Lone Eagle" and no other of whom you think as the story unreels.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. makes the hero a believable and lovable chap whom men will take to and women yearn to mother. Marie Brian is wholesomely charming as his perturbed and devoted sweetheart and wife. Walter Catlett as the promoter, Emma Dunn as Scotty's mother and other members of the supporting cast play up well.

Though the picture is rather loosely strung together, and, for this reason, not as impressive at is might have been, it makes its point and entertains you while doing so.

Dear Boys and Girls:

This being Saturday—when there's no school and most of you like to take in a movie—I thought I'd just remind you that one of your very favoritest [there's no such word] movie stars, Tom Mix—and his pony, Tony [poem], are on the Roosevelt screen in Mr. M's first talkie, "Destry Rides Again." Tom, of course, is Destry.

Here's a movie that will make you think of the oldtime "westerns" we all got such a kick from once. It was photographed among the mountains and plains near Hollywood and the scenery is—just—grand! Makes you long for summer and vacation—ho hum——!

The hero, Tom Destry, is an awfully nice man. He's part owner of a stage coach company. He has a partner named Brent—but don't you trust that fellow's sweet smile, kids, because there's a false heart behind it!

So false is Brent that he "frames" poor Tom who is convicted of—well, never mind—mustn't tell you all the story here—and sent to prison.

Here he stays for a long while, eating out his heart until, finally, he gets out and then, O. boy—O, boy, BOY——!

There's a girl in the story, too. Her name's Sally and both Tom and Brent want to marry her. But she's pretty smart and knows a good man from a bad one—only I mustn't tell you any more about THAT, either . . . !

If you liked Mr. Mix's silent "westerns" you're bound to like "Destry Rides Again," for it's just one of the breed come to life with sound.

Some darling children are featured! A couple of them you saw in "Amateur Daddy." Mr. Mix has a nice voice. Tony looks handsome and acts as if he knew he was one smart, beautiful horse! He dances, runs like the wind and—jumps over a freight car! What do you know about that!

Well—guess that's about all, children, except that you can tell your folks from me that I think YOU'D like "Destry Rides Again."

[I certainly do pile up trouble for myself!]

Youthful Love Affairs Bound to Terminate

Girls Urged Not to Grieve Over Them.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

If the number of boy friends about whom it is asked: "How can I win him back?" were ordered to pass in public review, it would take weeks on end for the parade to pass a given point.

A girl meets a boy at a dance. He likes the way she dances, likes the girl for the time being. He asks for her telephone number. Maybe he takes her out once, twice or a number of times. Then, he meets another girl, likes the way she dances, or likes her line of chatter; asks for her number and takes her out. Maybe it will take a third or fourth or a twentieth girl to convince the young man that time is up, with marriage right around the corner.

Anyway, you see where originate all these queries about how to win him back. It may be assumed, therefore, that girls are inclined to take these brief attention periods from men with a seriousness all out of proportion to the actual male motive. Another thing, girls have the habit of fastening on to a simple conquest with a vice like grip. It's easier for men to get around and meet girls than it is for girls to meet young men.

So, in periods of isolation, the girl instead of thinking up new fields to conquer, lazily shifts her thoughts along the line of least resistance, as she interprets it. That is, she figures she knows this boy who has left her and he knows her, and a renewal of the friendship looks easier than stretching out for a new beau.

In nine cases out of ten these girls who would like to win the boy friend back are dealing with boys on whom they have no serious claims. There has been no talk of marriage. O, maybe the boy did tell the girl she was a peach; that he was crazy about her, and all that sort of thing. But what I would like you girls to think about before you talk of winning back the "escort" is whether you want him back because you lack the nerve to try get some one else, whether you want him back to show his current girl that she isn't so smart, after all, or whether you want him back because you are honestly crazy about him.

Only in the last circumstance, would I recommend the attempt. It might work one time out of ten. The other nine cases are generally failures. So, it would seem in most cases better to train the mind and the feminine lures on a new subject entirely.

Business Women to Hold Benefit Card Party Today

The Alliance of Business and Professional Women will hold a card party this afternoon at the Illinois Women's Athletic club. Proceeds will go to the organization's scholarship fund.

Theaters Support Women's Club Plan to Classify Films

Representatives of motion picture producers and distributors endorsed yesterday the plan of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs to form a better films council intended to advise on programs of neighborhood houses.

The motion picture men met with the district chairmen of the federation at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman and pledged their coöperation in providing better films, especially for juveniles. The council, according to Mrs. R. H. McClure, chairman of the meeting, will meet for organization on Tuesday.

"The better films council will consist of a previewing committee," Mrs. McClure explained. "We will then relay to the members of the organization and to the theater men whether the picture is suitable for children or adults."

Metropolitan Opera Announces Reduced Prices Next Season

New York, April 15.—[Special.]—The Metropolitan Opera association, which announced three weeks ago that it had lost more than $500,000 during the 24 week season which ends tomorrow night, and that another season was doubtful, announced tonight that there would be another season reduced to 16 weeks. Prices for seats will be reduced approximately to those of ten years ago.

In the orchestra, where subscription seats now cost $7.50, they will be $6.50 next year. The cost of subscription to next year's opera will be reduced about 50 per cent.

During the last season the subscription scale fell off, while the single seat sale and particularly the sale for popular Saturday night performances continued to be good. The management regarded this as an indication that a price reduction would popularize the opera.

Salaries will be reduced 25 per cent.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There appears to be a number of women whose present financial condition will not permit of professional beauty treatments as was the former custom.

Except possibly for the hairdyeing and retouching treatments, to be forced to give oneself home care isn't nearly the cross hinted by some of these girls. It might just turn out to be one of those blessings that other enforced denials are proving to be at the moment. Not that I'm disparaging professional treatments, understand. They're grand if they can be afforded.

But if we can't afford a ninety-five dollar dress, let's say, that doesn't mean that we have to go around without a dress, does it? If we can't afford a seventy-five dollar coat, we don't even have to go cold. So, if we can't afford to patronize the old beauty salon, we can meet the emergency by using the conveniences we have at home and using head and hands into the bargain.

As for manicures and facials, even eyebrow tweezings and shampoos and wave setters—compromise on home work is comparatively easy. That is, if you want badly enough to look the part of the smart girl.

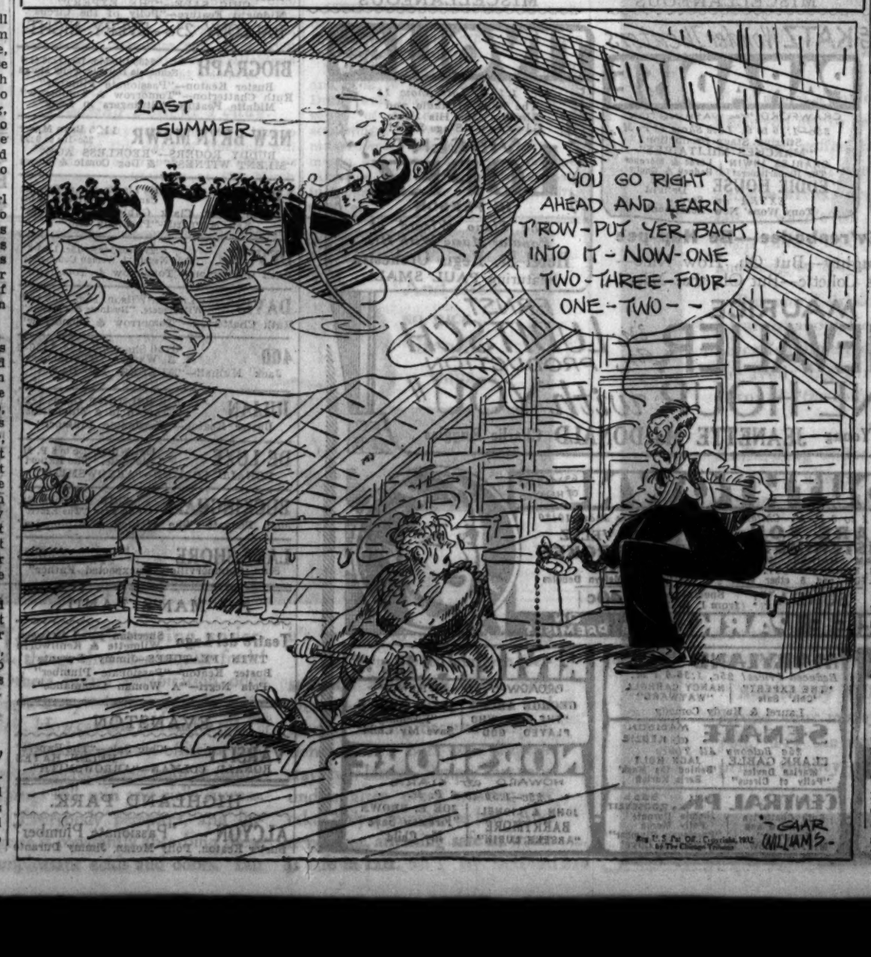
But the hairdyeing business is another thing. And I believe there are many women like "Miss X" whose hair is now showing white at the roots and who cannot afford the retouching or redyeing work. Now, whether such a woman can do a fair job herself, at home, is something I do not feel qualified to say. I take the stand always that if the hair must be dyed, only an expert should be entrusted with the work. This is because I have seen such hideous amateur attempts and so very, very few successful home dyeing jobs.

Yet, if a woman is out of a job temporarily and feels now, if ever, she needs to keep the white hairs out of sight, I would be the last one to advise against her experimenting. In which event, I should suggest that she go back to the salon formerly frequented and ask to be enlightened as to the right dye to use on her particular hair. I think any courteous salon operator would be glad to advise her unde rtho cirmumstances.

Auxiliaries of Daughters of Zion Meet Tomorrow

Auxiliaries of the Daughters of Zion will hold a meeting at the Congress hotel tomorrow afternoon, with Mrs. Edwin Romberg, president of the south side auxiliary and chairman of the organization's annual drive for funds, presiding. Proceeds of the drive go to the Infant Home and Day Nursery at 2754 Hirsch boulevard.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS.



Sophia Harrington Engaged to Jacob Hannibal Bischof

BY JUDITH CASS.

ANOTHER of society's popular bachelors, "Jake" Bischof, has succumbed to the charms of an attractive young girl and is about to enter the ranks of the benedicts. Received yesterday from George B. Harrington was a note announcing the engagement of his and Mrs. Harrington's daughter Sophia to Jacob Hannibal Bischof, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bischof of Chicago.

Miss Harrington, who attended Rosemary hall in Greenwich and Miss Farris' school in Paris, made her debut in the fall of 1927, and is a member of the Junior league and the Service club.

Mr. Bischof, who lives at the Ambassador East, was graduated from the school of architecture of the Armour Institute of Technology, and served in the naval aviation corps during the war. No date for the wedding has been set.

I know where all the mothers and fathers whose sons are starting their education in the Latin school will be Monday night—at the school listening to Johnson O'Connor, the psychiatrist who is at the head of the human engineering laboratory of the Stevens Institute of Technology at Hoboken, talk about the work of the laboratory.

The laboratory, you know, helps boys decide whether they are fitted for business or professional life, and if it is the latter, what profession. The talk is under the auspices of the newly formed Parent-Teacher association of the school, in which each class is represented by a mother of one child in the class. Those who are in the association are Mrs. Bryan Reid, Mrs. Harry Conners, Mrs. T. E. Joiner, Mrs. Duncan Forbes, Mrs. A. Watson Armour, Mrs. Frederick W. Keith, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, Mrs. Walter J. Cummings, Mrs. Edmund J. Doering, Mrs. Thomas F. Geraghty, Mrs. Albert Seckel, and Mrs. James M. Gray Jr.

Swimming Meet for Children.

This morning at 11 o'clock the Woman's Athletic club is having another children's swimming meet, this one to be most professional with stopwatches 'n' everything, Mrs. William S. Peterson tells me. Among the entries are Eleanor Cudahy, Gail Gartz, Jane Zimmerman, Suzanne Warner, Jean Westcott, and the Shuman children from Winnetka.

Children of members of the Junior league are to be initiated into the art of modeling clothes this morning at a Michigan avenue shop where members of the league have modeled on several occasions. The show is to be from 11 to 12 o'clock.

At the annual meeting and luncheon of the English Speaking union at 12:15 o'clock today at the Palmer house, Everett L. Millard will be introduced as the new president, succeeding Ernest S. Ballard. The guest speaker, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, will begin his address, "The English Speaking Peoples and the Next Step Forward," promptly at 1 o'clock, because he is taking a train for the east immediately after the meeting.

At the speakers' table will be Dr. and Mrs. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Ballard, Mr. and Mrs. Millard, Victor Elting, Alan C. Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Teter, and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Whithworth.

Among those who have made table reservations are Mrs. H. G. B. Alexander, Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Mrs. William G. Hibbard, Mrs. John V. Farwell, Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams, Mrs. George R. Nichols, Mrs. William H. Hubbard, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, and Mrs. Freeman Hinckley.

Two Events Tomorrow.

The usual Sabbath quietude will be interrupted tomorrow afternoon by two events of unusual interest: Miss Herma Clark's illustrated lecture on Chicago during "The Elegant Eighties" at Orchestra hall and the tea to open the professional members' exhibition at the Arts club.

Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw of 2450 Lake View avenue and Mrs. Otto G. Schmidt of 5528 Woodlawn avenue are giving luncheons at their respective residences before Miss Clark's lecture. Mrs. Shaw and her sister, Mrs. Charles T. Atkinson, will be shown on the screen as little girls with their hair in braids. Among the other boxholders, many of whom will see themselves or their ancestors in the stereopticon review, are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers, Mrs. Moses J. Wentworth, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill, Mrs. Franklin M. Miller, and George W. Dixon.

The tea will be "high" at the Arts club, with refreshments served at tables on the stage and in the large gallery. The exhibiting members have sent entries for the show from distant parts of this country and Europe. Nancy Cox McCormack, sculptor, and Cecil Clark Davis, painter, will be represented by things sent from New York; Katharine Dudley and Clara J. Kretzinger have shipped some of their works from abroad, and Jessie Benton Evans' paintings have come from Phoenix, Ariz.

Large Crowd Hears Count.

"If the lecturer were plain mister I wonder if there would be such a crowd to hear him," asked one woman at the Arts club lecture yesterday morning, and although in this democracy one hates to admit that a title is a drawing card, perhaps it is.

Anyhow, there was a huge crowd of women assembled to hear Count Serge Fleury speak on "Salons: Yesterday and Today," and although I was told that his talk was interesting and his illustrative slides were nice, my informants agreed that it really did not seem as if either were of vital enough interest to warrant an audience of such proportions and one evidently much larger than the club anticipated.

This reporter's report of the affair, however, must be partly from hearsay, for when she arrived, about ten minutes late, there wasn't a chance of getting near enough the lounge in which the lecture was taking place to hear a word or see a picture.

There were plenty of others in the same predicament, however, and so there were numerous groups of tardy ones in the galleries chatting and smoking and waiting for the lecture to be over and luncheon to be served.

A few of the many at the affair were Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Lewis S. Louer, Mrs. Arthur Meeker and Arthur Jr., Mrs. Eames MacVeagh, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Nicholas de Teresa, Mrs. Hubert Burnham, Mrs. Clair E. More, just back from a winter in the south; Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. Philip Wrigley, Mrs. Wallace J. Wakem, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker, Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde, Mrs. Lobdell Atwater, Mrs. Archibald E. Freer, Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, Mrs. Arthur Farwell, Robert Hall McCormick, David Hamilton, Miss Helen Gilbert, and Mrs. Leonard A. Busby, busy greeting friends, for she had just arrived in town from New York, where she landed on the Bremen Wednesday. She is at her apartment at 3400 Sheridan road for a few weeks, but will return to Paris to rejoin her daughter, Janet, who is studying art, fairly soon, taking her son, Jack, who is in Hotchkiss, with her.

Ossip Gabrilowitsch was the guest of the Cliff Dwellers yesterday afternoon at a tea following the symphony concert. Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. Arthur G. Bissell, and Mrs. Chalkley Jay Hambleton poured.

Friendly Aid Elects Officers.

Outside of reports of the various chairmen and election of some new officers, the main topic of discussion at the Friendly Aid society's annual meeting yesterday at the residence of the president, Mrs. John T. Agar, was the society's annual card party to be held on May 17 at the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Weymouth Kirkland and Mrs. Ralph Fox are co-chairmen of the party, which is one of two benefit affairs given each year by the society.

The Friendly Aid, composed of only 125 women, has given large sums annually to charities during the 41 years of its history. With the exception of a card party and bazaar each year, the members ask no help from the public, but raise their philanthropy funds through their own subscriptions and voluntary contributions.

Mrs. John T. Agar was reëlected as president at yesterday's meeting. New officers include Mrs. George H. Wilson and Mrs. Charles D. Middlebrook, first and second vice presidents, respectively; Mrs. Fred K. Higbie, recording secretary; Mrs. Ernest J. Brasseur, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Philip H. Kreuscher, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Offield of 1400 Astor street and their daughter, Miss Betty Offield, will return tomorrow from California.

When Ezra J. Warner Jr. and his bride, the former Rosamond Moore of New York, return from their wedding trip to Havana they will occupy the Walter Field McLallens' apartment at 1366 Dearborn parkway. Mr. and Mrs. McLallen have moved into the apartment of Mrs. McLallen's mother and step-father, the Walter B. Wolfs, at 209 Lake Shore drive, and will also be with the Wolfs for the summer at their Winnetka estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Scudder (Joan Stuart) will move on May 1 into the house on Washington road in Lake Forest which was formerly occupied by Mrs. Marjorie Wilson. Mrs. Wilson has been residing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin C. Allen of 1448 State parkway since their return from Europe shortly after Christmas.

Mrs. William Waller Jr. and Miss Jean Stevens, who has been her guest in Palm Beach, were met in New York last week by Miss Stevens' mother, Mrs. Clyde G. Stevens of 1413 Astor street. They'll all return to Chicago tomorrow or Monday.

THE WHISPERER

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

"The 'Whisperer' Crimes" have held London terrorized for months. A bandit, working with few accomplices, has kidnaped and held for ransom numerous wealthy persons. Those who offered resistance have invariably been killed.

Joyce Merrow is "The Whisperer's" latest victim. She is engaged to Roland Blatch, who is secretary to Sir Henry Glazeborough, M. P., a leading philanthropist. Roland receives a small wireless receiving set, by means of which the bandit speaks, using his own short wave, and gives directions for delivering the ransom demanded. In Roland's keeping are valuable jewels, donated to Sir Henry to be sold for charity. Roland is forced to steal them for the bandit, to insure the safe return of his beloved. He is directed to board a train, where he is followed by dejectives, who have been called by a taxi driver who saw Roland wearing the headphones of the wireless set. He explains that the jewels are family heirlooms. At a point directed, Roland throws the jewels out of the car window. Leaving the police to follow the trail, Roland returns to Joyce's apartment and finds her safely home. While there he receives a phone call and is asked to join the Whisperer's band.

INSTALLMENT VI.

JOINING THE BANDIT'S BAND.

At four o'clock exactly Roland stepped into the call box. Almost immediately the bell rang and he lifted the receiver.

"Blatch speaking."

"Goin' to join us?" It was a rasping, uninviting kind of voice.

"Yes."

"That's the stuff! Say—we're a dandy crowd and you'll need to smarten up a bit. Got a pencil? Good! Get right along to Maviste, 169, Newport street, Piccadilly, and ask for a manicure. Goo'-by!" The connection was cut.

"Well, of all the damned cheek!" muttered Roland.

A taxi deposited him outside a glittering shop front, draped with a heavy velvet curtain.

"Looks like a woman's place," he thought and went in. Behind the counter a girl laid down a paper covered book she was reading.

"I want a manicure, please!"

"Will you go through, please, sir. Madam is disengaged."

The girl returned to her novelette and Roland passed into a corridor, at the end of which was a white enameled door.

Before he reached it, the door was opened by a tall, big boned woman of striking appearance. She was quietly but fashionably dressed. Though she was not of a type that he admired, he admitted to himself that many a man would regard her as beautiful. Her features were clear cut, on the classical model, and intense vitality looked out of her gray green eyes beneath a shock of auburn hair. Her age, he supposed, would be between twenty-five and thirty.

"You're rather a beautiful young man."

"You want a manicure?" Her voice was pleasing and her intonation was that of a cultured woman—it was certainly not the ingratiating, business-like voice of the professional manicurist.

"Yes, please," he answered awkwardly, and looked about him.

The room was unremarkable. A barber's chair stood in front of an elaborately fitted marble basin. Above the basin was a mirror to the side of which was fixed in an ornamental plaque—rather out of place.

She motioned him to the chair.

"Please smoke if you want to," she invited.

"Thanks!" He felt in his pockets. "I've run out of cigarets."

She offered a gold case and he took one.

"I prefer men clients. They don't mind my smoking as well," she remarked as she lit her own cigaret.

She took a white coat from a peg, put it on and buttoned it up—very slowly. Then she filled a bowl with hot water and handed it to him. Her movements would have been maddening to a man who was in a hurry.

Then, without warning, a man's voice brayed in the room—the nasal voice of the man who had spoken to him on the telephone.

"All correct, Connie! No one followed him. You can go right ahead. We're going to call him 'Number Six.'"

The voice had come from the ornamental plaque by the side of the main looking glass that thus revealed itself as a loud speaking telephone. Immediately the woman went over to the plaque and spoke into it.

"His clothes haven't come," she said.

"They'll be along in a few minutes. You can start without 'em."

"That's a good thing!" she exclaimed with relief. "You can tip that water away—we shan't need it. If you want a manicure you can jolly well do it yourself."

Roland laughed and took a good look at her. She returned his gaze with such intensity that it became embarrassing.

"Yes," she said slowly. "Now turn sideways and show me your profile." As he looked in surprise, she added impatiently: "O, don't be ridiculous! I'm not making love to you. . . . That's better. Now the other profile. Your face is going to be difficult—but that's just as well."

She produced a block and pencil, made a couple of sketches and scratched them out. She ran her fingers over his chin, his nose and his cheekbones.

"I think I've got it!" she exclaimed.

"Beauty treatment?" he asked.

"In a way!" she answered and laughed. "You're rather a beautiful young man as it is and I'll try not to spoil it too much. But you must look older and—different. You see, Roland, Scotland Yard will be looking for you this evening."

"Quite so, Connie! Tell me what you want me to do."

"Keep quiet for an hour or so. Go to sleep if you can. Part of it will hurt you a little, but not much."

She removed his collar and tie, then applied various substances to his face and neck. Then, after pounding the skin with an electric vibrator, she covered him with a hot mask and applied another electrical machine that gave him tingling shocks.

It seemed that she was pressing hot metal on each side of his nose. As the metal cooled it was reheated, and the process lasted for the better part of an hour. Then she clamped a third mask on to his face.

"While that's setting I'll do your hair," she remarked. When this was done she rolled back his cuffs and treated his hands and wrists.

"That's all I can do for you, Roland." She released him from the mask. "Now tell me what you think of yourself."

He stood up and stared with amazement into the looking glass. He had been prepared to find himself heavily disguised, and his first shock lay in the fact that he was not disguised at all. That impression, however, lasted only a second or so. The next impression was that he had been turned into a totally different being.

To begin with, he was heavily sun tanned. That by itself would have made little difference—was almost a trifle. A trifle, too, was the hair cut back on one side from the forehead and thinned out so that it looked as if baldness were imminent. The really frightening change lay in the lines at the temples and by the side of the nose.

"Good heavens! I look forty!" he exclaimed.

"And a very nice age, too, Roland. Especially as Scotland Yard is looking for a man of twenty-five. You got that tan planting rubber in Malay. Your name is Carstairs and you're staying at the Gulverbury hotel in the Strand. It's almost full of South Africans who won't know anything about Malay—and you can avoid casual conversations. I'll get your clothes."

She went to the shop and returned with a large, brown paper parcel.

"You'll have to take off every stitch," she explained. "I shall be in the shop. Ring that bell when you're through."

Ten minutes later Roland was dressed in the contents of the parcel. He was wearing boots instead of shoes—and one of the boots was so treated as to give him a slight limp in his walk. The suit was an ordinary lounge suit of none too good a cut. The hat was a bad match, as was the tie.

He rang the bell and the woman he knew as Connie returned.

"They don't fit me properly, you know," he remarked.

"They fit you well enough for a badly dressed man—and you used to be a very smart young man, you know."

She unlocked a cupboard and put in it the brown paper parcel that now contained his own clothing, locked it again, and gave him the key.

"That will be your cupboard," she explained. "Now, listen. Your makeup is soap proof and—kiss proof."

Before he realized what was happening she had put her hand on his shoulder and kissed him on the lips. He was astonished, above all puzzled by the strange quality of that kiss.

"Why did you do that, Connie?" He had removed her hands, not ungently, and was holding them as if to detain her until she gave him an answer.

"O, I don't know!" She turned her face from him. "I expect I'm a wanton who can't resist a good looking man." In her voice there was something that was perilously like tragedy.

"That's not true. Tell me why you did it."

"All right!" She looked up now and met his gaze unflinchingly. "I kissed you because I'm sorry for you. Poor, nice, clean boy! The Whisperer has got you!"

"And you?"

"Yes. And there's no escape for either of us."

"But, my dear girl, if you feel like that——"

"O, stop it! Shut up, d'you hear!" she said with sudden violence, then more gently: "There's no room for sentiment in this game, boy. If you start getting soft you're done for. My fault. I began it."

If You Are Not in the Tribune You Are Not in Chicago

History Gives a Meaning to Family Names

Origin Makes Interesting Story.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Born a Smith, do you know that your name betrays the trade of an ancestor?

Labeled Johnson, has any one ever recalled that you are simply "the colorless son of John?"

Named Cleaver, do you know that one of your forefathers, away back, was a clavinger or keeper of the keys?

Today cannot forget yesterday when it comes to this subject of nomenclature, for one is linked eternally to the other. Certainly you haven't failed to speculate at some time on the derivation of your own name or to note the oddities and contradictions of those of your neighbors.

Even then, however, you may ask with a semblance of scorn, "What is in a name?" for so much changing has been indulged in lately it is hard to tell from a stranger's card whether he is black or white, Jew or Christian, English, German, Chinese, or American, a financier or a beggar, a parvenu or an aristocrat, a duke in disguise or a bum.

Many Names Centuries Old.

But let this problem rest—these transpositions, subtractions, and additions—for there is still a goodly number of Chicago families that continue to carry the names acquired centuries ago—the Blairs, Palmers, Cranes, McCormicks, Reeds, and some of the Smiths, Browns, and Joneses.

This plan of entering the world with one name already and waiting is, interestingly enough, of comparatively recent origin. When Julius Caesar landed in Britain, away back in 55 B. C., he found the tribes distinguished one from the other by a colorful variety of tattoo marks. This custom was followed by distinctions in dress and later by tribal names.

The Romans used at least three names, the first an individual name like Cornelius, the second, which was descriptive, as Scipio, meaning stick or staff, and a third indicating the "gens." There was nothing hereditary—not, at least, according to written law—about this system of nomenclature which continued through the 10th century.

Our modern plan, the so-called "family" name by which all of the members of a family are known, established itself in the more populous and civilized European societies between the 11th and 16th centuries. The nobility started it around 1000 A. D. when they began to call themselves after their ancestral seats—for instance, "Von Hindenburg" and "De Chateaubriand," meaning "from Hinden castle" and "from Briand castle"—and about two centuries later the citizens patterned themselves after the nobility, proudly adopting the names of their trades. There is the name "Webb," for example, traced to a family of 12th century England that carried on the trade of weaving.

Surnames may be generally, and yet correctly, classified in four groups, topographical or place names, occupational or trade names, descriptive epithets or nicknames, and names denoting kinship, usually called patronymics. Examples of this latter class are so common they hardly need illustration.

"Johnson," which it is said, indicated originally a man who had distinguishing characteristics of his own, no definite trade, is perhaps the most common illustration of patronymics, although "Jackson," "Wilson," and "Thomson" occur almost as frequently. The original forms were "Tomhis-son" and "William-his-son." Among the Anglo-Saxons the suffix "ing" also indicates sonship, giving such names as "Willing," son of William, and "Henning," son of Henry.

In Ireland the "O" and in Scotland and Ireland the "Mc" and "Mac" before a name are equivalent to "ing" among the Scandinavians. Hence the name "McCormick" means son of Charles, "Cormac" being an ancient Irish name for Charles. By the same process "O'Brien" is the son of Brien and "MacCarthy" the son of Arthur.

In the Norman and Welsh, sonship is indicated by "fitz" and "ap," in German by "sohn" or "son," in Scandinavian by "sen" or "son," in Russian and Serbian by "ovitch," and in Rumanian by "escu," so that Johnson, Johansson, Hansen, Ivanovitch, and Jonescu are one and the same in meaning.

This interpretation of names might continue endlessly. Here are a few of the meanings—"Mitchell" a derivation of "Michael," and "Blair," the Gaelic for field; "Tailor" or "Taylor," "Baker," "Carpenter," and "Clark" [clerk] all suggest the early trades, while the "Stuarts" once had an ancestor who was a steward and the "Marshalls" one who was a marshal. Both "Reed" and "Reid" are adaptations of the color red, while names like "Atwater" and "Burnside" represent property locations. Labels like "Peacock" and "Spear" are logically classed with the descriptive epithets.

Hair Clipping Is Essential to New Spring Fashions

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Fashion-wise hairdressers are sponsoring a heap of ruthless hair clipping this spring . . . they are busily engaged from dawn till dark, snipping and cutting and thinning all crops of crowning glory!

It's just too bad for all those who have spent the winter encouraging and nourishing their slow-growing locks . . . for, if you would be smart, all that time and energy must be forgotten now. You climb into a chair, wrap yourself in white, shut your eyes to the wholesale slaughter and climb down, some time later, feeling and looking like a shorn lamb.

A really finished job of expert haircutting will leave you just about enough hairs to count . . . and if you are light headed as a result and if your ears and neckline seem indecently exposed to wind, weather and withering comments from a few unwise and fashionably ignorant spectators, control your fears, pat your own head with approval for you're a pioneer spirit in this lofty, back to the skull movement.

And even though it gives you several pains in the neck, do let the massacre proceed without your tearful interference or pleadings . . . the neck warming little fat sausage rolls are very much, too much . . . let them go, to join the rest of your extras piling up on the cutting room floor.

Dispense with all locks that hitherto dangled . . . discourage all desires for anything that hangs down to clutter up the well clipped outlines left by a skilled haircutter. If all the clinging sisters haven't come into their own particular adhesive kingdoms this season it's because they are probably clinging too tightly to some old ideas to realize how persuasively new feminine fashions copy their best prerogative . . . . what with clothes that cling . . . hats that hug, and now the newest coiffures that must also cling tightly to the head to be fashionably sleek and slick, the world is certainly not a very safe place for any unattached oaks with all the ladies suddenly gone vinelike.

Save your uttered doubts and dislikes for boyish bobs . . . just because the coiffure should be sleek to be smart, it does not follow that the new idea is that severe . . . for if you manage rightly your head will be a collection of curls . . . curls that are so flat and round that they will look like disks. The magic to achieve is a bias manner of swirling the hair from one side to the other . . . your flat ringlets should not ring around in bunches . . . they should be a perfectly reasonable ending of the swirled effect with each carefully twisted strand of hair . . . in words of wisdom, your coiffure should look exactly like a snug little tight fitting cap.

Ears will be out in the atmosphere for the first time in years and years . . . an idea to help the earring industry, perhaps . . . if you can't bravely turn the entire ear out to listen to all the comments begin by exposing the tip at least. The way you will wave your hair over your ears will show your fashion knowledge of the newest change in hairdressing. The ends will curve forward, flat to the head or swirl back, well behind the ear.

Principal Farm Product in Many Sections.

Peanuts may be a frivolous food. They go to circuses, and sit around in winter toasting their toes on a roaster to the music of its whistle. But they are also hard working nuts, and a source of food to be reckoned with. Our peanut crop is valued at about $75,000,000 annually, and in the south, where the cotton is ravaged by boll weevils, peanuts are the principal farm product in many sections. In fact, there are over tw million acres planted in peanuts, and a thrifty crop they make.

The part that grows above the ground makes fine cattle feed. The brownish hull that comes around the nut can be fed to cattle instead of bran. Then, if the farmer decides not to dig the nuts, he can turn his pigs into the field and, being inordinately fond of peanuts, the pigs root them up and fatten themselves admirably on the rich, oily meats. So you see peanuts are an all round sort of product.

Being a simple food, since it contains only ground peanuts and a little salt, peanut butter is a fine spread for children's bread. I imagine it ranks well up among the first three in popularity in school lunches. Along about this time of year radishes may be diced finely and added to the butter to give variety, or celery, or a leaf of lettuce may be inserted with the peanut butter to furnish additional vitamins.

Simple though its composition is, there is still quite a trick to the manufacture of peanut butter. To begin with, just any kind of peanuts can't be used. The larger Virginia peanut, the kind we buy roasted in the shell, is rather dry, and the smaller Spanish peanut is inclined to contain too much oil to make butter of good consistency, so a mixture is made of the two kinds to produce a smooth, spreadable product.

When the nuts arrive at the factory the shells have been removed, but the little brown skins are still with them. They are shaken on a screen to remove dirt and bits of shell. Then they are put into revolving drums that agitate them over flames for about 40 minutes—almost 500 pounds to the drum, in one big factory. When the nuts are roasted to a turn, they are removed and cooled and dried with air. Then they are passed through an intricate machine that removes the hulls with brushes, splits the kernels, and removes the embryos, a tiny body imbedded between the halves of the kernel. Leaving this in the butter makes it have a bitter tang. Up to this time the Virginia and the Spanish peanuts have not met, but now they are properly introduced and go together into the grinders, with salt enough to bring out their flavor. The finished peanut butter is forced out into jars, which are sealed and labeled by another accomplished machine.

*

I think we could make more use of peanuts than we do. For instance, they combine excellently with cabbage in a salad, and children love them in cookies.

CHICKEN SPAGHETTI CASSEROLE.

2 cups cooked spaghetti.
1 cup shelled pistachio nuts.
2 chopped pimentoes.
1 small can mushrooms.
2 cups milk.
2 tablespoons flour.
2 tablespoons butter.
White pepper.

[This recipe is included to make use of remnants of Sunday's chicken. If there are none, other meat than chicken may be used.]

Break the spaghetti into small bits and cook in salted water till tender. Drain and blanch. Make a white sauce of butter, flour, milk, and seasonings. When thickened, add mushrooms, chicken, spaghetti, pimento, and nuts. Pour into a buttered casserole, dust with crumbs and bake in a moderate oven [350 F.] for thirty minutes.

Educator Sees New Revolt by English Youth

Dr. Jacks Finds Reaction Against Freud.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The younger generation in England is undergoing a reaction against the modern school of thought which followed the popularizing of Freudian psychology, Dr. Lawrence Pearsall Jacks, well known scholar of philosophy and author of England, said here yesterday.

Dr. Jacks, who in 1931 retired after serving many years as principal of Manchester college, Oxford, England, is stopping in the Drake hotel with Mrs. Jacks. He will lecture in the Administration building of A Century of Progress next Thursday night on "Leisure, Recreation, and Art."

"Bertrand Russell and the other writers who influenced young people 10 years ago and set them free from all the restraints they felt were superimposed on them," he said, "are beginning to lose their popularity. I think the reason is that the young persons growing up now look at those who were young 10 years ago and see what a mess they've made of their lives.

"It is often impossible for these post-war persons who were apostles of Russell and others to get out of the mess they've got into, but the younger persons coming along are observing that perhaps it's best to follow some of the old standard conventions in their form of life.

"Some of the words like honor, duty and decency which fell into ill repute when psychologists declared them meaningless are coming back into good usage, but with a different meaning. They will not be artifices forced on the rebellious younger generation by a Victorian ogre of society, but things which really exist naturally in a person. After all, sometimes it's really natural to be decent.

"Unfortunately, the rage for psychoanalysis still persists in English novels. Aldous Huxley is typical. He has a scientific obsession. He loves to operate on his characters, just as the theory behind psycho-analysis is that one person may operate on the other and reveal his real nature, then change it as he wills. The trouble is that the operatee is apt to object to being operated on.

"It seems very silly to me. And the persons who go about insisting that no one have repressions usually are far more conventional than the average conventional man, because they are self-consciously striving to be unconventional."

Dr. Jacks said he certainly did not intend to prescribe what a man should do with his leisure, which would be leisure no longer if he had to follow another's suggestion as to what to do with it.

"We shouldn't beset a man with propaganda in his leisure," he said, "as the soviet government does. There art is made a vehicle of propaganda, so that it ceases to be art. Art should have no purpose other than itself. Bernard Shaw has injured his art with propaganda."

Field's Choral Society Given Warm Praise

Spring Concert Inspiring Experience.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Marshall Field & Co. Choral society gave a spring concert last night at Orchestra hall. Here is an organization classifying as amateur in the strict sense of the word because its members are engaged in pursuits other than musical but turn to music as an avocation and because they like it.

Such definition is perhaps more obvious than necessary. It is gladly emphasized here because the society sings uncommonly well. There were many reasons to believe last night that the enjoyment of singing carried with it an equal willingness to rehearse regularly and faithfully. Edgar Nelson is the conductor. His beat is authoritative and tending to carry his forces safely over many obstacles of interpretation, but all the authority in the world is not sufficient unless the singers have a fairly accurate knowledge of what is confronting them. Wherefore one repeats that the Marshall Field & Co. Choral society is amateur in the strict and also the best sense.

It was an inspiring experience to hear some 200 singers join voices in a choral arrangement of the sextet from "Lucia di Lammermoor." Here was fine, sustained tone, commendable exactness of attack, and an unusual ability to project words as well as melody. The program consisted of songs rather than any lengthy concerted work, but songs which ran all the way from the folk variety to excerpts from opera and oratorio, well planned, well learned, and well executed.

The organization was assisted by the Revelers, a male quartet more often heard through the medium of radio than in person. They are an alert group, taking special pleasure in music of the popular type and presenting it in a way to make popular music persuasive and desirable.

A joint recital was given at the Cordon club last night by Mrs. Parthenia Vogelback, pianist, and Arthur Kraft, tenor. Mrs. Vogelback was heard in the seldom played "Variations Serieuses" by Mendelssohn, which she played with much dramatic contrast and expression. Mr. Kraft is a singer of well deserved note. He is technically fitted to cope with the floridities of Bach and Handel, and he likewise possesses the sympathy and sentiment to give a highly engaging rendition of songs of the present era, all of which he proved to last night's audience. Robert Macdonald, a pianist of much ability, was his accompanist.

LUX for underthings

removes perspiration acids and odors—Saves colors

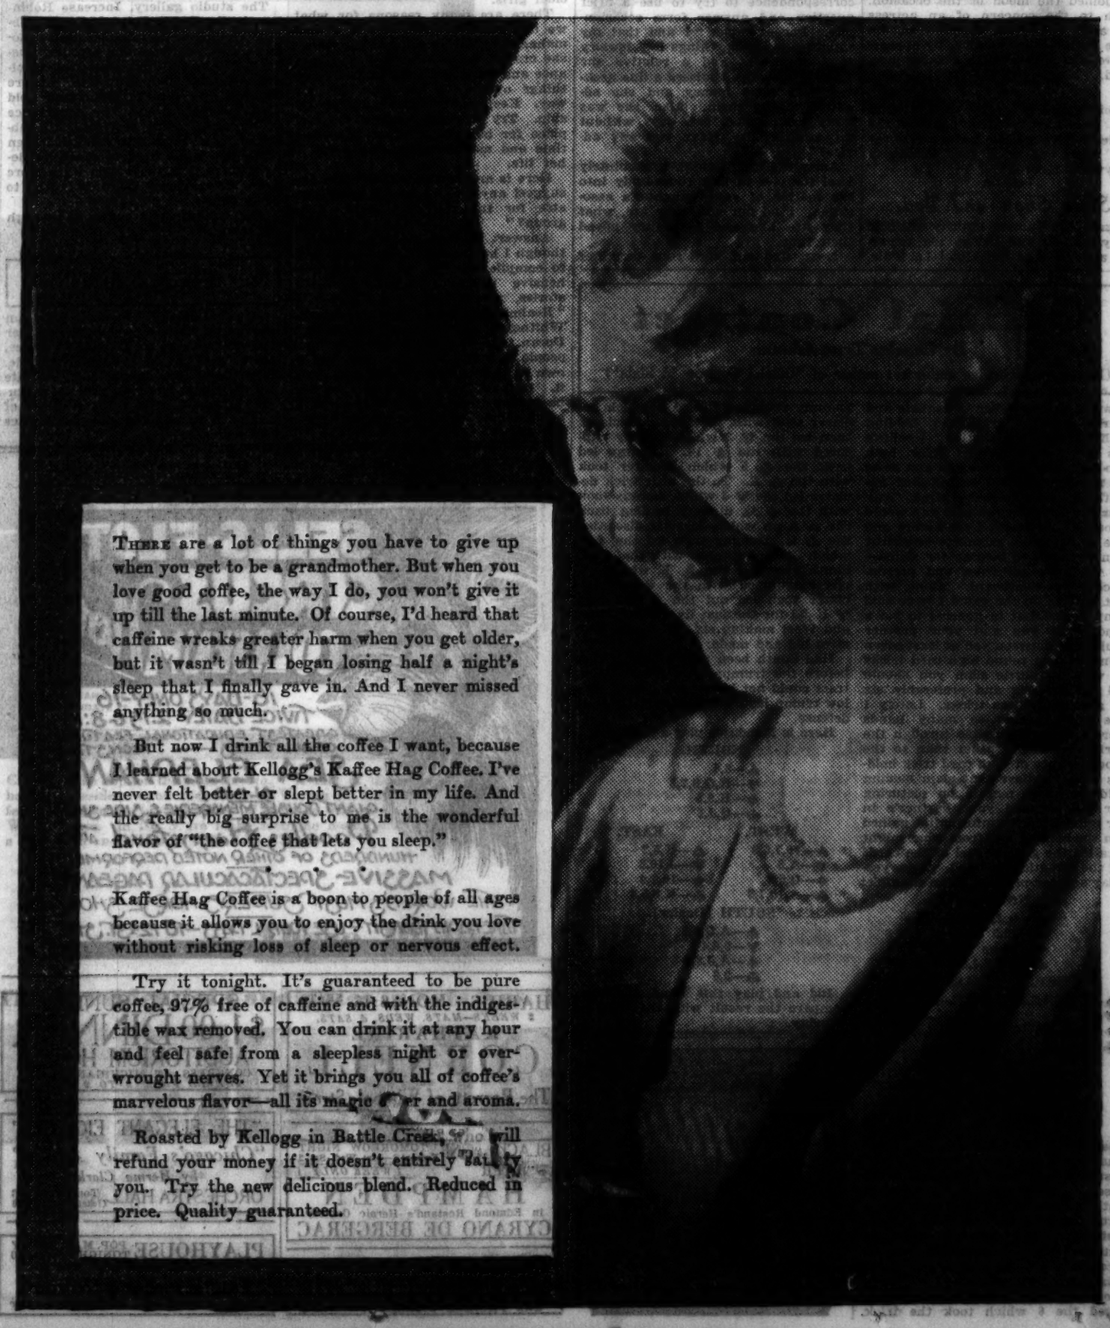
"IMAGINE wearing underthings that aren't quite fresh! Others notice perspiration odor right away—before you do yourself. How can she run such a risk?"

At a dance, in the office, or anywhere, perspiration odor in underthings will ruin any girl's success.

Everybody perspires, and lingerie is constantly absorbing these unpleasant acids and odors. But it's so easy to avoid offending.

Lux is made to remove perspiration acids and odors completely—yet it saves colors and fabrics. In fact, because perspiration is taken out, your lingerie stays new longer. Simply Lux your undies after every wearing—it takes only 4 minutes or less. And remember, anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Now she enjoys the drink she loves



There are a lot of things you have to give up when you get to be a grandmother. But when you love good coffee, the way I do, you won't give it up till the last minute. Of course, I'd heard that caffeine wreaks greater harm when you get older, but it wasn't till I began losing half a night's sleep that I finally gave in. And I never missed anything so much.

But now I drink all the coffee I want, because I learned about Kellogg's Kaffee Hag Coffee. I've never felt better or slept better in my life. And the really big surprise to me is the wonderful flavor of "the coffee that lets you sleep."

Kaffee Hag Coffee is a boon to people of all ages because it allows you to enjoy the drink you love without risking loss of sleep or nervous effect.

Try it tonight. It's guaranteed to be pure coffee, 97% free of caffeine and with the indigestible wax removed. You can drink it at any hour and feel safe from a sleepless night or overwrought nerves. Yet it brings you all of coffee's marvelous flavor—all its magic flavor and aroma.

Roasted by Kellogg in Battle Creek, we will refund your money if it doesn't entirely satisfy you. Try the new delicious blend. Reduced in price. Quality guaranteed.

The Supervisor Is No More at RKO Film Lots

$2,500 a Week Bosses Lose Their Jobs.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., April 15.—The supervisor-gentleman who bosses the directors, writers, and other employés engaged in the exacting thousand and one details of getting a screen story recorded in camera form has been termed a fifth wheel and eliminated from RKO-Radio studios.

David Selznick, head of the combined studios, bade the supervisors (a special class of $2,500 a week gentry who have always been much assailed) begone in these words:

"The tendency of the times is for closer contact between the producer on one hand and the director on the other without a middle executive," and after commenting that purposes of economy also will be served noted that "the action is no reflection on men who have held supervisory posts at our studio."

Among those who now become ex-supervisors—James K. McGuiness, who supervised "State's Attorney" with John Barrymore, has been assigned to write the screen play for Richard Dix's next, and Willis Goldbeck, who just completed supervising "Roadhouse Murder," is to write the screen story for Rita Johann's film debut.

Merian C. Cooper, the explorer-director of "Chang" and "Grass" fame, is the only man to remain in a status that might be called supervisory. Cooper heads a special department at Radio studio which is concerned with making adventure films.

Paul Gerard Smith, playwright and gag man, who came to Hollywood from Ravenswood, via the vaudeville lanes of Broadway, has gathered a number of associates and opened a new kind of establishment here.

Smith and his confrères, who include Charles Moscini, in charge of dancing; Warburton Guilbert and Franke Harling, music; William Schiller, orchestrations; A. W. Calkins, scenic design, etc.; announce readiness to "furnish for the stage and vaudeville anything from a monologue to a Ziegfeld Follies." Smith turned to this venture after working with Harold Lloyd and Buster Keaton in recent pictures and on the New York stage.

Richard Wallace, the director, got annoyed at an English actor who was telling a luncheon group in the Paramount café just how well they did things in the tight little isle. "In England we have trains that go 150 miles an hour and motor cars that go 200 miles an hour," the British actor said.

"That's nothing," retorted Wallace, thinking of his last street assessment bill. "In this country we have steam rollers that plow up city streets at 250 miles an hour."

"Amazing," said the Englishman. "Aren't they afraid of knocking any one over."

Robert Z. Leonard was directing scenes for "Strange Interlude" on the Metro lot in which Norma Shearer and Clark Gable had to wear makeup as an old lady and an old man. Leonard joined the mood of the occasion, much to the concern of an actress and actor who had to do a solemn scene with a straight face, by appearing to direct attired in a false gray beard.

Incidentally, according to E. V. Durling, Bob Leonard has been in the movies for twenty-five years and never once been out of a job. That's a Hollywood record.

Committee Reports New Instructions an M. E. Worship

New York, April 15.—(AP)—Revised orders of worship for the Methodist Episcopal church, completed after several years of study, and disclosing a distinct tendency toward "old fashioned" forms of religious observance, were announced today by Bishop Wilbur P. Thirkield, chairman of the committee on worship and music.

One of the chief practices of the early church, now revived, is the suggestion that worshipers kneel or bow in silent prayer on entering the sanctuary. The new orders also provide for larger participation of the congregation in prayer and responses. There are two orders of worship.

Authority to publish the orders was given at the last general conference of the denomination to a committee, comprising five bishops, five ministers and five laymen, including the Rev. J. H. Odgers, Elgin, Ill., and Mrs. E. S. Mills, Evanston, Ill.

Art Institute Opens Display of Drawings

From Collection of Dan Fellows Platt.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Art institute opened yesterday an exhibition of drawings from the collection of Dan Fellows Platt, loaned to the College Art association and being shown about the country under the society's auspices. The art student will revel in these drawings, which are of interest to the layman and full-fledged artist as well.

Some of the drawings are studio scraps, plans and designs, suggestions for work finished later on a larger scale. Others, a choice few, are complete in themselves. Muirhead Bone offers several exquisite, perfect little scenes, some of water, others of hills and shore. Laura Knight has a brilliant drawing of a girl, "A Dancer."

Augustus John is represented by various stirring nudes, and Rossetti is himself in three tenderly delicate, slightly romantic, utterly delightful studies of women. The Italian school, the French, English, and German schools, are represented, but by far the most charming and inspiring work is in the English division. The exhibit is one that will hold your interest. It is of value to compare the drawings here with those upstairs in the corridors on the second floor of the museum.

The Chester H. Johnson galleries, Fine Arts building, have just opened an unpretentious exhibit of abstractions by Leger and water colors by Victor Higgins depicting the Taos country. The water colors are broad in treatment. An impetuous atmosphere cloaks them. They are picturesque and colorful. The Leger gouaches are, one feels, scientific and mathematically arrived at. Dissection plays a part in these puzzles. So studied are they that life seems fled. If one cares for chess, here are baffling problems waiting you.

The studio gallery, Increase Robinson, in the Diana Court building, submits an enigmatical exhibit at the moment also. Rifka Angel and her husband, Milton Douthat, show water colors, pastels, and drawings; Lenore Thomas and Warren Gilbertson hold up the sculpture end. The importance of the show must rest with the observer. For those who like odd, often fumbling, work here is much to delight them. For those who want more than mannerisms there is little to delay them.

The exhibits will continue through the month.

ENGAGEMENT

Mrs. William F. Grote of Wheaton announces the engagement of her daughter, Mary, to Thomas C. Cross, son of Mrs. A. J. Cross of Riverside. Miss Grote is a daughter of the late Col. William J. Grote and is a student at the American Conservatory of Music. The wedding will take place this summer.

Sweet Simplicity Marks the Formal Evening Ensemble

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Summer is no time to be complicated. All Paris agrees about this. Even formal evening toilettes are attuned to sweet simplicity, and most of them are slender and only scantily trimmed.

The fabric of the ensemble often decides its formality. Real and crêpe satin remain in vogue for the full evening outfit, as distinct from the runabout informal kind.

The Vera Borea ensemble, sketched today, is the kind of evening outfit that many smart Parisiennes are going to wear when hot weather comes. The dress of this ensemble is made of ivory crêpe satin, and is as simple as can be, with fitted princess lines, made easy to wear by the bias cut, and with two full side panels from the hipline to make the skirt wide at the bottom. This dress has a rounded neckline, and the armholes are emphasized by ropes of ivory crêpe satin. Ropes of the satin are placed in crescent curves on the hips, to suggest a flare that isn't there.

Stealing May Be Traced to Many Subtle Causes

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

It seems advisable in view of our correspondence to try to use a brief question and answer form occasionally. For example: "I find that my daughter is taking things like jewelry from neighbors and a relative she visited. Recently, I missed a fine necklace and some money and she admitted taking them. Also, she was away from school two days without my knowing it. Have you any advice?"

Answer: First, I think it absolutely vital for you to look thoroughly into the matter of your daughter's associates. Find out who they are, what they are like and how they spend their time.

Next, find out how your daughter spent the two days away from school. Thirdly, I would find out what your daughter did with the things she took. This is often a clue as to why a child takes things. Perhaps she has so much less than other children that she uses this means of getting things. Or it may be done through a desire to be popular—or to gain the favor of some older girls.

There are many reasons for what we call stealing. See if you cannot manage to give her some of the things she craves, or give her a little allowance and put her on her honor. Talk things over with her in a friendly way. Keep her confidence and friendship. Try to make home a pleasant place for her. This is an important time and may be a turning point in her life.

Here is another question: "Can you suggest any plays that would be suitable for the use of a child study group?"

Answer: I have no list of plays, though I have been trying to find time to compile one. A fine and comprehensive reference book for plays, stories, poems, etc., for children is "Realms of Gold," by Mahoney and Whitney, published by Doubleday Doran. As this book costs $5 some people may feel they cannot afford to own it. I feel sure the libraries carry it. If they do not, perhaps they will be glad to buy it, if you suggest it, as it should be in every good public library.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight")

I am a firm believer in regular and orderly bidding until the bidding reaches a game declaration. I believe it is most essential that rules, both as to strength requirements and as to suit showing, should be followed implicitly in order to make game. Any other procedure in the long run would be losing. However, I tend more and more to become a complete anarchist when it comes to bidding for slams—and to throw all rules and preconceived ideas overboard. Along with most writers on the game I have said in my books that in general to bid a grand slam you and your partner should hold between you at least seven second or first round high card tricks and to bid a little slam you should hold at least six and preferably six and a half of these tricks. Lately I have come across so many hands where a slam is possible through the distribution alone rather than to the preponderance of high card trick holdings that I believe that slam bidding could be based mainly on picturing your holding and your partner's in your mind from the information gained from the bidding and from what might be called the general feel of the cards and the situation in hand. Take yesterday's play-a-problem as an example:

NORTH.
♦—None

WEST.	EAST [Dealer].
♠—A,9,6,4,3,2	♠—None
♥—4	♥—A,K,J,8,3,2
♦—Q,10,8,5	♦—K,J,9,7,4

SOUTH.
♠—K,10
♥—Q,9,7,6
♣—K,10,7

East dealt and made a game invitational bid of two hearts. South passed, West took out with two spades. North passed. East bid three diamonds. South passed. West bid five diamonds. North passed, and now East jumped to six diamonds. You will note that East and West cannot be counted for more than 4½ to 5 first or second round high card tricks.

South opened the ♦ 2 and dummy played the 6 which took the trick. Dummy then led the ♥ 4 which declarer took with the ♥ A. Declarer then led the ♥ 2 which dummy captured with the ♦ 10. Dummy led back the ♣ 5 which declarer took with the ♣ A. To the next trick declarer led the ♥ 3 which dummy took with the ♦ Q, dummy leading back the ♠ A on which declarer discarded the ♣ 6. Dummy then led the ♦ 8 which South captured with the ♦ A. South returned the ♠ K which declarer trumped with the ♦ 9. Declarer then led out the ♦ K-J, the ♥ K-J-8 for the last five tricks, East and West making six odd—their little slam bid and made.

Had South been able to force East before the trumps were led the contract could not have been made. The low trump lead was no doubt the best defense.

NORTH.
♠—8,4
♥—K,Q,8,7,3
♣—Q,J,2

WEST.	EAST.
♠—10,7,6,3	♠—K,5,2
♥—A,5	♥—J,10,2
♦—Q,6,2	♦—10,7,4
♣—A,10,7,3	♣—K,8,5,4

SOUTH [Dealer].
♠—A,Q,J,9
♥—9,6,4
♣—9,6

Bid and play this hand and then compare the result with that printed Monday.

• THE RULES •

1. Each Sunday for 10 consecutive Sundays a Set of 3 Composite Pictures of persons who have been mentioned for the Presidency of the United States will be printed in the Picture Section of the Chicago Sunday Tribune. Each set of pictures, when cut apart and assembled properly, will make complete portraits.

You are invited to put the pictures together and name them and tell in a letter of 50 words or less which of the 30 persons you would like to see President of the United States and why. Clues will be printed beneath each Composite Picture to help you.

The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the best answers. See Prize List below.

2. The Composite Pictures must be cut out, assembled and pasted together. Below each picture must be written the name of the person pictured. A total of 30 pictures will be printed—3 each Sunday for 10 Sundays. NOTICE: Hold all pictures until you have the complete set of 30. Then send them to "Presidents," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. No entries will be returned.

3. This game is open to every one—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. It does not matter where you live. You pay nothing.

4. All pictures must be in by midnight 21 days after Set No. 10 is published. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department.

5. Make your entry simple. Elaborate entries will receive no greater consideration than simple ones. The judging will be based upon the following:

Second: Merit of the accompanying letter.

6. You need not purchase the Chicago Tribune to compete. You may copy or trace the pictures. The Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7. The judges will be a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree to accept their decision as final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Carey Selph, first prize in the winter draft, who is with the Sox because they finished last in the American league last year, stroked a dandy with the bases full late yesterday afternoon to give the Sox a 13 inning, 4 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Browns in the final of the opening series.

Carey's smack technically was a single only because it broke up the ball game by sending the winning run home from third. In normal dimension it was at least a double and it might have been a triple.

That contest dissolving hit wasn't Selph's only valiant act, either. He led off the fourth inning with a triple when the Sox were trailing, 3 to 1, and later scored, so you readily can see how much this young man was needed. In addition to his two productive hits, Selph wasted a single in the sixth.

Hadley Also Was Dandy.

Even so, Selph wasn't alone in the spotlight. In the batting department he had, in J. Smead Jolley, a co-hero who got just as many rays as he did. Smead drove in the Sox first run in the first inning and he drove in the tying one with another single in the eighth. Smead blew two chances to distinguish himself in the extra innings, but no one minded.

And the Sox got some superb pitching from Bump Hadley in his first American league appearance as a Comiskey employé. Bump was great in every inning except the fourth, when the Brownies made all of their runs. They made three hits off him in that inning and their total for the other twelve innings was a meager four. He struck out ten men—one in each of the first four innings, two in the fifth, and one each in the seventh, ninth, twelfth, and thirteenth.

The game was the longest played in Chicago since 1930. The farthest either the Sox or Cubs went at home last year was eleven innings. In winning three out of four in their opening series the Sox reversed their ratio of a year ago, when they dropped three and won one in Cleveland.

Blaeholder went to the finish for the Browns and did a swell job until the thirteenth, when Appling, batting for Hayes, singled to center, Watwood beat out a bunt, and, after Jolley had fouled to Kress, Blue singled off Kress' glove to fill the bases. This made it very tough for Blaeholder, of course, and it was tougher when Selph lined his hit over third.

They Should Have Gotten More.

Schalk Repays His Discoverer; Gives Him Job as Scout

Pittsfield, Mass., April 15.—(AP)—Alfred J. Ferry today learned that Ray Schalk, manager of the Buffalo team of the International league, had remembered the man who discovered him. Ferry was named scout for the Buffalo club.

Back in 1911, as a scout for the Detroit club, Ferry went to Taylorville, Ill., to look over a young catcher, Schalk. He took a liking to him and urged his club to get an option on Schalk, but the Tigers held off. Ferry then turned the option over to Milwaukee and a year later that club sold the backstop to the Chicago White Sox for players and $17,500. Schalk then developed into one of the greatest catchers in baseball.

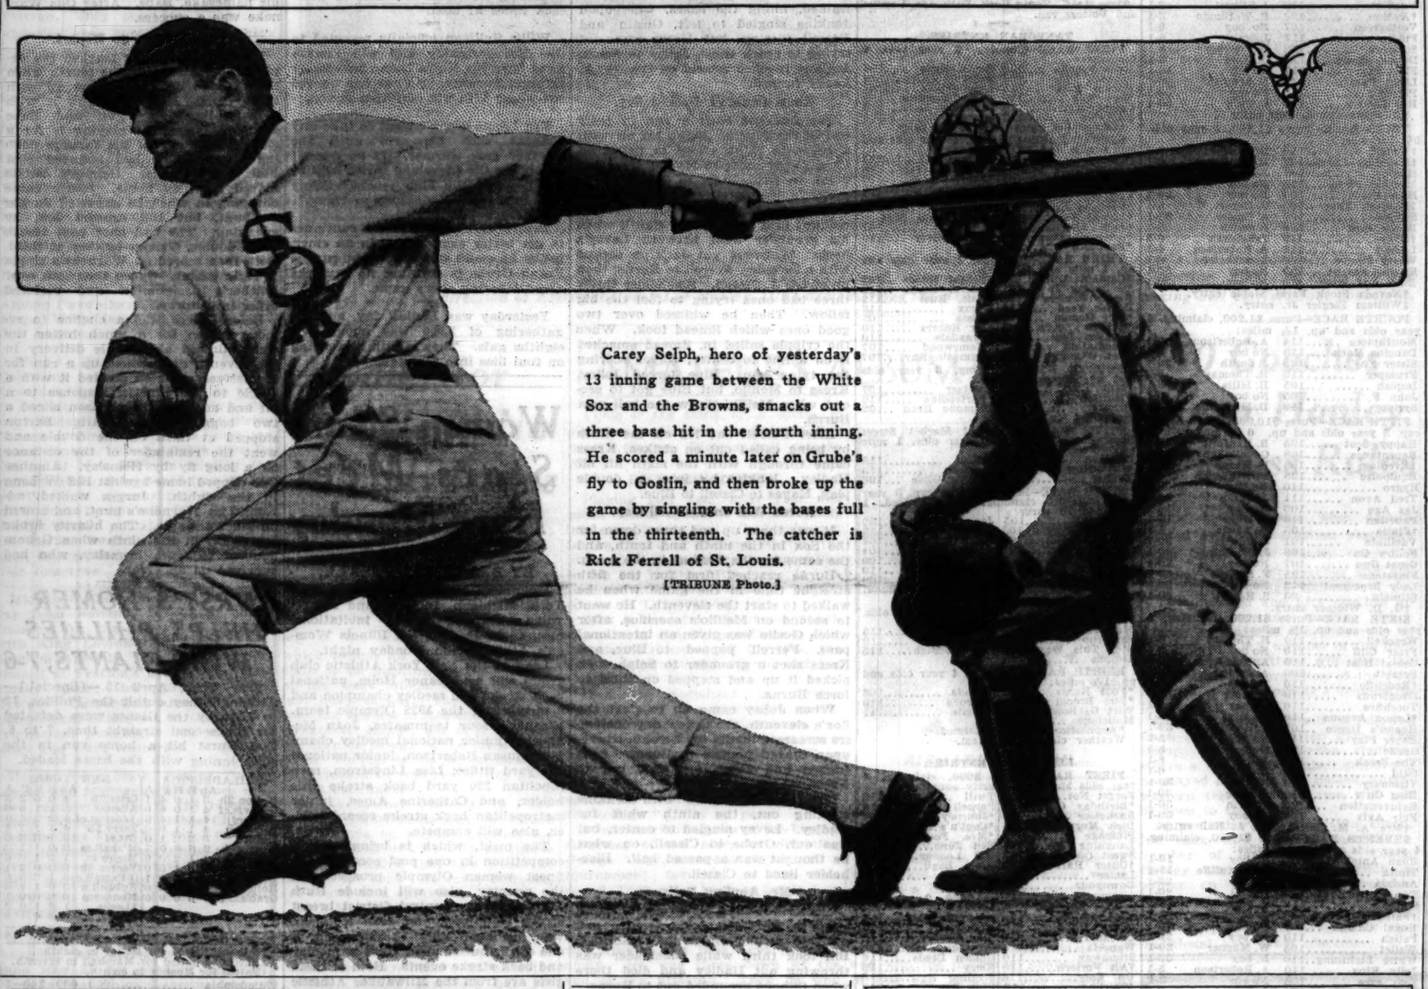
A HERO DOES HIS BIT—AND WHAT A BIT!



Carey Selph, hero of yesterday's 13 inning game between the White Sox and the Browns, smacks out a three base hit in the fourth inning. He scored a minute later on Grube's fly to Goslin, and then broke up the game by singling with the bases full in the thirteenth. The catcher is Rick Ferrell of St. Louis.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., April 15.—There was a healthy glow to the Cubs' batting attack today. They also enjoyed a fairly high grade of pitching as dispensed by Lon Warneke, a young man who hopes to climb the big league ladder. With such assets to aid them, the Chicagoans earned an even break in the four day series by capturing an 8 to 2 affair, which was enriched by a fifth inning brain storm suffered by Umpires Quigley and Donnelly. The arbiters made three decisions on one play before exhausting their supply of guesses.

The revival of the Cubs' attack, carried on against three Rhineland moundsmen, may have been due to the presence of old Riggs Stephenson, who had been resting for a couple of days. Anyway, the veteran set the pace for his fellow workers by peeling off three two baggers in four attempts. The other hits were so well scattered among members of the visiting cast that only two of them were denied the pleasure of a share. They were Billy Herman and Kiki Cuyler. The latter hasn't yet attained his normal stride.

Fifteen Minutes of Comedy.

It was worth the price of admission alone to see the boys in the throes of the bad case of daffiness in the Reds' fifth. The setting for the 15 minutes of comedy was arranged when Pitcher Ogden walked with one out. Douthit ran his count to 3 and 2 and then drove a fly to deep left. Stephenson ran back, made the catch, fell on his face, and wriggled around on the ground long enough to indicate that the ball had gotten out of hand and he wanted to recover it before arising. He had it in his glove all right when he arose to make the throw in.

Meanwhile Umpire Donnelly, who was working the bases, had raised his arm indicating he thought the ball had been caught. Ogden, not believing in signs, ran to second and half way back to first, where he stood. The ball came in to Jurges, who pegged it to Billy Herman. He tagged Ogden to complete a double play and retire the side. The retirement wasn't permanent, for the Reds poured out of their dugout.

Cubs Join the Charge.

The delegation of enraged Reds visited Umpire Donnelly to find out what he thought had happened. Donnelly explained the ball had been caught. They appealed to Umpire Quigley, who exercised his seniority rights and summoned his fellow worker for a conference. Quigley convinced Donnelly the ball had not been caught, and the Reds were happy. Then the Cubs charged out of their coop. They yowled until the umpires agreed to

YEA, HEYDLER FOR PRESIDENT! NO CLOUDY ISSUES

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 15.—Some one seems to have been feeding John Heydler meat, for the president of the National league has come out with a general condemnation of bad weather. This is the stuff that leadership is made of and, in a world crying for leaders, both parties in this country might be able to agree on Mr. Heydler for president.

Mr. Heydler would be no mere phrase maker and there would need be no fear of his sounding off in ill considered praise or blame of this or that, merely to hear the rumble of his own echoes. The campaign managers might get him to go so far as to say that honesty is the best policy or, anyway, that honesty is an experiment noble in purpose, but I doubt that he would ever affirm that a rolling stone gathers no moss without first referring the subject to a fact finding commission.

Even then, I think, Mr. Heydler would be more likely to put it that a rolling stone gathers little, if any, moss, for the commission might turn in a minority report. But when Mr. Heydler condemns bad weather you may be sure that he is sound in his facts and prepared to support his opinion with evidence.

Makes Himself Understood.

Mr. Harridge of the American league disagrees with Mr. Heydler to the extent that he does not accept his judgment unreservedly. Mr. Harridge is inclined to hold that weather, good or bad, is as you find it. He may have a big idea there, and persons of conservative thought are likely to regard him as a breakwater against the roaring tide of Heydler radicalism. It will be very interesting to watch the development of his policy as to bad weather, for there are many thoughtful citizens who are weary of destructive criticism. But, just offhand, his opinion has an equivocal sound, whereas Mr. Heydler's decision gives off the ringing note of a challenge. At least you know where Mr. Heydler stands.

This controversy arose from the fact that baseball in the major leagues, after opening ceremonies which were seriously impaired by rain, wind, and cold temperatures, was interrupted in all but a few instances by snow. Mr. Heydler did not deliver snap judgment even then. He had in his office many statistics of attendance, cash receipts, rainfall, snowfall, wind velocity, and temperatures for April extending back as far as 1880, and it was only after the most conscientious study of this material that he reached the decision which has caused the first serious disharmony between the two great leagues of this great national game of ours since the treaty of the Waldorf bar was signed in 1905.

Leagues Change Positions.

Strangely, the American league, which was the aggressive, progressive force in those days, has changed positions with the National now. A few restless members of the American league harbor an ill-concealed impatience of Mr. Harridge's policy and are trying to revive the spirit of Ban B. Johnson, who probably would have beaten Mr. Heydler to the draw on the weather issue. Mr. Johnson was no conservative and, in a season such as the present one, he would have been likely to get there firstest with the mostest words about the weather.

Mr. Johnson would have called the weather fighting names and would have gone before the country on no mere proposition that bad weather is not the most desirable weather. He would have been willing to fight on the proposition that bad weather is rotten weather, and a challenge to stalwart, dignified disapproval of the characteristic weather of early April for baseball purposes nowadays represents a daring declaration of policy. That is why his statement was news worth two column heads in the newspapers. Mr. Harridge, less forthright, conciliates the bad weather vote.

Of course, there remains another

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: On Oct. 10, 1874, the program of Hooley's Opera house contained a notice as follows:

"Arrangements have been made by the management for all south side stages to put down passengers at the theater each evening after 7 o'clock. Tickets for sale by the drivers at 25 cents for the round trip."

The performance was Shakespeare's tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet," with Romeo played by James O'Neill, Mercutio by H. S. Murdock, and Juliet by Miss Louise Hawthorne. Prices were parquette and parquette circle, $1.00; balcony, 75 cents; gallery, 50 cents, and private boxes, $6.00.

An Old Timer.

I had intended a few memory tests for oldtimers on the locations of prominent establishments of many years ago, but this is such a busy world I've decided to supply the answers with the questions. So here's the list:

F. D. Cossitt & Co. were wholesale grocers on Michigan avenue [now Reid, Murdoch & Co.]—1872.

Eastland & Duddleston had a retail market on 5th avenue [now Wells], north of Washington.

J. Esaias Warren was a real estate dealer in the Board of Trade building on La Salle near Washington.

H. M. Dupee was a packer at the Union stockyards, also on Board of Trade.

Doubtful Promotion.

As most people know, brokerage houses and investment concerns offering bonds to the public have operated in the red since about the middle half of the nearly three year old depression. So Helper J. J. C. vouches for this one.

A young collegian, graduated at the end of the winter semester, obtained a position with a prominent local investment house. Unexpectedly to his employers, he sold a pretty good order of bonds to a customer. Immediately, inspired by his success and prospects, he asked the head of the firm for a raise. To the latter's demurrer that the business was still losing money despite its new employé, the latter demanded the raise. Whereupon the senior partner replied:

Spring Fever.

I sit in the office and type items out
But am reduced almost to tears;
I want to be home digging dirt in the yard,
I want to plant elephant ears.

I want to dig earth around my rose bushes,
I want to plant grass seed and sing,
Typewriting today is against best wishes—

WILSON SMACKS FIRST HOME RUN; DODGERS WIN, 8-2

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 15.—[Special.]—Hack Wilson waited four days to make his first hit in a Brooklyn uniform, but when he did connect it produced results. Hack came to bat in the seventh inning of today's game against the Boston Braves with the score 2 to 1 in the Dodgers' favor and pounded out a home run to give Brooklyn a safe lead. The final count was 8 to 2.

How I Got My Start in Baseball

BY BENNY TATE.

BENNY TATE.

When I tell how I broke into baseball I want to make it clear that I am not advising any youngster to get into professional ball as young as I did.

My father, a coal miner, never objected to my desire to start out for myself after I had been graduated from grade school, but I think that he thought that I was looking for something softer than soft coal mining when, at the age of 15, I signed up with the industrial league maintained by the Tennessee Iron and Coal company at Edgewater, Ala., 12 miles from our home in Whitewell, Tenn. The fact that I had put in some hours as a machinist helper to be eligible in the league offered some consolation to the family, however.

In 1918 the family moved to Ohio and I gave up baseball for a season, but in 1919 was playing semi-pro ball, with the possibility of running a lathe or mining coal still lurking near by.

In 1920 I was playing in Carruthersville, Mo., and one Sunday a scout from the St. Louis Browns came down to look at Red Hollman, one of our pitchers. That day Red pitched a no hit, no run game and had 17 strikeouts. I made three hits in five times at bat, besides having a good day catching all those strikes.

The Browns decided they wanted Red and that they might as well take his 18 year old catcher. But they waited to do some more scouting, and the next Sunday I made a homer and a triple. I was signed by the Browns. Red was signed, too, but somehow his arm went back on him and he never got going.

I didn't get going myself quite as rapidly as I had pictured in my boyish dreams, and did stretches in Rock Island, Mobile, and Memphis before being sold to Washington.

I never inherited my father's love of work to the point where I wished to join him in a coal mine after I got in the American league, but I did have enough of his industriousness to be irked by Washington's failure to work me at least every other day. I therefore was happy to come to Chicago, where I've had a chance to do my share of the labor.

I have a son, now seven years old. I don't want him to be a coal miner or go to work in a machine shop at the age of 15. I want him to be a major league ball player, but not until he's gone to school at least four years longer than his pap did. And if I don't get my fingers busted clear off real soon I'm going to make enough catching to send him to college.

But I'm going to see to it that he goes to a college that's covered by big league scouts. And I've already told him that the modern college boy won't put his name on a contract without getting a bonus.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 15.—Orwell, owned by W. M. G. Singer of the United States, is the favorite to win the Derby at Epsom Downs on June 1. The call over of odds, which was announced today, shows that the American owned colt is quoted at 10 to 3. Miracle is the second choice at 9 to 1.

HAVRE DE GRACE TO START TODAY WITH GALA CARD

Equipoise Carries Top Weight in Feature.

Havre de Grace, Md., April 15.—[Special.]—A fine card has been arranged for the opening of Havre de Grace racing tomorrow. The outstanding feature is the $10,000 added Harford handicap at six furlongs, in which C. V. Whitney's Equipoise will concede much weight to the other 14 horses named by carrying 128 pounds. He will be favorite at 8 to 5. Jockey Workman will ride the Whitney star.

Tred Avon flashed great speed at Bowie, and it is believed will be the contender, but George D. Widener's filly, Evening, champion 3 year old of Florida racing and winner of the Hialeah Derby, also will be a strong contender.

Predicts Great Season.

James Burke, manager, predicted he would have the most successful spring meeting in years and the track has horses here from everywhere. Derby and Preakness candidates, budding 2 year olds and the cream of the handicap division are included among the horses stabled here.

JAMAICA ALSO STARTS

New York, April 15.—[Special.]—After a day of idleness in racing following the closing of Bowie, the Metropolitan Jockey club will inaugurate its 22 day meeting at the Jamaica course tomorrow. Racing Secretary Pebler has arranged a big program for the opening card, which is featured by the six furlong Paumonok handicap.

A field of eight leading candidates among the older handicap division has accepted the issue in this $5,000 added fixture, which will have its 23d running tomorrow. James Butler's gallant Questionnaire heads the field. The son of Sting-Miss Puzzle will be asked to concede much weight to his seven rivals.

Carries 130 Pounds.

Under the impost of 130 pounds, which the handicapper has assigned the Butler horse, Questionnaire will concede eight pounds to both Hijack and Flying Heels. The Beasel, Victor Emanuel's fleet running Sunspot mare, has been asked to shoulder 125 pounds. Chestnut Onk, which displayed speed in his seasonal debut at Bowie last week, appears well spotted with 117 pounds. A La Carte, Economic, and Ha Ha, the lightweights of the field, have been reported working well over the Jamaica course.

Waltonians to Meet in City on Thursday

BY BOB BECKER.

Chicago will become the clearing house for outdoor problems next week when the 10th annual convention of the Izaak Walton league convenes in the Hotel Sherman April 21-23.

Sportsmen, conservationists, game breeders, ornithologists and government authorities concerned with national parks, national forests and other recreational assets will attend this convention.

Since the convention comes soon after the recent waterfowl hearing held in Washington, sportsmen attending the convention expect to hear additional information on the duck crisis and what the outlook is for the coming season. Paul H. Redington, chief of the United States Biological Survey, is coming from Washington to address Waltonians on federal game conservation work, which will include a discussion of the waterfowl situation.

Another convention visitor whose comments on the duck crisis will be of great interest to sportsmen is Charles P. Hoadley, minister of agriculture of the province of Alberta, Canada.

Preceding the start of the convention on April 21 the national sportsman's show will open Tuesday morning in the Hotel Sherman, April 19, with dozens of program features and exhibits of interest to the outdoor fan ranging from the newest guns and fishing rods to the latest camping equipment. The outstanding fly and bait rod casters in Chicagoland will exhibit their skill during this show in various contests which will be held at a specially built casting pool in the exhibition hall.

Charles Edwards, president of the National Association of Scientific Angling Clubs and national ⅝ ounce accuracy bait champion, states that there will be general casting at all times during the sportsman's show, with the big feature, the fisherman's plug game, Thursday night, April 21.

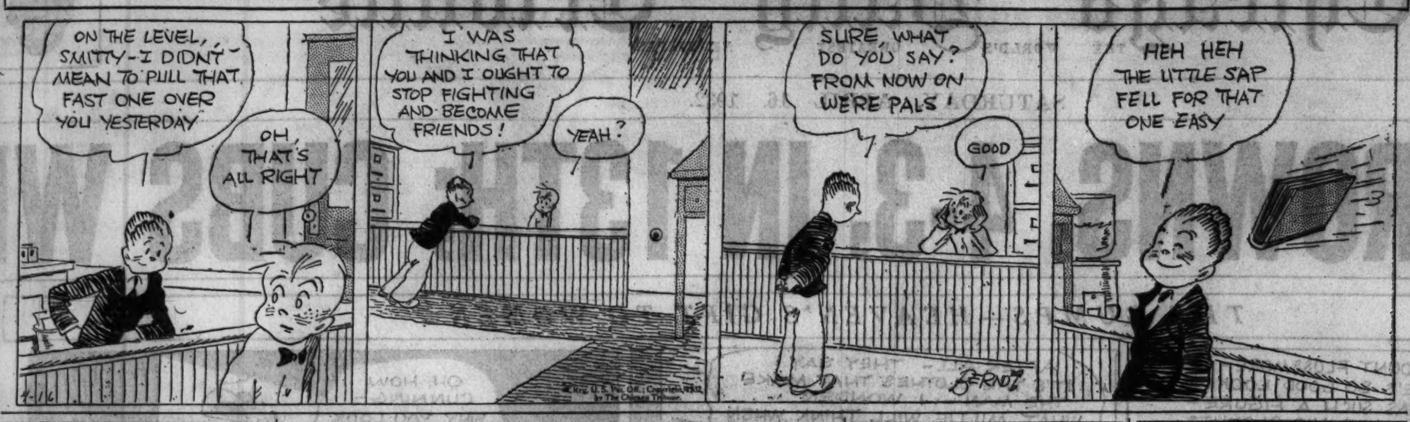
BETTING DECLINES $80,000 PER DAY AT BOWIE TRACK

Bowie, Md., April 15.—[Special.]—Figures released today by officials of the Bowie track show that the betting this year is far below that of last year. Betting at the spring meet, which ended last Wednesday, was $80,000 a day less than in 1931.

The total betting was $3,776,552, as compared with $4,617,827 wagered during the meet last year. However, officials announced that attendance was higher than in 1931. The charity day program, which was held yesterday, saw $372,700 go through the pari-mutuel machines. Last year $236,673 was wagered.

SMITTY—THE BOOK OF LEARNING



Betty Barrett Could Be a Swell Ringer

BY FRENCH LANE.

Tony Barrett of the Board of Trade, who likes the fresh air at our race tracks, if he were of the type, could put over the most gigantic "ringer" betting coup ever engineered, in the opinion of clockers who are watching the early morning workouts at Sportsmen's park, Chicago's new half mile race track.

According to the clockers she is a dead ringer for Pansy Walker, the brilliant stake winning mare in the Three D's Stock Farm stable of Texas.

She Fooled Mr. Henry.

John Henry, among the clockers at Sportsmen's park, who has identified horses all over the country, said yesterday after he watched Betty Barrett go through her training paces, he thought sure it was Pansy Walker.

He showed us his identification book. The description of Pansy Walker and of Betty Barrett are identical. It said "Brown mare with a star in forehead and two front under." "Two front under" tells the clocker that there is a streak of white on each mare's forelegs extending from the ankle down to the hoof.

He Doesn't Want Pansy.

Mr. Barrett says he will not attempt to rent Pansy Walker for a couple of days and put her into a race to run for Betty Barrett.

"They may be wanting to rent Betty Barrett to run for Pansy Walker before the season is over," was Barrett's optimistic comment.

The railbirds at Sportsmen's Park were amazed yesterday when Luchon, owned by John Ferriss of Nashville, took the track and hugged the rail over the half mile course to gallop a half mile in :50 2-5.

It was the fastest four furlongs ever run over the new half mile track, but that wasn't the startling part about it. On all the mile tracks he has ever performed over, Luchon has run to the outside fence on the turns.

And he has run wide plenty of times, for he is a 4 year old maiden, which means that he has been racing since he was a 2 year old without rolling up one victory. Yet the short turns of the half mile oval did not seem to bother him.

Genuine, a great sprinter in his day, is another horse that hugs the rails of the half mile track and hangs up time records that most horses cannot equal on mile running strips. He has been beaten only a couple of times in half mile track competition. Seems to know the shortest way around always. The railbirds say we will be hearing about him soon after the season opens.

Many horses are moving from the Bowie track in Maryland toward the Chicago racing scene. John Theall's Lone Star stable racers are headed for Aurora. So are a number of horses owned by A. Pelleteri, who was about the luckiest owner to race his horses in Chicago last season. A division of the W. J. Potter horses will be sent to Sportsmen's Park from Bowie.

PLAY SECOND ROUND IN POLO SERIES TONIGHT

Two games in the second round of the indoor polo championship matches for the Gen. Frank Parker trophy will be played tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 5200 Cottage Grove avenue.

Led by George L. Ferguson, a former West Point star, the Milwaukee Meadowbrook Shamrocks are matched with the 124th Field Artillery trio, champions of the recent tournament conducted by the Metropolitan Indoor league. Lieut. Col. R. G. Hunter leads the army trio at the No. 3 position.

The second match brings together another civilian group and an army trio, the Ohio State alumni and the 122d Field artillery.

double to left by Levey. Hadley threw three balls to Blaeholder, then slammed in three strikes, the last of which caught George with his bat on his shoulder. Schulte popped to Hayes.

They Couldn't Fool Jolley.

The Sox got back a run in their end of the fourth. Selph led off with a triple to right, chose to pause on Cissell's grounder to Melillo, but came home on Grube's fly to Goslin.

Here's the detail of Jolley's No. 2 batting accomplishment. Hayes reached first to start the eighth when his grounder went between Levey's heels. Watwood put Jack on second with a sacrifice. Ferrell to Burns; then up strode J. Smead. Blaeholder threw three bad ones trying to fool the big fellow. Then he whizzed over two good ones which Smead took. When the cripple sailed in, Smead smacked it on a line to center, Hayes scoring the tying run. Blue forced Jolley, Kress to Melillo, but Blue got to second when Melillo threw the ball past Burns.

After Ferrell had led off the ninth by being called out on strikes, Kress came through with the sixth hit off Hadley. Jenkins hit into a double play, Hayes to Cissell to Blue.

Burns Was on Base All Day.

It was three up and three down for the Sox in the ninth and tenth, and the same for the Browns in the tenth.

Burns reached first for the fifth straight time in the game when he walked to start the eleventh. He went to second on Melillo's sacrifice, after which Goslin was given an intentional pass. Ferrell popped to Blue, and Kress shot a grounder to Selph, who picked it up and stepped on third to force Burns.

When Jolley came up to start the Sox's eleventh, the ladies' day customers screamed lustily for heroics, whereupon Smead popped to Burns. Blue fanned and Selph grounded out to Kress.

The twelfth started with Jenkins striking out, the ninth whiff for Hadley. Levey singled to center, but was out, Grube to Cissell, on what he thought was a passed ball. Blaeholder lined to Cissell.

Mr. Appling Delivers.

Cissell beat out a slow roller towards third to start the Sox's twelfth and went to second on Grube's sacrifice. Bill took third while Blaeholder was throwing out Hadley and died there when Simons grounded out to Burns.

In the Brown's thirteenth, Schulte grounded out to Cissell and Burns fouled to Blue. Melillo was strikeout victim No. 10.

After which the Sox heard the call to supper and Blaeholder, the crash of Selph's bat.

Invitations to 5,000 high schools will be sent out immediately for the 28th annual national interscholastic track and field meet on June 4 by the University of Chicago.

Indians Open 4 Game Series with White Sox Today

Roger Peckinpaugh will bring his Cleveland Indians to town today. "Caraway or Gaston," Manager Fonseca said after his shower yesterday. It probably will be Gaston, who showed more stuff than anybody during the spring maneuvers. Harder is scheduled to pitch for the enemy.

Yesterday's heroes, Selph and Jolley, are off to a great batting start. Selph has made eight hits in four games, including a triple and three doubles, for an average of .444. Jolley has batted .500 in three games, with six hits in 12 times at bat. And most of the hits of both counted like everything.

Lu Blue has hit safely six times in fifteen trips to the plate for an average of .400, while Johnny Watwood is hitting .357 with five hits in fourteen times at boat.

Willie Sullivan officially reported to the Sox yesterday and will remain away from his Notre Dame law classes through Tuesday. No one has figured out where Will will play this season.

Ted Lyons doesn't want to take any chances with his arm until the weather gets warmer. If he doesn't go during the Cleveland series he'll be rarin' when the club reaches balmy St. Louis next W

ATHLETICS WIN UPHILL BATTLE FROM YANKS, 9-8

Simmons Speeds Bases in 9th for Victory.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 15.—[Special.]—Connie Mack's Athletics fought back vigorously in the face of a disastrous seventh inning, when the New York Yankees had hit Walberg and Lefty Grove for five runs, and finally triumphed in the ninth, 9 to 8.

The winning run was scored by Al Simmons, who beat out a hit, traveling to third on a wild throw by Pipgras and reaching home on Dykes' fly.

SENATORS WIN THIRD, 2-0.

Boston, Mass., April 15.—[Special.]—The Red Sox were shut out today by Montie Weaver, formerly of Baltimore, who pitched his first game for the Senators, and Washington won its third game in a row from Boston, 2 to 0.

Washington gathered six hits off Hod Lisenbee while the Sox were held to four. The Senators scored both runs in the second inning when Rhyne booted Judge's grounder and Bluege and Spencer cracked out a double and single respectively.

DETROIT FORCES VICTORY, 3-2.

Detroit, Mich., April 15.—[Special.]—The Cleveland Indians gathered only three hits off Earl Whitehill today, but Detroit had difficulty in winning the last of a three game series, 3 to 2.

When the Tigers came to bat in the ninth the score was tied. Then Bill Rogell hit a double, and Dale Alexander, a pinch hitter, was walked. Joiner White ran for Alexander and dumped Hodapp when forced at second. Rogell sped around third base to beat the delayed throw to the plate to win. The victory was Detroit's second in a row. Cleveland won the series opener.

PRELIMINARIES IN CATHOLIC PREP SWIM TONIGHT

Preliminaries in the annual Chicago Catholic High school league swimming meet will be held tonight at the St. George High school pool in Evanston. More than 150 swimmers, representing eight schools in the league, will compete. The finals are scheduled for tomorrow night.

Mike Howlette and Capt. Larry Corrigan are among the swimmers who will attempt to lead Loyola academy to its second consecutive championship. Howlette last summer won in THE TRIBUNE'S meet. Corrigan in a dual meet recently bettered the 40 yard free style league record by covering the distance in 18 seconds.

SENN ATHLETE HURDLES TO 140 YARD RECORD

St. Louis, Mo., April 15.—(AP)—Fred Pollard, colored athlete representing Senn High school of Chicago, set a new 140 yard low hurdle record for the Maplewood prep relays in the preliminaries today. His time of :15.4 bettered by one-tenth of a second the record made last year by Shannon of St. Louis. A. Newton and W. Holmes of New Trier, Chicago, also qualified in the low hurdles.

G. Quinlan of New Trier qualified for the 100 yard dash and also for the 200 yard dash. After coming through the first heat in the low hurdles, O. Bellfield of Joliet, Ill., failed to qualify in the semi-finals.

Pick Kilbourne to Beat Shade in Ten Rounds

Jack Kilbourne, middleweight champion of Australia, will be favored to beat Dave Shade when they meet in the ten round main event of the boxing show at White City next Thursday night. This is a new state of affairs for Shade, who always has been favored over opponents in Chicago.

A majority of the boxing followers who watched Shade and the Australian train yesterday at the Arcade gymnasium expressed the belief that Kilbourne will defeat the New York veteran. They point to Kilbourne's victories over Roy Williams, Harry Fuller, Ray Tramblie, and Haakon Hansen at White City in recent weeks. In these matches Kilbourne showed he can punch hard and box cleverly.

The Australian champion has not lost a fight in almost two years. His most recent defeat was administered by Shade at San Diego, Cal. That contest was only Kilbourne's fourth windup bout. He is fully matured now and believes he can whip the man who has been a leading middleweight for the last 15 years.

Shade has won 11 of 12 Chicago matches. He lost a close decision to Rene De Vos, but whipped the Belgian champion at New York later. Among Dave's local victims are Henry Firpo, Willie Oster, Bert Colima, and Joe Anderson.

Fidel La Barba and Martin Zuniga, California featherweights, arrived from Los Angeles yesterday en route to Detroit, where they headline a card next Friday. La Barba will meet Petey Sarron of Birmingham, Ala., in a ten round contest. Zuniga fights Pete De Grasse of New York in another ten round match. Fidel boxed four rounds at Trafton's gymnasium, two each with Paul Dazzo and Bill Reardon. Zuniga worked out at the same place. La Barba, Zuniga, and their manager, George Blake, will leave for Detroit tomorrow.

Mickey Walker will arrive next Friday from Summit, N. J., to finish training for his ten round contest with King Levinsky at the Chicago Stadium April 29. He will establish himself at Trafton's gymnasium. Levinsky posed for pictures with Georges Carpentier, former light heavyweight champion, at the Arcade gymnasium yesterday. He will rest today and train tomorrow.

Illinois, Ohio State, Purdue, Iowa, Loyola, and Michigan universities will have representatives in the intercollegiate championships at the Chicago Stadium May 6 and 7. Three of Ohio State intramural champions already have entered. They are Mike Ausnelli, featherweight; Charles Brill, lightweight, and Paul Hummel, welterweight.

Al Donnelly, southern lightweight champion, will arrive from New Orleans May 15 for pending matches. Donnelly beat Chico Cisneros, former southern titleholder, in a recent start. Bill Connell of Monmouth, Ill., will battle Bada Dominic on the Derby eve card at Louisville.

VINES, ALLISON REACH FINAL OF TENNIS TOURNEY

Pinehurst, N. C., April 15.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, Cal., the national champion, overwhelmed the defending titleholder, John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, in the semi-finals of the north and south tennis tournament here today. The scores were 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

Tomorrow in the finals Vines will meet Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., who achieved the defeat of Francis X. Shields, New York, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4, 6-1.

The quarter-final round brought the elimination by Shields of Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., the national indoor champion, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, by Van Ryn of Gilbert Hall, East Orange, N. J., 7-5, 6-4, and by Allison of Dr. Eugene McCauliff, New York, 1-6, 6-3, 7-5.

SCHAEFER WINS FOURTH BLOCK IN BALK LINE MATCH

Jake Schaefer won his fourth straight block last night in his 1,800 point 18.2 balkline match with Dave McAndless at Mussey's Wabash avenue billiard room. He now leads 1,200 to 456 in 40 innings. The fifth and sixth blocks will be played today.

In the afternoon he triumphed, 300 to 264, in 19 innings, with a high run of 77; McAndless had 54. Schaefer added 75 to his unfinished 91 made on Thursday night, for a high run of 166.

Eastman and Bob Kiesel Run Today in Dual Meet

Berkeley, Cal., April 15.—(AP)—Ben Eastman of quarter and half mile fame and Bob Kiesel, sophomore sprint ace, will compete in a track meeting tomorrow of Stanford and the University of California. One of the oldest rivalries in the far west, the meet promises to be a repetition of eight preceding ones, with California on the losing end of the score.

Heydler for President! No Cloudy Issues

issue on which less cautious men might be tempted to take a stand. That is the eighteenth century blue law of the state of Pennsylvania which forbids all three major league clubs to do business on the one day of the week which would be their best business day. The Sunday law does not operate in Reading of the International league, nor is it enforced in Scranton or any of the other minor cities. Neither is the saloon business embarrassed by this law or any more recent enactment.

So the baseball customer in Pittsburgh or Philadelphia may not attend a ball game on Sunday because the citizens living in 1784 with solicitious foresight decided that this would be bad for his soul. He may, however, get drunk in a speakeasy.

Both Mr. Heydler and Mr. Harridge hold that baseball is moral at all times and a boon to the public, but with a discreet respect for the opinions of those who may believe in ancestry worship, neither president has yet taken any aggressive action to prove that Sunday baseball is at least as fine a moral force as hootch on a given day.

The principal campaigner for Sunday baseball and the repeal of the blue laws is Will Roper, the old Princeton football coach. But you will notice that Mr. Roper is not the Princeton coach now. At least he had the good taste to resign from Princeton, realizing, no doubt, that any one so depraved as to doubt the wisdom of the founding fathers has no place among university students of tender age.

150 WOMEN VIE FOR A. A. U. TRACK CROWNS TODAY

Many organizations have entered large teams. They include the Elgin Athletic club, Milwaukee Women's Athletic club, the South End chamber of commerce, Cornell Square, Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, Moguls Athletic club of Western Electric, and the Illinois Women's Athletic club.

Championships will be decided in the standing broad jump, 220 yard run, eight pound shot put, basketball throw, and relay race [teams of four]. There are two events for novices, the 50 yard dash and running broad jump.

Illinois Tennis Team Beats Washburn, 4 to 2

Urbana, Ill., April 15.—(AP)—The University of Illinois tennis team swept the doubles events today to defeat Washburn college of Topeka, Kas., 4 to 2. The teams were tied at the conclusion of the singles, but the Illini won both the doubles. The teams meet again tomorrow, with opponents shifted.

Livesay Beats Hines, 6—4, for Mason and Dixon Title

AMATEURS' ALBUM By Charles Bartlett

RICHARD MARTIN.

Playing golf year after year and never losing a match without going into extra holes—that's the bright spot in the record of Richard Martin, the little star from Briergate, according to his big brother, Hap, who is professional at A. D. Lasker's private course in Lake Forest.

Dick has specialized in forcing matches past the eighteenth green, winning several and losing some, but he reached his high point in last year's national amateur tournament. Fans who watched the big show at Beverly last year will remember the bespectacled blond and his blue cap with the orange "I" in its peak.

After contributing one of the biggest surprises of the meet by defeating George Voigt, a seeded player and a tournament favorite, in the first round, Dick came back to battle Lester Bolstad, former intercollegiate champion, in the afternoon. There was more than one bad break on the way around, but Dick kept plugging along. He was three down at the end of the fifteenth. Then he won the last three holes to square the match, starting the rally by sinking a 20 foot putt. He lost the match on the 19th in a hailstorm, but his extra hole record was still intact.

RICHARD MARTIN.

Dick has been playing golf since he was a kid, learning the game while he was a caddy at Lake Shore. He was born in Chicago 26 years ago and is now completing a law course at the University of Illinois. He captained the Illini golf team last year and won the individual championship in 1930 and 1931, the only player in conference history to win twice in succession.

Bookies Banned at Baltimore's Society Racing

Baltimore, Md., April 15.—(AP)—Baltimore county officers tonight received orders from the county commissioners to permit no bookmakers to operate tomorrow at the 24th running of My Lady's Manor, first of the three major events of the Maryland cross-country racing season.

Followers of society racing said it was the first time in the history of the cross-country classics that an embargo had been placed on bookmaking.

Carroll E. Stansbury, marshal of the county, said he had been instructed to keep the lid clamped down on the running of the Grand National point-to-point and the Maryland Hunt Cup steeplechase, scheduled to be run on successive Saturdays.

MISSISSIPPI RING BOARD SUSPENDS, FINES DEMPSEY

Jackson, Miss., April 15.—(AP)—The Mississippi athletic commission today suspended Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, and members of the commission said the suspension would be effective in all the 30 states affiliated with the National Boxing association.

The commission also assessed a $300 fine against the former champion. The suspension order included Dempsey's manager, Leonard D. Sacks, and Ned Parsons of New Orleans, whom the commission referred to as "promoter."

The suspensions and fine were based on charges against Dempsey, Sacks and Parsons in connection with unpaid bills of $2,800 left from a "Dempsey day" celebration at Columbus, Miss., in November, 1930. Dempsey denied that he held any interest in the celebration other than acting as referee.

N. B. A. MAY BAR SCHMELING FOR 'MISLEADING' FANS

Max Schmeling, world's heavyweight champion, may be barred from appearing in the 30 states under control of the National Boxing association as the result of an investigation started yesterday by President John V. Clinnin.

George Panka, Pittsburgh heavyweight, complained to Gen. Clinnin about the use of his name in connection with an exhibition bout in Toronto, Ont., April 1. Dispatches credited Schmeling with giving Panka a severe beating, whereas Panka claims he was in Pittsburgh that night.

Gen. Clinnin said if the substitution was made for the purpose of misleading the public, the N. B. A. would take steps to keep Schmeling out of its territory.

SMALL CROWD; MAX BALKS.

Fortress Monroe, Va., April 15.—(AP)—Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion of the world, refused to go on with a scheduled exhibition sparring match at the Liberty theater here tonight and some 500 fans who had assembled were refunded their money.

The champion refused to come into the theater when he heard of the slight attendance.

Rosenbloom Outpoints Wellise in Ten Rounds

Fight Decisions

250 Coaches Hear Hanley Discuss Rules

New football rules were demonstrated at Dyche stadium yesterday when Coach Dick Hanley opened a two day school for coaches and officials of the Chicago district.

Two hundred and fifty coaches attended the opening session. Coach Alonzo A. Stagg of the University of Chicago, who is a member of the football rules committee, will give the committee's interpretation of the rule changes at this morning's demonstration.

Coach Stagg's talk will be followed by a luncheon at Patten gym. The group will go to Dyche stadium, where a regulation football game will be played between two picked Northwestern teams. The game will not be open to the public.

At yesterday's meeting Ollie Olson, full back and kicker, uncorked a number of lengthy punts. Coach Hanley stated that with such a punter on hand, it was probable Northwestern would take advantage of the new rule permitting a team to punt on the kickoff instead of the traditional kick from placement.

Lane Blanks Senn, 12-0, in First Game

Johnny Harl, one of the stars in the Chicago Public High School league, pitched the championship Lane Tech squad to a 12 to 0 victory over Senn in its opening league game at Logan Square park yesterday. Harl pitched for six innings before being relieved by Weidemeyer and allowed only one hit.

Catcher Denning and Heyer, the new second baseman, led the Lane attack. The champions collected sixteen hits off Sampson and Wilson, Senn's pitchers, scoring in every inning but the first.

Crane and Bowen Win.

Two teams favored for sectional championships, Crane in the west and Bowen in the south, scored victories. Crane shut out Marshall, 5 to 0, at McKinley park for its second league victory, while Bowen also scored its second triumph by defeating Fenger, 3 to 2, at Bessemer park.

A run in the last inning gave Bowen victory over Fenger. Bowen scored two runs in the second, but the score was tied when Fenger counted twice in the third. In the seventh Dudek tripled and came home on McKirchy's single. McKirchy pitched for Bowen and yielded only three hits.

Morgan Park Beats Parker, 8-0.

Victors in other league games yesterday were Morgan Park, Phillips, and Lake View. Morgan Park defeated Parker, 8 to 0; Phillips triumphed over Hyde Park, 12 to 6; Lake View won from Schurz, 5 to 4.

The Tilden-Lindblom central section contest was called off in the fourth inning when 4,000 fans swarmed on the Gage Park diamond after Tilden had taken a 1 to 0 lead. The game will be replayed later in the season.

The Father Ashenden chapter of the Catholic Youth organization, will hold the finals of its annual swimming meet tonight at the Portage park pool, Berteau and Central avenues. Preliminaries in all three divisions of competition were held earlier in the week.

IOWA SCORES 9 RUNS IN FIFTH; BEATS N. U., 13-10

Ricke, Potter Hit Homers with Bases Loaded.

Iowa City, Ia., April 15.—[Special.]—Iowa opened its Big Ten season with a 13 to 10 victory over Northwestern today. The game was called at the end of the seventh inning because of rain and darkness.

MICHIGAN BREAKS EVEN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 15.—[Special.]—Michigan divided a double header with Michigan State Normal college here today, winning the first game in seven innings, 4 to 3, and losing a five inning affair, 10 to 9. The second contest was called on account of darkness. Scores:

Batteries—Mott and Miller; Tompkins and Diffley.

INDIANA WINS, 7 TO 1.

Cincinnati, O., April 15.—(AP)—Indiana university defeated Xavier university, 7 to 1, here today. Indiana bunched hits in two innings, scoring three times in the second and four times in the seventh. Score:

Indiana	030	000	400—7
Xavier	000	100	000—1

WISCONSIN MEETS NOTRE DAME.

Notre Dame, Ind., April 15.—[Special.]—Wisconsin pounded three Notre Dame pitchers for 11 hits today to win, 10 to 3. Nello Pacetti, veteran Badger pitcher, allowed only eight hits, four of which were bunched for Notre Dame's three runs in the seventh.

After scoring twice in the first inning on Capt. Charley Palt, Wisconsin loaded the bases in the second before Palt left the mound with none out. Charley Mannix retired the side safely, but was nicked for three runs in the third. He gave way to a pinch hitter in the seventh, and his successor, Maloney, was reached for four runs on two hits in the eighth, walking the first two batsmen.

IRISH MEET MAROONS.

For the first time in several years a University of Chicago athletic team will oppose Notre Dame today. Coach Pat Page's baseball squad will meet the Irish on the Midway at 3 o'clock.

The contest will rest largely between the pitching ability of Roy Henshaw, Chicago's left hand star, who led the Big Ten last year, and Notre Dame's heavy hitters. Henshaw allowed Lake Forest only five hits when the Maroons won their opening game Tuesday.

RAILWAYS OPEN ATTACK ON U. S. WATERWAY WORK

Outline Their Position to Senate Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 15.—[Special.]—The railroads of the United States came out frankly today against federal expenditures for inland waterway improvements until legislation is enacted that will enable them to compete on equal terms with waterway carriers and to engage as carriers themselves on the waterways.

R. H. ASHTON. (Russell Photo.)

Appearing in opposition to the bill introduced by Senator Shipstead [Farmer-Labor, Minn.], providing for a bond issue of 500 million dollars to complete authorized river and harbor projects as rapidly as possible, R. H. Aishton, chairman of the executive committee of the Association of Railway Executives, and Dr. C. S. Duncan, economist for the association, outlined to members of the senate commerce committee the position of the railroads on waterway improvements.

Charge Unfair Advantage.

Waterway carriers, it was asserted, have an unfair advantage over the railroads because of the public money that is spent on the waterways, while the railroads are subjected to a heavy tax burden, having paid 7.24 cents for taxes in 1931 out of every dollar of gross revenue received.

Attack was made on the government barge line, the assertion being that because the barge line did not have to pay taxes or interest on the capital furnished it by the government, was unfair competition with the railroads.

"The rail carriers are opposed to being subjected to competition wherein the competitor is relieved from important items of operating cost, which the rail carriers and private enterprises generally must meet out of revenue," said Mr. Aishton.

"When total costs are considered, rail transportation is actually cheaper than by water, with admittedly superior service by rail," declared Dr. Duncan, basing his assertion, he said, on a study of total comparable costs as between the Mississippi-Ohio-Missouri system and the railroads.

Hidden Costs Are Cited.

Hidden costs in water transportation service are paid by the general public, and the favored shipper who makes use of subsidized water lines obtains a gratuity, he asserted.

"There are two further items which should be considered in this connection," he said. "The first of these is the amounts which may have been paid by state and local units of government. For instance, the state of Illinois has already paid $15,500,000 on the Illinois waterway. The sanitary district of Chicago has spent $53,000,000 in constructing the sanitary canal, and the same organization has expended more than $14,000,000 on the Sag channel for drainage and sewerage purposes. I need not refer to the lavish expenditures by the state of New York on its barge canal. The total expenditures of this kind are not available, but they are a part, and a substantial part, of the cost of these inland waterways.

Other Costs Recounted.

"The second point has to do with collateral or contingent costs. By this phrase I mean those costs which are incurred as a result of river and canal improvement. When a stream is deepened and widened and generally when improvements are made on a so-called navigable stream, then corresponding changes are required for bridge crossings over such stream. These collateral or contingent costs are most substantial. No total sum is now available. An illustration, however, will show their importance.

"I use the Sag harbor project, which is a proposal to join Sag harbor with the Illinois waterway, as an example. If and when this project is carried out it will mean a contingent cost for the railroads crossing this proposed water course, represented by total capital expenditures and capitalization of increased operation and maintenance expense of $132,372,000.

Says Some One Must Pay.

"These collateral or contingent costs are never included in the figures representing expenditures for proposed projects. They do, however, have to be paid by some one. They are a substantial item in transportation costs. They do not appear among the elements of cost of those who operate on the waterways."

Vast public expenditures on waterways and highways—estimated at well over fourteen billions of dollars since work on the waterways was begun—constituted a taking of private property by the government through taxes for these projects, Dr. Duncan said. He said the money put in the waterways totaled $2,393,154,494, and in the highways since 1920 12 billion 500 million dollars.

DICK TRACY—A Clew

WALTER NOBLE BURNS, AUTHOR, TAKEN BY DEATH

Dies at 59 Years After Operation.

Walter Noble Burns, author and former newspaperman, died yesterday in Augustana hospital following an emergency operation. He was 59 years old. He was best known as the author of "The Saga of Billy the Kid" and other stories of the southwest.

Mr. Burns was born in Louisville and entered newspaper work there when he was 18 years old. Later he made a whaling voyage out of San Francisco to the South Seas and the Arctic, one which he accumulated the material for his first book, "A Year with a Whaler," which was published in 1913. He served with the 1st Kentucky infantry during the Porto Rican campaign of the Spanish-American war.

He came to Chicago about 25 years ago and joined the staff of THE TRIBUNE, after working for several years on other newspapers. He followed Gen. Pershing's troops into Mexico in their pursuit of Pancho Villa in 1916 as a correspondent of THE TRIBUNE.

After the world war he was connected for a number of years with Vanderhoof & Co., Chicago advertising agency.

More recently he has spent his time gathering lore of the southwest for his books. He was considered an authority on the subject. He made his home in San Antonio, Tex., until recently, but returned to Chicago a few months ago.

Mr. Burns is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rose Hoke Burns, 7310 Barton avenue. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Monday in the chapel at 6208 North Western avenue, with burial in Memorial Park cemetery.

Watchman Shoots Through Window and Hits Prowler

Walter Horan of 2652 West 64th street, a special watchman, early this morning was aroused from sleep in the rear of Lauf's pharmacy, 2659 West 63d street, where he had been detailed because of numerous robberies, by the sound of a window being raised. Looking out, he saw a figure silhouetted against the window. He fired three times. Thomas Kelly, 27 years old, no address, was shot once in the abdomen and twice in the left side. At the Bridewell hospital it was said he might die.

Jewish Congregations Preparing for Passover

Jewish congregations are preparing for the Passover, the observance of which will begin next Wednesday night. The festival celebrates the deliverance of the Jews from Egyptian bondage with Moses as their leader. The keynote of the holiday is freedom, according to the Central Conference of American Rabbis and Union of American Hebrew congregations, which issued a tract on the festival yesterday. Not only is physical freedom essential, but spiritual and religious freedom as stressed.

Speeds 75 Miles an Hour in Sheridan Rd.; Fined $30

George P. Jones, whose address was given at 5543 Winthrop avenue, and who said he was in the railway supply business with his father, paid fines totaling $30 in the Speeders' court yesterday. He was charged with driving 75 miles an hour in Sheridan road and resisting arrest. Policeman Arthur Peters of Lincoln park, testified the squad car chased Jones for three and a half miles last Friday, overtaking him at Lawrence avenue.

MAN DRIPS BLOOD TWICE A WEEK; WOUNDS NATURAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, April 15.—Portugal is excited by a remarkable occurrence which, it is declared, has been taking place for weeks in the town of Lamego in northern Portugal. It is stated that Maria Conceicao Jesus, aged 40, a servant of a well known family, sheds drops of blood from natural open wounds on his head, breast, hands and feet invariably on Tuesday and Friday of each week. The phenomenon is reported to have been repeated yesterday before Dr. Carlos Guedas, Dr. Arnaldo Frais, and the editor of the newspaper Seculo.

Dr. James R. Robertson, Educator and Author, Dies

Cincinnati, O., April 15.—[Special.]—Dr. James Rood Robertson, 68, prominent educator and author since 1908 and head of the history and political department at Berea college, died early today in his home in Berea, Ky. He had been suffering from diabetes and intestinal ailments for several months, but had continued to meet his classes until last week. Dr. Robertson was born in Rockford, Ill., May 27, 1864. He received his A. B. degree in 1886 from Beloit college, which conferred upon him in 1924 the honorary degree of doctor of literature. He received his master's degree from the University of Michigan in 1891 and his doctor of philosophy degree from the University of California in 1908.

Military Funeral Rites for Gen. Denison Tomorrow

Military funeral services for Brig. Gen. Franklin A. Denison, I. N. G., retired, the only Negro who ever commanded an American regiment in war time, will be held at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow in the 8th Infantry armory. Gen. Denison, who was 69 years old, died Thursday at his home, 4346 Vincennes avenue. He was a former assistant corporation counsel and former assistant attorney general.

Professor Hopes for School to Use Teaching Machine

Dr. Robert H. Gault, professor of psychology at Northwestern university, yesterday expressed the hope that an institution would soon be established for the training of persons who are both deaf and blind. He has invented a machine called a teletactor which, it is said, passes vibrations to the fingers of deaf persons and enables them to understand sound—to hear through the fingers.

Woman Who Lived in First Hinsdale House Dead at 88

Mrs. Charles Boettger Sr., 88 years old, died yesterday at her home in Naperville of the infirmities of age. For many years she and her husband lived in the first house that was built in Hinsdale. Mrs. Boettger is survived by three sons. Funeral services will be held in the First Congregational church of Hinsdale at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Judge Sprains His Ankle Trying to Board Car

Judge George Fred Rush of the Criminal court was confined to his home at 5719 Blackstone avenue yesterday with a sprained ankle. The judge was thrown to the street and injured on Thursday evening when he tried to board a moving street car near his home.

Viscountess Cowdray Dies; Widow of Oil Magnate

LONDON, April 15.—(AP)—News was received here today of the death at Paris of Annie, Viscountess Cowdray. She was the widow of the first Viscount Cowdray, South American oil magnate, who died in 1927.

BRITAIN RECORDS 8,000 BURGLARY CASES IN A YEAR

Crime Takes Big Jump Since the War.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 15. — There were 8,000 burglaries and housebreakings—housebreakings, under the English law, are daylight burglaries — in London last year, compared to 3,000 in 1913, and 5,700 in 1930. This statement was made in the house of commons today by Sir Herbert Samuel, home secretary, in a review of the crime situation.

SIR HERBERT SAMUEL. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

He also recorded the monthly average for the last few months of 30 raids by automobile bandits, compared to 11 in 1925. More serious crimes, such as murder, showed little change. Last year for all England the total was 109, compared to 111 in 1913. Juvenile crime was at almost a stationary figure—12,900 in 1913 and 11,100 last year.

Calls Record Satisfactory.

These figures, he declared, were satisfactory, considering the growth of population. A remarkable fact was that fewer crimes were committed by elderly people, which he attributed to the dole, old age pension, and other public aids, removing the temptation caused by destitution.

Sir Herbert attributed juvenile crime largely to changed conditions of family life—and breakup of homes and loss of parents as a consequence of the war. He repudiated the charge that the movies are responsible for this class of offense. On the contrary, he held that the movie afforded an innocent distraction, removing young persons from the temptations of the street.

Few Murderers Escape.

Few murderers in England escape. In 1931, out of 109 cases, 99 were disposed of either by execution, suicide, or insanity verdicts, while in a large proportion of the unsolved murders, a solution was known to the police, but evidence was insufficient to convict.

The home secretary hoped for a sensible diminution of crime with the return of prosperity. He repudiated the idea that greater leniency of the courts has led to an increase in crime.

Three Held on Heavy Bond in Rape Cases

Three suspects were held to the grand jury in heavy bonds yesterday by Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Boys' court on charges of rape and robbery. Nine women appeared in court and identified them. The defendants and their bonds are: Richard Kamrowski, 26 years old, 2820 North Marmora avenue, $135,000; James Clarence, 19, of 1924 North Damen avenue, $80,000, and Clarence Hurley, 21, of 2922 North Marmora avenue, $65,000.

DRESS SENT CLEANER BY GANG FIRES PLANT AND KILLS FOREMAN

Philadelphia, Pa., April 15.—[Special.]—Burned in a fire believed to have been started by racketeers, Marcel Goubly, 39, foreman at Barnot, Inc., one of the city's largest cleaning and dyeing plants, died today.

The fire occurred Wednesday night in the firm's main plant, starting in a cleaning machine. Goubely was burned while trying to save dresses in the machine.

G. Earl Smith, president of the plant, described his employe's death as "plain murder," explaining that the fire was caused by a dress which had been "loaded" with chemicals and sent in, he believes, by racketeers who have been trying to levy tribute on the city's 5,000 cleaning and dyeing plants.

The garment flared up when friction caused the chemical to act, and set fire to the cleaning fluid. Smith stated that several minor fires have occurred here since the racketeers have become active.

Private detectives say they have obtained information that a former detective is the head of the extortion gang.

BASIS REVEALED OF SLANDER SUIT AGAINST HEIRESS

New York, April 15.—[Special.]—A new motion for a bill of particulars brought to light today the charges which Miss Jane O'Roark, former show girl, alleges Mrs. Jessie Woolworth Donahue, heiress to the Woolworth millions, verbally made against her. Mrs. Donahue is the defendant in a $100,000 suit for slander brought by Miss O'Roark.

Miss O'Roark says she was accused by Mrs. Donahue of being responsible for the suicide of James P. Donahue, her husband, who died last year of poisoning.

The former show girl also asserts that she was accused of causing Donahue to spend large sums of money and that she was an evil influence.

Mrs. Donahue's attorney claims that further facts are necessary to defend the suit properly, hence today's action.

Pola Negri Says She'll Wed Chicago Multimillionaire

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 15.—(AP)—Pola Negri, Polish screen and stage actress, will marry "a Chicago multimillionaire" in July or August. Arriving from New York to fill a theatrical engagement, Miss Negri said a definite date for the wedding will be announced within a few weeks and until that time she will not disclose the identity of her fiancé. Pola formerly was the wife of Serge Mdvani, Georgian prince, who later married Mary McCormic, opera singer.

Wife Was Fat
No Longer Attractive
Lost Husband's Love!

The above headlines appeared in a New York newspaper of April 4 in connection with a divorce trial that has attracted wide attention.

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal just because they do not know what to do.

If you are fat how would you like to lose it and at the same time gain in physical charm and acquire a clean, clear skin and eyes that sparkle with buoyant health?

Why not do what thousands of women have done to get rid of pounds of unwanted fat? Take one-half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast and keep it up for 30 days. You can help the action of Kruschen by cutting down on pastry and fatty meats and going light on potatoes. Then weigh yourself and see how many pounds you have lost.

Kruschen Salts are a blend of 6 mineral salts most helpful to body health. Best of all, a bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last you for 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Ask any druggist for a bottle and start to lose fat today.

It's the safe way to reduce but be sure you get Kruschen—your health comes first and remember this if you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.

MRS. FRACKELTON, ART PIONEER, TO BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Susan Stuart Frackelton, for many years active in artistic circles in Chicago and Milwaukee, will be held at 11 o'clock today in the Church of the Holy Comforter, Kenilworth. Burial will be in Forest Home cemetery at Milwaukee.

Mrs. Frackelton, who was 85 years old, died Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Herman G. Seeley, at 700 Kent road, Kenilworth. Two sons, Dr. William Frackelton of Sheridan, Wyo., and Dr. Albert Frackelton of Milwaukee, also survive.

Mrs. Frackelton was a pioneer woman potter, and was the first president of the National League of Mineral Painters. She was the designer of the Frackelton blue and gray ware which won awards at the Philadelphia centennial, Chicago World's Fair, and St. Louis and Antwerp expositions. Specimens of the ware are now in a number of museums in the United States and Europe.

In later years Mrs. Frackelton became known as a craftsman of illuminated books. She worked two years on a memorial volume for John Plankington, pioneer Milwaukee packer. The book, which was ornamented with silver, pearls and amethysts, was finished in 1913 at a cost of $20,000. She served 25 years as chairman of the open door committee of the Chicago Woman's club, and only recently finished an illuminated book of donors to the club as her contribution to its new building.

Sister Seeks Whereabouts of Catherine Stancale

Miss Alice Stancale of Brooklyn, N. Y., has asked THE TRIBUNE and the New York Daily News to assist her in finding her sister, Miss Catherine Stancale, 23 years old, who is reported to have been connected in some capacity with the Evanston hospital from 1927 to 1929. Since then her whereabouts has been unknown to her relatives. The missing woman left Butler, Pa., in 1926. Her sister says it is vitally important that she be found and asks that any information concerning her be sent to the City Editor of THE TRIBUNE.

LAUNCH DRIVE TO CHECK RISE IN T. B. DEATHS

Chicago's death rate from tuberculosis revealed a slight increase in 1931, attributable to the economic slump. During the next two weeks, an intensive drive to disseminate information and instruction to counteract the influence of lowered standards of living will be conducted by the Chicago Tuberculosis institute, with Dr. Allen K. Krause of Tucson, Ariz., leading the fight.

Every depression in history, Dr. Krause said yesterday on his arrival in Chicago, has been followed by an increase in deaths from tuberculosis. This was especially noticeable in central Europe after the world war, where marked rises were experienced in the mortality rate from tuberculosis because of depleted food supplies.

Dr. Krause's work in this "early diagnosis" campaign will be launched publicly with a dinner in his honor on Monday evening at the Medinah Athletic club, to be given by the Chicago Tuberculosis institute. He will make a number of addresses and conduct clinics in the city and county.

Robs Loop Restaurant, Waves Gun at Diners

RISE OF INSULL POWER EMPIRE EPIC OF TIMES

BY O. A. MATHER.

In modern American industry few individuals have had such a vivid career as Samuel Insull, Chicago public utility magnate. He built an empire of electric power and, in so doing, won both influence and a fortune estimated as high as $100,000,000. Now it is doubtful whether the vast system of Insull public utilities will hold together as a unified system. As for Mr. Insull's personal fortune, that is gone.

Samuel Insull was born in London in 1859. His parents were in moderate circumstances, so the son obtained a middle class education until he was 14 years old. Then he started to work as an office boy at $1.25 a week. He used his spare time to study bookkeeping and stenography. This fitted him to answer an advertisement for a part time secretary needed by the London agent of Thomas A. Edison, inventor of the electric light.

Edison Brings Him to U. S.

Young Insull proved an able secretary and the London agent called Mr. Edison's attention to him. Edison responded by ordering that Insull be sent to this country. He arrived in New York in 1880 and reported to Edison's home in Menlo Park, N. J. In the next ten years Insull became Edison's chief assistant. He helped to organize companies to use Edison's inventions.

Mr. Insull became general manager of one of the Edison plants in Schenectady, N. Y., then second vice president of the Edison General Electric company, into which the various Edison companies were consolidated in 1889. He became second vice president of the General Electric company, which merged the Edison and Thompson-Houston companies in 1892.

These experiences and offices, occupying 12 years, were the background for Insull's entry into the electrical industry in the middle west. In 1892, the Chicago Edison company, which was one of several concerns serving Chicago with electric light and power, needed a new president. The owners besought Insull to suggest a man—and Insull immediately suggested himself. So he came to Chicago.

One Power Company Here.

Mr. Insull had learned the advantages of corporate mergers in the east. He arranged a merger of the various Chicago concerns in 1907 into the Commonwealth Edison company, which thus became the sole producer and distributor of power for the city. It was natural that Insull should be retained as president.

A less ambitious man might have been satisfied with going along with the natural growth of an electric power company in a rapidly growing metropolis. But Insull's ambition broadened to a vision of a great power system outside of cities. For example, he gathered together a number of small companies in towns northwest of Chicago, and extended and improved their service. And thus the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois was born with Insull at its head.

Middle West Is Born.

Then Insull's ambition leaped forward again. He believed he could do for the more remote towns and even the rural communities what he had done around Chicago. He conceived the idea of linking up a number of smaller companies in the middle west under control of a holding corporation which would own a minority interest in their capitalization. Thus the Middle West Utilities company came into being in 1912. It was rapidly expanded to one of the greatest holding companies in the United States, with subsidiaries in most of the states east of the Rocky mountains.

Takes on Peoples Gas.

Up to 1918 Mr. Insull had confined his efforts chiefly to the electrical field. While he was building up his power companies, the gas producing industry in Chicago was centered in the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company. But this company was not doing well and at the end of the world war was on the verge of bankruptcy. The directors invited Insull to take charge of it, which he did, but with considerable misgiving, it was said.

Insull plunged into the task of resuscitating Peoples Gas. The company needed new plants, as well as a general overhauling of its facilities. But it had no money and its credit was too poor either to borrow or sell additional securities. Insull went east and enlisted the financial aid of the Mellon interests, with the result that their Pittsburgh company agreed to build a plant in Chicago to supply gas under contract to the Peoples Gas company. Insull stipulated, however, that the Chicago company should have the right to buy the plant when able. That option was exercised within a few years, after Insull had rebuilt Peoples Gas into a strong and prosperous company with large earnings.

Insull as a Financier.

Such in brief is the story of Samuel Insull as an industrialist, a pioneer of great enterprises. Now for a picture of Insull as a financier and custodian of the savings of several hundred thousand investors.

The swift and tremendous expansion of the various Insull enterprises required vast amounts of capital. Year after year, Insull obtained the necessary money by selling additional stock to stockholders, large bond issues to other investors, banks, and insurance companies, and floating large bank loans. As earnings of the properties increased, the dividends to stockholders also were raised and the prices of Insull securities rose.

Then came the great stock market

INTERSTATE SCOPE OF INSULL INTERESTS

Chicago's business life. McCulloch is chairman, treasurer and a director of the John R. Thompson company, vice president and director of the Omnibus corporation and also a director of the First National and First Union Trust and Savings banks, the Chicago Great Western railroad, Chicago Motor Coach company, Lawrence Stern & Co., Manhattan-Dearborn company, Fifth Avenue Bus company, Lakeside Securities company, New York Railways corporation, Fifth Avenue Securities corporation, the Chicago National league ball club, and the Arlington Park Jockey club.

On War Shipping Board.

Mr. Hurley is chairman and a director of the Electrical Household Utilities company a: : also a director of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, the Studebaker corporation, North American Light and Power company, Wilson & Co., several of the Chicago traction lines and several other companies. He served as war time head of the United States shipping board. From these positions both Mr. McCulloch and Mr. Hurley, it will be seen, are familiar with the operation of large public utilities.

The hearing on the receivership petition of the Lincoln Printing company developed about the same grounds set forth when the petition was filed Thursday. Attorney Thurlow G. Essington, representing the company, read the complaint alleging that the Middle West Utilities company, with its vast holdings of securities of subsidiaries, was unable to meet its obligations because of the greatly depreciated value of these securities. He asserted that an equity receivership was the only possible constructive relief for both stockholders and creditors. He said a receivership would prevent a multiplicity of suits and disintegration of the company.

Brief Answer Made.

Attorney William L. Latimer, counsel for Middle West Utilities, made a brief answer admitting the allegations in the petition and consenting to the appointment of receivers. This action bore out the fact that the receivership was a friendly proceedings.

The hearing was interrupted by W. A. Leopold, an attorney representing a small stockholder. He argued that the company in its last financial report claimed a surplus of around $6,000,000 and a cash reserve of about $2,000,000. He objected to appointment of receivers, arguing that this action would help bank creditors and be detrimental to the stockholders. After some discussion between the attorney and Judge Lindley, the former was granted leave to intervene in the proceedings, but his objections to a receivership was overruled.

Another incidental legal move was the filing of an involuntary bankruptcy action by three Middle West Utilities noteholders. Their petition alleged the company is insolvent and that several small preferential payments had been made within the last three months to a number of creditors, including the Lincoln Printing company and two banks. No action was taken on the petition.

Consent to Receivership.

The appointment of Mr. White as receiver for the three subsidiaries of Middle West Utilities resulted from a petition filed last Tuesday on behalf of Howard J. Umland, a stockholder and bondholder, by the law firm of Teller, Levit, Silvertrust & Levi. Attorneys for the companies consented to the receivership.

The petition set forth that the United Public Service company has borrowed $5,400,000 from Middle West Utilities on notes and has defaulted interest payments on its bonds. The United Public Utilities company and the Southern United Gas companies also have defaulted interest payments.

Receiver White is vice president of the Central Republic company, investment affiliate of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company. The bank, however, has no interest in the receivership and Mr. White was appointed because of his familiarity with public utility operations.

Action Brought in East.

Wilmington, Del., April 15.—(AP)—Five common stock holders of the Middle West Utilities company filed an application for the appointment of receivers in Chancery court here today.

The bill alleges the directors of the company have invested and reinvested the assets of the company in stock of its subsidiary companies and have negligently and improperly advanced to subsidiaries $25,176,000 out of assets without ample security.

The directors are alleged to have negligently and improperly used assets amounting to $260,000,000 without due and proper regard to the true and fair market value of the stock purchased with the assets.

The bill asks the court to authorize receivers to sell all or part of the company's properties or to dissolve the company if such action shall be found to be to the best interests of the company, its stockholders and creditors.

INDIANA INSULL COMPANY SUED AS TAX DODGER

Bloomington, Ind., April 15.—[Special.]—Suit for $90,000 damages against the Insull-owned Public Service Company of Indiana was filed in Monroe Circuit court today by the Monroe county board of commissioners.

The complaint charges that the utility company evaded payment of $79,659.30 in taxes on its property in this county during the last six years, from 1926 to 1931, inclusive, by alleged fraudulent methods in having its property assessed by the state tax board.

The state tax board, it is charged in the complaint, set an arbitrary value on the property of the Public Service company, which deprived Monroe county of thousands of dollars due from the tax board.

Canadian Railroad Board Announces Exchange Rate

OTTAWA, April 15.—(AP)—The board of railway commissioners announced today that the rate of exchange for New York funds, governing from April 15 to 30, inclusive, will be 11 per cent premium. During this period the rate of surcharge on international freight and express shipments will be 7 per cent, and the passenger surcharge will be based on an 11 per cent exchange.

Edison, Gas Stocks Rise in Mart Here

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The atmosphere in the financial community cleared up yesterday with the unecrtainty over the Insull situation out of the way. A buoyant display of strength was shown by securities here and in New York with the Insull issues sharing conspicuously in the advance.

Outstanding gains were scored by the stocks of the Insull operating companies as it became increasingly apparent that their positions are not impaired by the Middle West Utilities receivership.

Appointment by the federal court of three friendly receivers for the holding company, one of whom is Samuel Insull, was interpreted in market circles as meaning that the common stockholders may fare better in this instance than is usually the case when the affairs of a large company are directed in this manner.

Middle West Stock Rises.

Supporting this view was the good buying which appeared in Middle West common and lifted the price a fraction to 37½ cents, as compared to the low quotations earlier in the week of 12½ cents. It was reliably reported in brokerage circles that buying orders for more than 200,000 shares at 12½ cents have been placed in the last few days. The stock failed to dip to that price yesterday, the lowest price reached being 25 cents. Nearly 43,000 shares of stock appeared on the Chicago exchange tape.

Belated short covering coupled with a good volume of orders from diverse sources sent the prices of the operating stocks hurrying forward again. The buying represented no large commitments but came from many different purchasers, according to brokers.

Edison was in good demand throughout the day, reaching a high price of above 74 and closing at 71, with a net gain of 5½ points. The issue was selling ex dividend the regular quarterly payment of $2. Public Service $100 common, also selling ex dividend, climbed 12 points to 60, with the preferred stocks trailing with smaller gains. The no par common soared 13 points to 63 on the heaviest trading in several weeks.

While the active Insull stocks had fully discounted the Middle West receivership prior to the actual appointment several of the inactive issues appearing on the tape yesterday reflected the recent developments.

National Public Service Drops.

The preferred stock of National Public Service, one of the eastern holding companies of the Middle West system, sold at 8, off 7½ from its last previous price. The preferred of another subsidiary, Northwest Utilities, was quoted at 10, compared with the last price of 23.

North American Light and Power, which Middle West jointly controls with North American company, rallied 2½ points to 7. Trading in the Middle West debentures on the New York curb was quiet. Each series showed moderate price improvement with the June, 1932, maturity closing at 11.

HEARING ON CITY GAS RATE FIGHT IS CONTINUED

Hearing of the case of the city of Chicago against the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company on the rate to be fixed for natural-manufactured gas was continued to April 26 after a half day session before the Illinois commerce commission yesterday. Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman, cross-examining William G. Rudd, vice president of the company, elicited the admission that use of either natural or manufactured gas for house heating might cause chimneys to deteriorate. Mr. Rudd said that to his knowledge the company did not contemplate relining damaged chimneys.

$997,700 Gold Withdrawn for Shipment to France

New York, April 15.—(AP)—Gold transactions today included exports of $1,596,200, of which $997,700 was withdrawn for shipment to France. This loss in the country's monetary stock was partly offset by a $395,000 decrease in earmark account.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 15.—The share market carried on very nicely today. Nobody permitted his enthusiasm to get out of bounds, but cheerfulness was the word all around and the buyers had it by a good safe margin. The gains averaged from a fraction to 2 points or so.

Over night news of the Middle West Utilities receivership action seemed to clear the atmosphere in that direction and remove a situation which has been overhanging the department for some time. Traders took the position that it had been amply discounted by the developments of the last few days or so and proceeded to reach for stocks they deemed to have been sadly oversold.

Utilities in Sharp Gain.

The news of the arrangement for extending nearby maturities of several of the Electric Bond and Share properties was another helpful influence. The combined result was to give the utilities the leadership in the rally which set in late yesterday afternoon. Gains among the more active issues of the group ranged as high as 6 points.

Peoples Gas, the Chicago utility favorite, was about the biggest spectacular feature of the day, rising more than 9 points on fairly spirited trading. At one time the stock soared within a small fraction of 70, as compared with its low of 50½, registered yesteray morning. Some selling came into the stock before the close, sinking it to 66½, but the net result was to give it a net gain of some 16 points in the last 24 hours.

Helped by Statement.

The sudden burst of strength in the stock was due, of course, to the reassuring statement of Samuel Insull yesterday in which he made it plain that the troubles of his companies affected by the bankruptcy suit did not extend to this and two other of his corporations. The 16 point upturn in the issue since the announcement came out was emphasized still further by a report that a very substantial block of the shares had changed hands privately yesterday morning at levels 10 points under the recorded low.

American Telephone failed to share in the popular buoyance of its group, in spite of the fact that its first quarter earnings results were somewhat better than recent unofficial forecasts had indicated. The close found the stock more than a point below its previous close. Gains of from 1 to 2½ points or more were the rule in such issues as American Power and Light, Public Service of New Jersey, Electric Power and Light, Standard Gas, Consolidated Gas, Pacific Lighting, Southern California Edison, American Water Works, and Columbian Gas. Brooklyn Union rose 6 points on a small turnover.

A Bright Spot.

Allied Chemical was a bright spot among the specialties, rising 1¾ points, which just about recovered the $1.50 quarterly dividend deducted today when the stock sold ex-dividend. The preferred issue spurted more than 6 points. Short covering against weekend eventualities helped International Business Machine considerably.

Early strength in wheat prices gave Case Threshing Machine a little tilt, but the issue fell back later, closing unchanged from last night.

Auburn Auto broke 5½ points to a new low of 42, upsetting the rest of the motor group as it did so. General Motors and Chrysler improved fractionally on late afternoon covering.

In spite of today's extension of the rally, brokers were warning their customers that considerable liquidation is probably still overhanging the market and counseling against undue enthusiasm until the way clears further ahead.

Urges Canadian National Sale to Canadian Pacific

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 15.—Declaring that the people of Canada were "Throwing away" $3,500,000 a week on the Canadian National railway system, Dr. Follin H. Pickel, Conservative M. P., urged today in the house of commons that the publicly owned railway be sold to the Canadian Pacific.

"The C. N. R. should be in the hands of receivers," Dr. Pickel declared, in today's budget debate. "It is no credit to the people of Canada to continue its operation. I think it will be advisable to open negotiations to dispose of the property. The only visible receivers of the property are the Canadian Pacific railway."

Baldwin Locomotive Gets $759,000 Business in March

New York, April 15.—(AP)—The Baldwin Locomotive Works in March booked business to the amount of $759,000, compared with $75,000 in February and $1,442,000 in March, 1931. For the March quarter bookings totaled $2,295,000, compared with $6,201,000 in the first quarter of 1931. Shipments in March were $1,118,000, against $1,069,000 in February and $2,014,000 in March, 1931. First quarter shipments totaled $3,063,000, against $6,450,000 in the 1931 period.

Grain Profit Seen as Only Book Keeping

BY SCRUTATOR.

The Farmers' National Grain corporation, according to its general manager, George S. Milnor, has been a money maker for the wheat farmers. This corporation is the farm board's wheat marketing instrumentality.

"We have made a profit of $2,500,000 since we began operating," Mr. Milnor told 500 producers and elevator managers at the recent annual meeting of the Illinois Grain corporation at Peoria. "That money belongs to you."

This $2,500,000 is a bookkeeping profit. As nearly as can be determined from the meager facts that the farm board's various corporations make known about themselves a considerable part of this $2,500,000 represents all that stuck to the dish when the farm board poured out $110,000,000 of the taxpayers' money in its tragic attempt to manipulate wheat prices to "relieve" the farmer.

A Running Mate.

The Grain Stabilization corporation, of which Mr. Milnor is president, is a running mate of the Farmers' National Grain corporation. The Stabilization corporation's job has been to manipulate prices for wheat by buying and selling on the exchange. Last fall the senate agricultural committee was informed that the Stabilization corporation had lost $110,000,000 in its futile speculations.

To what extent the Stabilization corporation's sales and purchases of wheat were made through the Farmers' National Grain corporation neither concern has made clear. Some of the transactions were handled by the Updike Grain company and some by the Rural Grain company, both subsidiaries of the Farmers' National Grain corporation. It is evident, however, that the Stabilization corporation while strewing the $110,000,000 along its primrose path let some of the money fall in the front yard of the Farmers' National Grain corporation.

At the same meeting in Peoria G. C. Johnstone, president of the Illinois Grain corporation, stated that the Farmers' National Grain corporation had handled 400 million bushels during the first two years of its existence at a cost of 1 cent per bushel and a net profit of 2.3 cents per bushel. The 1 cent per bushel, he said, included all organization expense of setting up a national marketing machine.

Must Be Favorable.

It has been the history of government in business that accounting is not permitted to put an unfriendly light upon things that might have a political significance.

The Farmers' National Grain corporation started out two years ago with a capitalization of 20 million dollars, but with only about $600,000 cash contributed by members. Making $2,500,000 profit on a $600,000 investment in two depression years would be quite an achievement. The corporation, however, not only got a cut on the speculative operations of the Stabilization corporation but it had a line of cheap credit with the farm board and tapped the revolving fund for millions at an interest rate of less than 2 per cent. In February it owed the farm board 16 million dollars.

Raises Other Points.

It would be interesting to know how much the Farmers' National Grain corporation's alleged $2,500,000 profit would shrink if it did not include part of the money lost by its companion, the Stabilization corporation, and also if it made allowance for the spread between the rate charged the Farmers' National Grain corporation on borrowings from the farm board and the rate paid by the government on money borrowed from investors and lent to the corporation by way of the farm board.

The $2,500,000 profit is not dealt out to farmers as a cash dividend. The local cooperatives simply get more stock in the big cooperative. Nothing could be more consistent—a bookkeeping dividend paid out of a bookkeeping profit.

Construction Materials Earns $2.32 on Preferred

Construction Materials corporation reports for the year ended Dec. 31, net earnings of $174,376 after all charges, equivalent to $2.32 a share on the outstanding preference stock. This compares with $414,854 in the previous year. The balance sheet shows current assets of $2,197,975 to pay current liabilities of $968,434. In the assets were cash of $208,224, and accounts and notes receivable of $1,145,738, of which $959,271 consists of city of Chicago assessment bonds, tax warrants, and open accounts.

Production of Pig Lead Will Be Cut 3,000 Tons

Production of pig lead will be reduced from 3,000 to 4,000 tons monthly, it is estimated, through the suspension of the St. Joseph Lead company's smelter at Herculanum, Mo., scheduled for May 1.

SINCLAIR OIL GROUP'S LOSSES ARE $22,010,172

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 15.—The Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation and subsidiaries operated at a loss of $22,010,172 the thirteen months ended Jan. 31, 1932, the annual report made public today reveals.

The report was issued under the name of Consolidated Oil corporation to which the name of the company was changed as of March 31 when the merger with the Prairie Oil and Gas company and the Prairie Pipe Line company went into effect. The figures, however, are exclusive of operations of those two companies. In the year 1931 the company earned a profit of $12,026,424 or $1.77 a share on the common stock after preferred dividends.

Dividends Out of Surplus.

The company paid dividends totaling $2,839,888, which were provided from surplus, making a total loss of $24,850,060. The balance of earned surplus on hand Dec. 31, 1930, was $40,363,852 and adjustments applicable to prior years brought it up to $40,847,825. After deducting dividends and net loss from operations a balance of $15,997,764 remained as of Jan. 31, 1932.

The total sales of the Sinclair organization for the thirteen months under consideration were $140,649,112, exclusive of intercompany transactions and costs, operating and general expenses, aggregated $131,766,366, leaving an operating profit of $8,882,745, which was reduced to $8,711,918 by loss on sale of properties. Interest charges amounted to $4,643,214, while reserves for depreciation, depletion, and amortization amounted to $26,076, making total deductions of $30,722,090 and a net loss of $22,010,172.

During the period of thirteen months covered by the report the funded debt and preferred stock in the hands of the public was reduced by $4,757,300, says H. F. Sinclair, chairman of the executive committee.

Develop Texas Field.

Expenditures for the development of and additions to the property during the period amounted to $21,528,000. The company spent $5,333,000 on oil and gas leases in the United States. Of that $4,000,000 was spent in developing producing properties in the east Texas oil field. Improvements to refineries cost $8,098,000, additional marketing facilities in the United States and abroad $1,617,000, pipe line construction $3,471,000, and construction of tank ships, $1,000,000.

"Operations of the corporation in 1931 were carried on under the difficulties of the severe business depression, and in our own industry the unfavorable conditions were marked by low prices and in some departments a slackening of demand," Mr. Sinclair says. "The maladjustment ing the price of crude oil and refined products has continued the return on refined products not justifying even the prices—less as a rule than cost of production—at which crude has been sold.

Would Regulate Output.

"Improvement in the oil business will, of course, largely depend on betterment in general conditions. There are evidences, however, in our own industry of a purpose to avoid overproduction and to place the marketing of petroleum products, especially gasoline, upon a sounder basis, restrict the multiplication of service stations and limit excessive margins. It is by these means that the earning power of the industry can be restored."

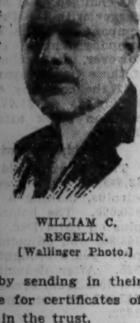
RIVAL BODIES BID FOR FAVOR OF BONDHOLDERS

New Trust; Old Committee Seeks Securities.

If you have a defaulted real estate bond and haven't been able to get the desired information regarding it from the bondholders' protective committee or from other sources, The Tribune may be of assistance to you. Write to "The Tribune Real Estate Bond Service, Chicago Tribune." Don't ask for information regarding more than one issue at a time. Give name of underwriter and full title of the bond. Inquiries must be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.

BY AL CHASE.

What promises to develop into a lively battle for the favor of bondholders by rival protective organizations was started yesterday by the newly formed Public Service Realty trust, when it inaugurated its recently announced campaign to assemble a portfolio of realty holdings by acquiring title to the Sheridan Business block, at the southeast corner of Sheridan road and Irving Park boulevard. At the same time the new trust requested bondholders to cooperate by sending in their bonds in exchange for certificates of beneficial interest in the trust.



WILLIAM C. REGELIN. [Wallinger Photo.]

It was only a week ago that the bondholders' protective committee for issues underwritten by the American Bond and Mortgage company sent letters to these same bondholders asking that they deposit their securities with the Chicago Title and Trust company, or two other eastern depositaries, in order to assist in the reorganization of the property.

Trustee Collects Income.

The three story store and apartment building was financed through an American Bond and Mortgage company bond issue of $180,000, which has since been reduced to $166,500. Since Nov. 1, 1931, when the owner defaulted interest, the income of the property has been collected by the trustee under the bond issue in the interests of the bondholders, in accordance with a surrender of possession secured from the owner by the bondholders' protective committee, of which Craig B. Hazelwood is chairman.

But to get back to the other firing line: William C. Regelin, a vice president of the Public Service Realty trust, last night declared that the acquirement of title to the Sheridan Business block was the initial step in the trust's program.

Regelin Explains Program.

"This organization, recently established to work out the liquidation of frozen real estate securities, is instituting a campaign to merge the equity and the first mortgage interests in this property," he said. "The plan adopted provides for acquiring the outstanding bonds in exchange for certificates of beneficial interest in the Public Service Realty trust with a cumulative yield of 4½ per cent, with the ultimate goal of acquiring the entire issue and forestalling receivership and foreclosure with their attendant expenses."

Nathan Manilow, general manager of the organization, stated that since the trust is now the owner of the equity it consequently holds the right of redeeming the property if the bondholders' protective committee should buy the property in at foreclosure. Marie G. Krumrine is president of the new trust. Other officers are Arthur Lueder and Mr. Regelin, vice presidents; L. B. Harris, treasurer, and Benjamin L. Coolidge, secretary. Niels N. Vierup will supervise the property management.

WOOL GROWERS ASK FOR APPEAL ON YARD RATES

Salt Lake City, April 15.—(AP)—The National Wool Growers association and the American National Live Stock association today requested Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, to appeal to the United States Supreme court from recent federal court decisions on stockyards charges at Denver and St. Joseph, Mo.

A three judge court held that the secretary's order of last July 28, reducing yardage charges at Denver should be suspended pending a revision of the valuation of the yards. Another three judge court made permanent an injunction granted last fall against the secretary's order reducing yardage charges at St. Joseph until the secretary has conducted a hearing into economic conditions.

In urging that an appeal be taken from the Denver decision, Secretary W. R. Marshall of the Wool Growers association and F. E. Mollin of the Live Stock association also asked that the valuation of the Denver yards property be brought down to date. The former valuation was made in 1929 and expenses of operation were based upon the same year. The representatives of the live stock shippers contend that determination of values and expenses as of 1931 will justify a still lower rate of charges than was prescribed in Secretary Hyde's order of last July.

boom. The Insull companies, like many others, periodically offered rights to purchase additional stocks, usually at par, to their stockholders. As prices of the stocks rose these rights became more and more valuable. And as the rights rose in value the stocks on which the rights were based also went higher. It was a tremendous pyramiding of prices.

Goes Into Investment Trusts.

But was it even unbridled public speculation that caused the chief Insull stocks to soar to $300, to $400, and even above $500 a share? Or were there causes and events in which Mr. Insull played a part that lifted prices to such heights? Apparently Mr. Insull believed a "new era" of unexampled prosperity and values had arrived.

At all events, in 1928 Mr. Insull announced the formation of an investment company, Insull Utility Investments, Inc., to buy and hold stocks of the various Insull operating companies and the Middle West Utilities company. Successive large issues of stocks and bonds of Insull Utility Investments were sold to the public. The company bought Insull operating company stocks and then pledged these stocks for bank loans in order to buy still more stocks. In all, it invested around $250,000,000.

And Yet Another One.

But Mr. Insull found need for still another investment company and organized the Corporation Securities Company of Chicago in 1929. This company pursued a course similar to that of Insull Utility Investments and it invested around $150,000,000. Between them, these companies expended about $400,000,000.

In founding both companies Mr. Insull announced that they were to perpetuate control of the great Chicago operating companies and of Middle West Utilities. He exchanged his own large holdings of stocks in his companies for the common shares of the investment companies. In this way he transferred the bulk of his personal fortune. And with the crash of these investment companies the fortunes of the Insull family have been practically wiped out.

Wages Titanic Brittle.

Samuel Insull has confessed poor judgment in guiding the investments of Insull Utility Investments and Corporation Securities of Chicago. But Chicago financiers have never been quite satisfied with that explanation, and one or two of them tell a story that seems more in keeping with Insull's career. It is the story of a titanic battle, involving hundreds of millions of dollars, waged by Insull to save control of his utility chain. The version of this battle, in which millions of dollars were moved as pawns on a chessboard, is about as follows:

In 1926 the Otis-Eaton interests of Cleveland formed a big investment trust, Continental Shares, Inc. This group of wealthy industrialists and bankers, headed by Cyrus S. Eaton, had made financial history by their successful operations in the steel and railroad fields. They decided to broaden their operations to include the public utility field.

Eaton's Eye on Insull Shares.

The Insull public utilities are said to have been regarded by the Eaton interests as a favorable field for investment and they began buying the stocks of Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, and Public Service through Continental Shares. Continuous buying of these stocks at advancing prices finally led Mr. Insull to hunt out the source of the demand and he sensed a possibility that the Cleveland group sought to win control.

Then the battle of the millions began. At first Mr. Insull threw his own considerable fortune into the fight and his operating companies also used a moderate part of the excess resources in buying their own stocks. Naturally this competitive buying sent prices of the Insull stocks higher in the stock markets. But the Eaton group countered by increasing the capital of Continental Shares and adding still further to their holdings. Samuel Insull fought back by organizing Insull Utility Investments and Corporation Securities, which permitted him to pour new millions into the great battle.

Eaton Expands, Too.

The Eaton interests expanded Continental Shares into a $156,000,000 company and, besides, they had additional large resources in other big companies in their control. But Insull raised upwards of $200,000,000 through his investment companies and gained the upper hand in the battle.

During the financial struggle the prices of Insull stocks had been driven up to abnormal heights, even for the great bull market. Commonwealth Edison rose above 449, Peoples Gas forged ahead to 404, and Public Service jumped to 435. These were the peak prices established in 1929. But the battle went on even after the crash of the markets in the autumn. It was just a question of endurance and resources.

At the end of 1929 Continental Shares held 66,435 shares of Commonwealth Edison, bought at an average of $244 a share; 45,300 shares of People's Gas at $245, and 11,920 shares of Public Service at $234.50. And on March 31, 1930, it had increased its Commonwealth Edison holdings to 72,000 shares, while maintaining its other holdings.

Eaton Interests Capitulate.

The battle went over into 1930, but eventually the Eaton interests had to capitulate. Besides their fight with Insull, they had another fight on their hands. They controlled the Republic Steel corporation and also were large holders of stock of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company and were fighting to block a merger of Youngstown Sheet with the Bethlehem Steel corporation. However, according to the La Salle street version, the Eaton interests demanded a price for ending their contest with Insull. It was said they threatened to throw their large holdings of stock of the Insull companies into the market, with a resultant smash in prices unless Insull should purchase their holdings, partly for cash and partly with stock in the two Insull investment trusts.

Thus, the statement of Continental Shares at the end of 1930 shows that it had disposed of its holdings in Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas and Public Service stock, but had acquired 70,000 shares of Insull Utility Investments and 70,000 shares of Corporation Securities.

Cleveland Rocket Comes Down.

A Continental Shares report covering the six months ended June 30, 1930, has this to say:

"A very substantial profit was made during the period through the sale of the company's large holdings of Commonwealth Edison company, Peoples Gas and Public Service of Northern Illinois. The first investment in these stocks was made four years ago at prices substantially below the current market prices."

However, the Eaton group ran into serious financial difficulties, and Eaton and his associates resigned from Continental Shares in April last year and its control was assumed by representatives of four large Cleveland banks.

Mr. Insull's financial battle with Eaton was not without cost. Insull Utility and Corporation Securities show costs ranging from $318 and $384 a share for Commonwealth Edison stock; $293 to $296 for Peoples Gas and $282 to $293 for Public Service. These figures explain, to a considerable degree, why combined assets of the Insull investment companies have shrunk $333,000,000 since they were formed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 15.—The Bell Telephone System disconnected 280,000 more telephones than it added during the first quarter of 1932, bringing the number now in service down 4 per cent from the high point reached in 1930. The number of long distance calls was about 13 per cent less than for the first quarter of 1931.

American Telephone and Telegraph company reports for the first quarter of 1932 net income after all charges of $38,699,203, equal to $2.07 a share. This compares with $45,440,578, or $2.53 a share, in the first quarter of 1931.

The earnings report for the first quarter of 1932 reflects the fact that no dividend was paid by the Western Electric company during the period, while $5,900,493 was received from that source in the first quarter of 1931. While final figures are not yet available, the dividends received from associated companies during the first quarter of 1932, amounting to $35,174,104, were not fully earned by these companies during the quarter by approximately $5,000,000.

The regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share paid by American Telephone today went to more than 665,000 stockholders, an increase of about 25,000 in the quarter. For the sixth consecutive quarter the number of shares registered in brokers' names declined, and at the end of the quarter formed only 3 per cent of all shares outstanding, the lowest proportion since March, 1927.

COL. AYRES SEES GREAT ADVANCE IN U. S. FINANCE

Cleveland O., April 15.—(AP)—Great improvement in the country's financial condition during the first quarter of the year, is noted by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, business analyst and a vice president of the Cleveland Trust company, in his monthly survey of business today. He observed that bank suspensions have almost ceased, and money that was being held idle is being returned in a steady flow to the banks, and thus being put back into circulation.

"All over the country," says Col. Ayres, "banks are paying down their indebtedness to the reserve banks, and credit conditions are steadily becoming easier. Nevertheless, bank loans and deposits continue to shrink because of business inactivity, and so we have the anomalous condition of continued credit deflation when credit expansion is needed, and under conditions which should stimulate credit expansion.

"There is little evidence of the normal spring expansion in business activity," Col. Ayres found, but "a concerted and courageous drive for new business is being made everywhere by the manufacturers of low priced automobiles.

SEEK TIGHTER STATE LAW ON SALES OF STOCK

A state-wide movement for a favorable vote on house bill 15 which comes up in the state senate when the general assembly convenes Tuesday, was instituted yesterday at a conference between state officers, bankers, and representatives of investment houses. Sponsored by the Chicago Better Business bureau, the meeting was held in the La Salle hotel.

The bill was introduced to patch the Illinois securities law, part of which was declared invalid by the Supreme court a few months ago. Because licensing provisions were thus made easy, a number of bucket shops, estimated at 50 by Flint Grinnell, manager of the Better Business bureau, have sprung up in Chicago and are endangering public investments.

Attending the meeting, among others, were: Secretary of State William J. Stratton, Rupert F. Bippus, state security commissioner; Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, who introduced the bill in the house, and Senator James J. Barbour, who fostered it in the senate. It passed the house successfully, but efforts to put it through the senate before the recess almost three months ago were not successful.

Goodrich Tire Dealers Meet Here During Exhibition

About 400 tire dealers in the Chicago area of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company met yesterday at the Knickerbocker hotel to hear A. B. Downs, Chicago manager, and A. C. Kelly, central district manager, explain the merchandise exhibit now being held by the company here.

AMERICAN EUROPEAN SECURITIES.

Company's net assets, based on market value as of March 31, amounted to $16,482, equal to 46 cents a share on 354,500 common shares, compared with $1,627,633 of $4.59 a share, on Dec. 31, last.

A larger available supply of hogs yesterday paved the way for a bear raid on prices. The market was carried unevenly lower after a slightly higher opening. The session was the most erratic in recent weeks. There was no dependable outlet except for the lightest weights and the market for these also weakened off late. Support behind the early bulge proved rather flimsy.

Only a small quota, mostly underweights, showed the early 5@15c gain, while the drive to cut costs broke medium and weighty stock fully 10@15c near the close and in spots losses of 25c were cited. A few closely sorted light weight hogs sold up to $4.50, within 5c of the highest price paid for hogs since March 28. The general average for the whole day was steady at $4.00. Traders anticipate a wider range of prices with weighty stock on the bottom.

Packers report a sluggish market for big cuts, but a fairly good clearance for smaller cuts of meat, and lately are more inclined to stay away from heavy hogs. Most of the 5,000 left at the close yesterday were butchers. Receipts latterly carry a larger number of hogs exceeding 250 lbs in weight.

Light weight hogs for delivery next Monday were bid $4.35 on the "to arrive" market yesterday, July offers were lowered 25c to $5.50, while September bids and offers remained unchanged at $5.00 and $5.75, respectively. June lights were bid $4.50.

Cattle Supply Small.

Yesterday's meager supply of cattle was too small to put prices to a test, yet the market turned sluggish after a few small orders had been filled and several lots were carried over on weak to lower bids. No choice grades arrived. The best here averaged 835@1,041 lbs and sold at $6.65. A bigger share of offerings were of the class to go below the $5.00 line, although the bulk of steers sold at $5.00@6.25. The rank and file of cattle are closing about in line with a week ago. Butcher stock sold on a "catch as catch can" trade. Yearling heifers are closing 25@50c below a week ago, but all other classes of butcher stock are steady for the week. Calves held firm at the week's 50c to $1 advance.

Lambs Drop 25@40c.

Reductions of 25@40c were recorded in the lamb market yesterday and prices were pushed back to last week's closing level, with local packers buying at $7.00@7.25 and shippers at $7.40. Shorn stock sold at $6.65. Packers were emphatic in their demands for a reduction, calling attention to increasing supplies at Chicago.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 100 cattle, 5,000 hogs, and 9,000 sheep, against 168 cattle, 5,796 hogs, and 1,919 sheep the previous Saturday, and 227 cattle, 10,714 hogs, and 4,907 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 31,000 to 46,000. G. Dunlap marked 31,000, H. Pattison 32,000, F. M. Sherwood 33,000, William Garrett, J. A. Bunyan, and M. J. Berkery 35,000, J. M. Waters and A. G. Welhener 36,000, W. H. Sapp 37,000, G. W. Chandler, H. S. Turner, and P. Allen 38,000, W. T. Reneker and G. Brittain 39,000, R. Trullinger, F. Knutzen, and R. B. Ellis 40,000, J. T. Brown 42,000, C. Southwick 45,000, and S. Lund 46,000.

WINNER IN ANNUAL RACE OF TRIBUNE'S PAPER FLEET REACHES DOCK IN CHICAGO RIVER. The Chicago Tribune, first of four paper laden boats to reach city after 800 mile race from Thorold, Ont., just after it tied up at 7:15 o'clock last night. The brilliantly lighted near by buildings formed an impressive background. The Tribune was followed, fifty minutes later, by the New York News. The Thorold and the Bennington, the latter a chartered craft, are still on the lake. (Story on page 15.)
